KEY CITY CAPTURED BY NIGERIA TROOPS

LAGOS (Reuters)—Federal Nigerian troops have captured the key eastern university city of Nsukka, 41 miles north of the breakaway capital of Enugu, military headquarters announced today.

Eastern forces of secessionist leader Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu were retreating southward from the city in dissarray, an army statement said.

HEAVY TOLL

Cong Rockets Cripple Base

DA NANG, South Vietnam (CP)—The huge U.S. air base at Da Nang was reeling today from a Viet Cong rocket attack that left eight Americans dead, 173 wounded and 42 airplanes wrecked or crippled.

It was the worst punishment inflicted on the U.S. base which has been hit twice before in the last five months.

The base on the South Vietnam's northern sea coast, launching pad for many of the bombing raids on North Vietnam, was shut down immediately after the attack.

Crews went out to repair one badly cratered 10,000-foot runway and sweep debris off of another.

The Viet Cong fired for 45 minutes early today from two positions 4.3 miles southwest of the huge base.

BARRACKS WRECKED

The attack also wrecked four air force barracks.

U.S. officers identified the rockets as 122-millimetre and of Russian origin. They had said earlier that some of the rockets were 140-millimetre but later reports showed only the smaller were fired.

TOLL MOUNTS

A huge fireball rose over the base and the whole sky turned fiery red as rockets hit ammunition and gasoline dumps and aircraft.

These in turn caused chain explosions to spread along the airield as flaming metal was flung into other aircraft and concussion set off bomb stores.

One rocket went through the roof of an air force barracks before exploding among the sleeping troops and two more of the wooden-frame barracks on either side caught fire and burned to the ground.

WIRE BRIEFS

AMMAN (AP)—Acting Foreign Minister Hatem Zubi of Jordan said today the Jordanian cabinet is willing to resign if necessary for King Hussein to form a new government.

WINNIPEG (CP)—A single-engined aircraft which ran out of fuel when the pilot became lost was found today on Robert's Lake about 125 miles northeast of here. The RCAF said pilot Elvin Rampton and his woman passenger were not hurt.

Hong Kong Bombing

HONG KONG (UPI)—A dynamite bomb believed planted by terrorists shattered a door and smashed windows in the married quarters barracks of Royal Navy enlisted men Saturday night.

Rail Strike Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A local chairman of the Machinists' Union said in Spokane, Wash., today a strike against six western U.S. railways has been ordered for 6 a.m. Sunday. (See page 42)

Surveyor on Course

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Scientists said today the flight of Surveyor IV, hurtling toward a Sunday night landing on the moon, appeared to be the most accurate launch to date.

Newark Looters Busy

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Looters were back in action today and sporadic gunfire crackled down rain-spattered streets as a frightened city, torn by racial rebellion, braced for more Negro rioting after three terrible nights of violence.

The death toll officially was counted at 14, including one white policeman gunned down by a sniper as he chased looters Friday.

In the Friday rioting, from midnight to midnight, the toll was 11, including two boys, 10 and 16 years old.

City Hospital said 13 Negroes died in its wards, 12 from gunshot wounds, and the other of a skull fracture in a riot-connected auto crash.

Detective Fred Toto, with a bullet through a heart artery, died in St. Michael's Hospital.

A night-long curfew was broken by frequent gunfire, from snipers, harassing patrols and from police and guardsmen blasting with rifles and shotguns.

One skirmish was halted by the arrival of armored national guard vehicles after 15 minutes of firing had kept soldiers huddled for safety in store doorways.

EXCHANGE SHOTS

In one 30-minute period just before the curfew expired at dawn, state police exchanged fire with rooftop snipers in three separate incidents.

As daylight came, police still chased looters.

But with the end of the curfew at 6 a.m., traffic began flowing again. All cars had been routed around the Springfield Avenue section because of sporadic sniping.

Showers didn't seem to bother looters who, disregarding police, sneaked back again into already wrecked stores to search out more salvageable merchandise.

Plane Kills Claimed In Mideast Dogfight

(Times News Services)

Israel and Egypt resumed air and ground fighting along the Suez Canal today and Jordan reported a brief exchange of gunfire between Jordanian and Israeli forces along the River Jordan.

Israel claimed its forces had shot down five Soviet-built MiG-21s of the Egyptian air force, four of them in dogfights and one by anti-aircraft fire. Israel admitted losing one plane—to anti-aircraft fire.

Egypt said its forces had downed three Israeli planes. It said all its aircraft had returned safely to their bases.

An Israeli spokesman said three Egyptian MiG-21 jet fighters were shot down in dogfights along the Suez Canal ceasefire line as the two sides renewed artillery duels after a day of sharp fighting Friday in which 33 persons were killed and 58 wounded.

An Egyptian military spokesman quoted by Cairo radio said two of the Israeli aircraft were shot down over Lake Bardawil while the third was downed over the Suez area.

UN observers were en route to the canal area to observe and report on compliance with the UN ceasefire that ended the six-day Middle East war June 10. Fighting has broken out in the area three weekends in a row.

In Amman, a Jordanian military communique said gunfight between Jordanian and Israeli troops broke out near the Damyia Bridge in the northern part of the Jordan Valley. It said Jordan had filed a complaint with the UN Security Council in New York.

The communique claimed the Israelis opened fire on a Jordanian patrol and that the patrol fired back, inflicting some casualties on the Israelis. It added that the Israelis reinforced their positions and fired twice more at the Jordanians. There were no casualties among the Jordanians, the communique said.

The new clashes along the Suez Canal ranged from Port Toufiq on the southern tip of the waterway to the Great Bitter Lake and a railway bridge at Firdan, north of Ismailia, about midway up the canal, an Israeli Army communique said.

Israel launched similar air attacks Friday to allow it to evacuate dead and wounded soldiers, it said, after other methods failed to silence the Egyptian artillery.

It said seven Israeli soldiers were killed and more than 22 wounded by Egyptian artillery, mortars and tanks on the canal's west bank.

Egypt said at least 26 Egyptians, including civilians, were killed and 36 wounded by Israeli shelling all along the canal. It accused Israel of "wanton aggression."

The flare-up was the longest of 13 clashes since the end of the June 5-10 Arab-Israeli war, in which Israeli troops captured the canal's east bank.

ISRAEL ASKS CEASEFIRE

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Israel asked today for United Nations intervention with Egypt to obtain an immediate and total ceasefire in the Suez Canal sector.

The Israeli delegate, Gideon Rafael, requested UN Secretary-General U Thant to instruct the UN chief of staff in the Middle East, Lt.-Gen. Odd Bull, to make the formal approach to Cairo.

COUNCIL STANDS BY TO ACT ON BATTLE

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Security Council members today stood by for a possible weekend meeting following new clashes in the Suez Canal zone. (See story Page 2.)

The fighting on Friday, along with new action reported today, acted as a spur to United Nations efforts to force Israel to withdraw its troops from Arab territory.

Israel was on notice, for a second time, to give up control of the Old City of Jerusalem which it seized from Jordan in last month's fighting and now has absorbed through legislation enacted by parliament.

Ninety-nine member states, including Canada, voted Friday night for a General Assembly resolution sponsored by Pakistan deploring the Israeli action and calling for its annulment.

LEAVES FOR CANADA

De Gaulle to Boost Separatism Drive?

PARIS (AP) — Informed sources have described President de Gaulle's trip to Canada, which he started today from Brest, France, as a mission to encourage French-Canadian separatism.

De Gaulle and his advisers believe the Quebec separatist movement will result in autonomy within the next decade and want France to profit by it, the informants said.

They added that the French president, therefore, will stress the cultural and historical bonds between Quebec and the "mother country," hoping to pull French Canada farther away from the federal government in Ottawa and toward Paris.

NATURAL MOVE

They made a point of saying, however, that the separatist movement began on its own and would have led naturally to France, with or without de Gaulle.

In Brest, the president boarded the 8,270-ton cruiser Colbert, flagship of France's Mediterranean fleet, for the five-day trans-Atlantic crossing.

NINE-STOREY DEATH PLUNGE

Her name was withheld.

Police said they found the nude body of a woman, about 30 years old, in a parking lot.

A 38-year-old man was being questioned in connection with the death.

PREMIER BENNETT HAILS EXPO ON B.C. DAY

'Turning Point for Young Nation'

MONTREAL — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia described Expo 67 today as the turning point for a young nation which needed to convince itself that it possessed "all the qualities of greatness."

Speaking at an open-air ceremony at Place des Nations as the world's fair marked British Columbia Day, the premier said:

"In one giant stroke here, on these magic islands in the St. Lawrence River, the people of Canada have proved to themselves that no task set for himself by man and his world is a task beyond the capacity of Canadians to carry it out."

Mr. Bennett spoke after the raising of the B.C. flag and after he and Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes were welcomed to Expo by Pierre Dupuy, commissioner-general of the world's fair.

About 1,500 Expo visitors, a majority of them apparently from B.C., turned out for the ceremony under a warm, summer sun and burst forth with cheers and applause as Mr. Bennett spoke.

After the ceremony, Gen. Pearkes and Mr. Bennett proceeded to the centre of Place des Nations and exchanged handshakes and greetings with numerous visitors from B.C. The party then proceeded to tour the pavilion of the Western Provinces.

During his address Mr. Bennett told the crowd at Place des Nations Expo's greatest contribution has been to demonstrate to Canadians "not just to the world but once and for all to ourselves—that there is in our nation an unlimited capacity for excellence."

He said Canada has accomplished great goals through its first 100 years as a nation but there has always been an undercurrent of feeling "that our progress was made under

Trip Around the World Might Develop for You

By TED GASKELL

And if you don't click for the globe-girdling, then there are four other exotic trips you can take aim at.

The contest, which opens July 22 and ends Sept. 2, is for black and white snapshots taken since July 1 last year.

There are three categories: The World in Which We live; People of the World, and Birds and Animals of the World.

Each week of the contest The Times will give a $10 prize in each category and at the end of the contest give a $25 prize for the best over-all picture in each category.

The major winners will be eligible for the national competition for travel and cash prizes.

First prize is a 30-day trip around the world for two plus $1,000 in spending money.

Second prize, 21 days in Europe for two with $500. Third prize is a 14-day trip to Mexico for two with $250. Fourth prize is a week in Hawaii for two with $100, and for fifth-prize winner, a seven-day trip to Mexico for two with $100.

For the first time this year there are special prizes for Canadians.

Seven special $100 merit awards are offered for pictures which did not win in the major categories. And for the Canadian best-of-show there is a $200 prize.

Just send in your snapshot but keep the negative. You may make your own prints or have them processed professionally but none should be more than 10 inches on the largest dimension.

A complete set of rules will be found on Page 18 of today's Times.

Read them, then take a look through last year's album or dust off your lens for new pictures.

Don't make any snap decisions.

UN Force Was Attacked By Israelis, Thant Says

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) United Nations Secretary-General U Thant reported Friday that Israeli troops attacked the UN Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip shortly after the Middle East war broke out last month and looted its headquarters.

Israeli planes, tanks and machine-guns fired on an Indian supply convoy killing five Indian soldiers, and a Swedish and Indian group came under fire from both Egyptian and Israeli sides, he said.

Thant gave details of the alleged incidents in a report to the General Assembly on the winding up of the peacekeeping force, whose withdrawal, he said, provided the important lesson that "the United Nations should be strengthened so as better to serve the cause of world peace."

Canada had more than 700 men in the force, but they were withdrawn before the outbreak of the war.

Thant said when Israeli forces arrived at Rafah in the Gaza Strip an Israeli officer ordered the UN international and military staff, who had identified themselves as such, to lie on the ground.

The hospital commander finally got blankets to the UNEF group, "who were forced to spend the night on the sand in the open without food or water."

Thant said that vehicles, radios, tape recorders and clocks were missing after Israeli troops occupied the UNEF headquarters, and most of the office furniture, typewriters, fans and other property were removed by Israeli military personnel.

The report was expected to make a powerful impact on UN delegates still debating in the General Assembly how to deal with the Middle East crisis.

'Risk of War Would Be Too Great'

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant said Friday that he never has recommended withdrawal of the United Nations Emergency Force from Egypt in his annual reports on the force because the risk of war following would be "much too great."

He made that observation in a report to the General Assembly giving details of the recent withdrawal of the force, which he ordered because Egypt withdrew consent for stationing it on Egyptian soil.

War broke out between Israel and neighboring Arab countries June 5 while the UN troops were being withdrawn and went on for five days before the Security Council got a ceasefire that left the Israelis in occupation of much territory of Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

Thant did not repeat his previous arguments that he had to withdraw the force because under an agreement between the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and Egypt, it could stay there only with the Egyptian government's consent.

Neither did he repeat his contention that the war was the result not of the withdrawal but of long-standing bad blood between the parties.

WAR FOLLOWED QUICKLY

Instead, he mentioned "the sudden outbreak of war in the Near East, the severe crisis in the United Nations and the disastrous shattering of peace in the area which soon followed the withdrawal of UNEF"—the initials by which the force is known.

"What would probably happen whenever UNEF might be withdrawn had been pointed out by the secretary-general in his reports on UNEF in preceding years," Thant said.

"This likelihood was why, despite increasing difficulties of financing the force and his belief that no United Nations peacekeeping operation would become relatively permanent, the secretary-general never recommended the termination of UNEF or even its conversion into a large-scale observation operation.

Thant said recent experience "points up the desirability of having all conditions relating to the presence and with withdrawal of a peacekeeping operation clearly defined in advance of its entry onto the territory of a host country."

But in most instances, he added, it is likely that a UN force will be needed so urgently in a particular area that "time cannot be taken to negotiate agreements on detailed conditions in advance of the entry."

. . . RIOTS

Two of Newark's major department stores, Bamberger's and Ohrbach's, did not open. Many other stores followed suit. Liquor stores and taprooms have been closed since Thursday.

Springfield Avenue, the main street in the Central Ward where the riot erupted Wednesday night, was quiet and nearly deserted. An eight-hour curfew ended at 6 a.m.

One of the few Negroes on Springfield was a little girl who was painting the words "Soul Sister" in white paint on the still unbroken glass of a beauty shop. The word "Soul" has special significance for the neighborhood people, indicating Negro ownership. Cars that were unscarred bore the words "Soul Brother" chalked on windshields.

HURLED ROCKS

The city's 1,400 policemen, split into two 12-hour shifts, arrested more than 1,000 adults and juveniles.

Governor Richard J. Hughes remained in the ravaged city, ready to augment the 2,600 guardsmen with more men and more state troopers to quell what he called "a criminal insurrection."

Hughes said he was determined to restore law and order to Newark.

Negro guardsmen and Negro police stood eyeball to eyeball with the Negro rioters, and their supporters said "they're doing an excellent job—a hell of a job."

RIOTS FLARE UP

It reached a violent crescendo on a humid Friday night, as the darkness was pierced by gun flashes, searchlights and the flickering flames of buildings put to the torch by rioters.

About 4,000 helmeted police with riot guns and guardsmen with bayonets cordoned off the Negro riot centre, west of Newark's downtown business centre.

The quarantined area was widened when snipers and looters appeared outside the armed ring.

With the curfew a directive over the police radio: "Use your shotguns and revolvers. Use your shotguns and revolvers. That's what you have them for."

Acrid smoke still curled above the wreckage of Negro - area buildings, after the arrest of a Negro taxicab driver touched off the rioting Wednesday night.

Hughes declared the city a civil disaster area, enabling him to clamp on the curfew and shut off the sale and use of liquor.

Broken windows, burned buildings, looted shops, closed businesses added up to uncounted millions of dollars lost. No one in authority tried to total up the damage.

TOSS MOLASSES BOMBS

Negro youths in the Newark riot sector told reporters that Black Muslims took part in the violence and "they mix lye with molasses—and when they throw it at the cops, it sticks."

However, Hughes said there was no evidence that outside agitators were a factor in the rioting. He was inclined to blame it on what he called the "harping" of local civil rights leaders.

Among those arrested was anti - white Negro playwright LeRoi Jones. He was treated at a hospital Friday for riot injuries and later arrested and charged with having two loaded guns in his possession. He was held in $25,000 bail.

Among those who lost their lives in the rioting was a 10-year-old Negro boy, shot in the head. The white police victim was detective Fred Toto, 39, who was cited in 1964 for saving a youngster from drowning. The father of three, he caught a sniper's bullet near the heart.

Race Riots Explode In Hartford

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Six youths were arrested Friday night in the racially tens North End as police braced to avoid a third night of brick, rock and bottle-tossing.

The six were riding in a car in which a .25-calibre pistol was found, police said. They were to be booked on weapons charges.

Earlier Friday, Mayor George Kinsella declared a state of emergency in the area and urged parents to impose a voluntary curfew. "Our immediate aim is to restore law and order," the mayor said.

Kinsella declared the tenement section north of the city's business district in a state of emergency after youthful gangs rampaged through it Thursday night and 23 were arrested.

One patrolman suffered a posssible heart attack and another required 18 stitches for a facial laceration as two stores and a service station were fire-bombed. Store windows were shattered sporadically.

Stay Ordered

COQUITLAM (CP)—A stay of proceedings was entered Friday on a murder charge against a 15-year-old boy in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Anna Whitby of Coquitlam last July. Mrs. Whitby, 34, was raped and strangled in a dead-end lane here.

Plan Tshombe Trial

CAIRO (AP)—Algeria is considering forming a "revolutionary tribunal" of Africans, Asians and Latin Americans to try former Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe as a "liberation" war criminal the Cairo newspaper Al Ahram says. Tshombe's plane was hijacked to Algeria June 30.

Labor Feud Talks Scheduled

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bid to resolve a dispute between the British Columbia Federation of Labor and four locals of the International Woodworkers of America will be made later this month.

Ray Haynes, federation secretary, said Wednesday a vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, will attend a Vancouver meeting on the feud.

The four IWA locals—Vancouver, Victoria, Duncan and the lumber inspectors—were suspended by the federation for refusing to publicly apologize for a scathing attack on CLC executive vice-president Joe Morris.

Mr. Haynes said a date for the session has not been set.

The IWA has threatened that unless the federation revokes the suspensions, the entire 30,000 members of the IWA in B.C. will withdraw from the federation.

the protective wing of mother countries."

"We looked at our powerful neighbors, whose development began before our own, and we felt that alongside their accomplishments our own were small indeed.

"But Expo 67 has changed all that.

"In years to come this time and place will be marked as the turning point for a young nation which needed to convince, not the world but only itself, that it possessed within itself all the qualities of greatness."

Also in the B.C. party were Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Pearkes, Mayor Tom Campbell of Vancouver, Mayor J. Palyga of Trail, T. L. Sturgess, former deputy minister of industrial development and trade and commerce, and L. J. Wallace, deputy provincial secretary.

Throughout today B.C. will provide entertainment in the Place des Nations including special bands from the province.

Five Projects Keep Planners On the Jump

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Saanich planners are busy this summer on five projects, including a major light industrial zone for the residential suburb.

Other tasks being tackled include:

- A general development plan for the burgeoning McKenzie-Quadra area in the Lake Hill district;
- Changes to the Shelbourne Centre plan;
- Zoning parks as parks;
- The near-$1 million senior citizens and low rental plan.

The light industrial zone, under consideration for some time, would take shape in the Royal Oak district where Eaton's is to build a $300,000 warehouse and retail store.

Municipal planner Tom Loney said Saanich is looking at a large area within which this zone would exist but work has not progressed to the point where it could be said how big the industrial zone will be.

The Eaton's development, opposed by local residents because of access onto Raymond Street, is southwest of Royal Oak Avenue and Patricia Bay Highway.

The first stage of a light industrial zone will likely be an expansion of the commercial area south of the Eaton's building.

Mr. Loney said planners don't want to see Raymond Street become a major entrance to the light industrial zone.

"It has to be Patricia Bay with proper access," he said.

"We know what type of approach the highways department will accept. We will propose an access point they will accept in principle."

Industrial Estate Possible

He also sdai that if research shows it is feasible, it could be recommended that the municipality itself acquire and operate the area as an industrial estate. This has been done in many other places.

While Saanich's population has soared 20 per cent in recent years to a point where more people live there than in Victoria, the amount of commercial and industrial development has maintained a static relationship.

The assessed value of land and improvements is $121.9 million, only five per cent of which is commercial or industrial.

Municipal assessor Jack Lindsay says this level of five per cent has remained steady for years.

Mr. Loney anticipated the plan will be ready for council or committee consideration by the fall.

The McKenzie-Quadra plan is expected to be ready for consideration next month. This area has seen recent growth with a florist's store, liquor store—the first in Saanich—the new Reynolds Road school and the B.C. Telephone building.

An application was recently made for shopping centre zoning for a data processing computer centre at the southeast corner of McKenzie and Borden.

The provincial government's motor vehicle testing station is expected to be in operation within a year at Cedar Hill-Borden-McKenzie. McKenzie Avenue will become a major east-west road from Patricia Bay to the University of Victoria.

The Shelbourne Centre Plan for the Cedar Hill-Shelbourne district was aimed mainly at creating an area where apartments could be developed. It was made public earlier this year but Mr. Loney said no major revisions are being made and it would possibly be ready for further consideration next month.

Parks Zoned 'Residential'

There are nearly 50 municipal parks in Saanich but they are not zoned as such. Most of them carry residential zoning. Planners are working out proposals to zone parks as parks. This should be ready for consideration in the fall.

An assault on accommodation problems of the elderly and the poor is progressing. The nearly $1 million cost will be carried entirely by the federal and provincial governments.

Plans consist of construction of a small apartment for senior citizens of 23 single and six double units plus acquisition of 50 older homes in different locations which would be rented at economic rates to families living in run-down houses.

The houses would be in the $11,000 to $1[illegible],000 price range, or a project worth about $650,000.

The proposal is to buy 25 two-bedroom, 20 three-bedroom and five four-bedroom houses in a unique scheme aimed at avoiding clustered low-income groups in one place.

Municipal planners are working on the senior citizens proposal and hope to make a final submission for Ottawa officials by the end of next week.

Some houses have also been looked at with a view to acquisition, said Mr. Loney.

When this is out of the way, planners will turn their attention to a suggestion that Saanich buy tracts of land, then sell them to builders with covenants specifying design and other features for apartments.

The planning department has just completed a major project with suggested amendments and comments on a proposed new animals bylaw made public last February.

This will be considered at a special lands and planning committee meeting, open to the public, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the municipal hall on Vernon Avenue.

North Korean Guerrillas Launch Raids

Disguised in dark-green South Korean combat uniforms, North Korean Army regulars launched a series of ambushes and raids south of the truce zone during recent weeks.

One took place about 60 miles northeast of Seoul July 1 a few hours after President Chung Hee Park was sworn in for his second four-year term.

Seven South Koreans, including two officers, were killed when a group of more than 10 North Koreans threw hand grenades and fired sub - machine-guns.

Nearly 50 South Korean soldiers have been killed since January in gunfights with intruders.

FARMER SLAIN

In other incidents, North Koreans in farmers' garb killed a South Korean farmer in a village more than 100 miles south of the armistice border, and looted a farmhouse for food and other items.

The director of South Korean intelligence warned that North Korea has switched from espionage work to guerrilla warfare in its harassment campaign against South Korea.

Korean intelligence figures say 113 North Korean infiltrators were either killed or captured between April and June.

In the first 10 days of July, 31 North Koreans were killed or captured. These compare with 106 killed or captured in all of 1966 and 107 in 1965.

CAMPAIGN against any national Liberal leadership candidate wanting to implement Carter Commission taxation changes has been pledged by Saskatchewan's Liberal Premier Ross Thatcher, who strongly opposes the Carter recommendations.

Colwood Pool For All Ages

Swimming instruction for persons of all ages will be offered at Colwood's new centennial swimming pool.

Manager Alfred Aylward, an ex-Navy chief petty officer, already has a program prepared to fill the pool from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily although the pool is still eight weeks away from completion.

Sooke school board has booked it for an hour daily and Mr. Aylward hopes to inaugurate regular school swim competitions.

Mr. Aylward formerly taught physical and recreational training at Royal Roads and was admitted as a Serving Brother in the Order of St. John in 1964 for his work with handicapped children.

He plans to hold classes for handicapped and retarded children this winter. Lifesaving instruction will also be part of the program.

The pool will also be available for hire to private groups.

U.S. Seeks to Avoid Bombing Russ Ships

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States has promised the Soviet Union it will take "extraordinary measures to minimize damage" to Soviet ships in the Vietnam war zone.

The U.S. embassy said today it delivered a note to the Soviet foreign ministry Thursday acknowledging the possibility that some U.S. fire aimed at Haiphong installations had accidentally hit the Soviet ship Mikhail Frunze June 29.

The note added, however, that "the risk of unintentional damage to vessels in the area of hostilities cannot be completely iliminated."

The U.S. note was in reply to a protest filed by the Soviets June 30 demanding "effective guarantees that similar attacks" would not occur. The protest also demanded "strict punishment" for the pilots.

The Frunze charge was the second within a month. In June, the Soviets charged that U.S. planes intentionally attacked the Soviet ship Turkestan off North Vietnam. The Russians said one sailor was killed.

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS MARCH

Chinese Jeer Own President

PEKING (Reuters) — Hundreds of thousands of persons took to the streets of Peking Friday in a new wave of condemnation of President Liu Shao-chi.

Steaming through the Chinese capital in disciplined ranks, they carried banners and portraits of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and cartoons ridiculing Liu.

The demonstration was the first of its kind since April when the Maoist leadership branded Liu "the top party person in authority taking the capitalist road" and the leader of the oppostion to Mao.

The reasons for the new campaign were not immediately clear, but the demonstrations coincided with an editorial in the party newspaper People's Daily which said a handful of persons in the party are trying to exploit recent disorder connected with Mao's "cultural revolution" to make a counter-attack against the proletariat and facilitate their comeback. The paper referred to the disorder as "anarchy."

COMEBACK HINTED

Some slogans on walls in the capital in black Chinese characters four feet high spoke of an attempted comeback by Liu.

A pro-Liu counter-attack may have been suggested by Maoists to provide a new focus for a unity drive in their own ranks after weeks of disorders and infighting.

Liu has not appeared in public since a rally in November, and although the party's top theoretical journal Red Flag this month said he had been "overthrown," his formal ousting from his post of head of state and the naming of a successor still has to be announced.

Under the Chinese constitution, these acts would require a decision by the National People's Congress, and there were no signs that a meeting of this body was being planned.

KIESINGER BACKPEDALS ON DEFENCE BUDGET

BONN (AP)—Backpedalling from a statement he made last week, Chancellor Kurt Kiesinger announced Friday night that defence expenditures for 1968 are due to rise 1.1 per cent. Last week the chancellor said the 1968 defence budget would be cut by $500,000,000 in 1968, a statement that was unfavorably received in Washington.

England welcomes home the Hon. John Gilbey

Arriving home after another International Tour, the Hon. John Gilbey remarks on the excellent standards of Gilbey's London Dry in Canada. And Gilbey's International Quality Controller announces that he will now compare the English Gilbey's with its overseas brother:
"My gin has been the best gin in the world for no less than 110 years," says the Hon. John Gilbey. "In Canada, for example, I have found that Gilbey's London Dry perfectly matches the original English standard. So now I intend to compare our English product with it."
Next time you see Gilbey's famous frosty bottle, remember the Hon. John Gilbey and his job as Gilbey's International Quality Controller. When you see the gin with the perfect balance for mixed drinks, bear in mind his proud words: "This is my gin! For no less than 110 years it has carried my family's name. Gilbey's London Dry is the gin with the perfect balance for mixed drinks. And I shall make sure it stays that way."

More U.S. Troops

UNITED STATES DEFENCE Secretary McNamara has recommended to President Johnson only that American military forces in Vietnam be increased by 20,000 to 30,000 more men—that is to the current authorized strength of 480,000 men. However, he added that he was not sure how many additional troops would be needed eventually and that he was not prepared to say when a decision will be made to raise the authorized strength ceiling.

Mr. McNamara's report to the President was made after a week-long inspection tour in South Vietnam, where he was reportedly under heavy pressure from military men, particularly the American commander, General Westmoreland, but also South Vietnamese leaders, to immediately boost the American commitment by 100,000 to 150,000 troops. South Vietnamese Chief of State Thieu, in an interview this week stated that at least another 100,000 American troops were needed but at the same time ruled out a general mobilization of South Vietnamese because of training and equipment problems. This can hardly go down well with Americans who have been assured over and over again by the President that their soldiers were in Vietnam to help the South repel Communist invaders from the North. They cannot help but remember Mr. Johnson's pledge not to "send American boys to do a job that Asian boys should be doing."

So far as United States success in defeating the enemy and pacifying the country is concerned, Mr. McNamara must have come away with a dismal picture. At an American outpost 20 miles outside of Saigon he was informed that only four of 56 nearby hamlets and one of 12 nearby villages were under the control of the Saigon government. Up in the north, 12 miles below the demilitarized zone, his aircraft was unable to land at the Dongha supply base because of artillery and rocket fire from the the enemy. And in almost every area he visited he was told that it was impossible to travel anywhere outside heavily guarded base perimeters.

While recent troubles in other parts of the world — the Middle East, The Congo, Nigeria — have temporarily distracted world attention from Vietnam, it is still that small area of Southeast Asia which is the prime threat to peace. Until the United States can find some way to extricate itself from Vietnam—a goal which becomes more difficult to attain as each stage of escalation seems to bring meaningful victory no closer — the danger of a nuclear confrontation will cast its shadow over the world.

De Gaulle's Europe

FEW COUNTRIES HAVE MORE reason than Canada to assess sympathetically the political and economic aspirations of French President Charles de Gaulle. It is perhaps unfortunate that the views of most Canadians are tinged in this regard by the almost ceaseless stream of criticism directed against him by British and American sources who characterize him as a stubborn egomaniac.

Once again, this week in Germany, President de Gaulle has stated his position on Europe as a political and economic entity able to survive independent of the dominant Soviet Union or United States hegemonies and with the power to influence world affairs. Canadians, feeling their power to act independently endangered as a result of American domination of their economy, can hardly be critical of the French leader when he says that the "dominating reality" for Europe is the "enormous power of the United States" which automatically — though not necessarily wishfully or purposefully—dominates all other powers and endangers other countries' national personalities.

What President de Gaulle is saying, in effect, is that wherever American economic power reaches it tends to recast everything in the American image and that he does not believe that this is the best way to mould the world. This is not a matter of being anti-American but rather of holding the conviction that there are non-American cultures and traditions which are worth preserving but which will tend to be driven out as the American mass culture moves in on the heels of American economic control.

It is this belief of President de Gaulle's which has caused him once again to reject the British application to join the European Common Market. Britain, he insists, must choose between Europe and the United States; the role of Britain as a bridge between Europe and America is not acceptable if the bridge is to be used as a route for American economic power to enter Europe.

Is it really delusions of grandeur which cause President de Gaulle to resist the Americanization of Europe as his detractors insist? Or does he see further ahead to the time when much of the world could become submerged under a blanket of bland and homogenized "pop" culture of little spiritual but much commercial value? Perhaps more realistic is the question of how long the De Gaulle view will prevail against the relentless pressure of American economic power.

Stressing the Fire Hazard

THE SERIOUSNESS OF THE fire hazard at this time is clearly indicated by the action of the forest service in suspending campfire permits, and the closure of some logging roads to the public on the Island.

This is one means of avoiding risk and an impressive way of drawing public attention to a critical situation.

No action, however, can prevent motorists from smoking in their cars—which need not be dangerous if they use their ashtrays. If, on the other hand, they throw cigarette and cigar butts out of the window, or hot pipe ashes and improperly extinguished matches, they create a serious danger.

The warning implicit in the lifting of fire permits should be unnecessary in a province which depends on the woods for about half of each dollar produced here. But in two days this week more than half the fires burning were reportedly caused by campers or smokers.

That point should not be lost on drivers and outdoor recreation seekers travelling our highways and trails.

A Road to Travel On

THE HOT AND DRY WEATHER may delay clearance work for the new Cowichan Lake Road, but the 11-mile stretch from the intersection of Somenos and Herd Roads to the old Hillcrest summit seems to have emerged from the tangled brush of politics.

At least the money has been provided and a contract let for the work, and property needed for it has reportedly been purchased.

The Cowichan Lake Road has woven in and out of the Social Credit-New Democratic Party wars for several years. It has been bait dangled before an electorate to support a government candidate. Its non-improvement has been the base for charges of political discrimination by the Leader of the Opposition, in whose riding it lies.

Now, it appears, the road is to become a road for the purposes of transportation, lifted out of partizanship—and about time, too.

Which Law Next?

Tuesday's Times quotes from Mayor Stephen's letter to Jim Bigsby, on the matter of recent vagrancy arrests:

"Regardless of whether the vagrancy law is a just and wise law or not, so long as it forms part of our statutes and so long as I am chief magistrate of the city, my duty is clearly to see that it is enforced until such time as it is amended or abandoned by due legislative process."

Fine sentiments from His Worship! I am wondering, however, how Mr. Stephen decides which of our statutes it is clearly his duty to see enforced, and which he will permit to be disregarded.

Which of Canada's antiquated laws will be next to be zealously enforced? Perhaps the contraceptive law? Maybe the Times will next be reporting the arrest of 60,000 citizens for purchasing contraceptives, thus violating a statute which has never been changed by "due legislative process." I am very skeptical of the mayor's logic. — Citizen.

More American Than Americans

Your correspondent Wrixon very properly poses the question, 'How would you feel about negotiating with the intruder? It seems to me that some of our people are more American than the Americans themselves, where at least some of them are going to jail for their beliefs and dissenting, and others in their thousands are proclaiming their horror and disgust at the barbaric behavior toward a small poverty ridden nation. — C. F. Carr, 435 Wilson.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Mr. Reuther's Canadian Crack-Up Course

IT is beginning to appear in the aftermath of the Toronto convention that the New Democrats have got their alarm bells mixed. The economy is threatened without doubt but the danger is coming from an unsuspected direction. T. C. Douglas, in his foreign travels, has been well received in Yugoslavia, a country whose Communist government is pursuing socialism by somewhat novel means. After the recent speeches of their own leader, New Democrats may be shocked to read that the Yugoslavs, very much interested in a more affluent society, have spread the welcome mat for foreign investors.

Western

There are, it is true, some safeguards; after all the country has painful memories of the mixed Soviet-Yugoslav companies of Cominform times. But the fact remains that this is the first such venture by a Communist government. It is odd that it should be undertaken at the very time when Mr. Douglas is alerting us to the prowlings of the big bad wolf of American capital.

This is not to say that the NDP is wrong in sensing a threat of foreign economic domination or in locating it in the United States. To be more specific it is in Detroit; and it centres in the damands which Walter Reuther and the United Automobile Workers have served on the automobile companies. It has been visible for some time, although not to the NDP which has been concentrating, with the encouragement of the international union leaders, on other matters.

The Canada-U.S. automobile pact, although without discernible value to disgruntled Canadian consumers, has created many well-paid jobs by enabling our subsidized manufacturers to compete in the North American market. What appears on this side a silver lining looks to Mr. Reuther a thunder cloud. His fear, one gathers, is that free trade for manufacturers will turn the United States into what the NDP is wont to describe as a "branch plant economy"—and with fewer branch plants.

For years and years it has been the burden of NDP literature that wages have little or nothing to do with prices; profits everything. To Mr. Reuther, evidently behind in his Canadian reading, this is a lot of balderdash.

Threat to U.S. Jobs

According to the UAW presentation, the Canada-U.S. wage gap (estimated by General Motors at 33 cents per hour on average) is a clear and present threat to the job security and living standards of American workers. It is a standing invitation to automobile companies to move production, and thus jobs, out of the United States into Canada for reasons of price advantage.

To Mr. Reuther the solution is plain. He wants wage parity here and now, with no nonsense about leaving the issue to negotiations on Canadian soil. There will then be no incentive to production north of the line (in fact, there will probably be a dis-incentive) and any future jobs sacrificed will be Canadian.

What is the situation? Wage rates have been rising steeply in Canada; so much so that a late bulletin from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics records an increase of almost 10 per cent in salary and wage payments to workers over the past year. Now Mr. Reuther wants the automotive wage gap closed and in addition demands substantial increases on both sides of the border along with a profit-sharing plan. Need is not apparently the driving force since existing agreements include provisions for cost-of-living increases.

Could Set Pattern

If Mr. Reuther succeeds, he will undoubtedly set a pattern of demands. It will certainly not appear to other union leaders that wage parity is suitable only for the blue-blooded labor aristocrats of the UAW. Where will this lead us?

The unhappy facts, not much noted in the glow of our centennial boom, are that Western Europe is suffering a slump behind its protective Common Market walls, that the British are talking of a possible devaluation and that considerable nervousness is apparent even among American economic forecasters. At the cost of some misery the Europeans intend to get their costs down. But ours, already so high that we have not much margin, are threatened by another wage-price spiral. At the least we risk the loss of the great advantages which should accrue to Canada as a result of the successful Kennedy Round.

Spiral Generator

The most likely generator of such a spiral is plainly the wage parity agreement sought by Mr. Reuther in a deal with the American automobile companies. We are threatened by a decision to be taken outside our borders on the demand, not of the companies who oppose it, but of an American-dominated union. But the NDP, which specializes in detecting foreign, and particularly American, threats to our independence and welfare, has issued no whisper of a warning about the "clear and present" menace.

Why this profound quiet about a matter which is not the least iffy or theoretical? What has happened to the sentinels of the new nationalism who can see with such clarity all the way to Washington, Tel Aviv and Saigon but cannot make out a thing that is happening, practically before their eyes, only one mile from the Windsor automobile belt? Mr. Douglas should deal firmly with Mr. Reuther and his associates, thus demonstrating the resolution expected of an NDP government in repelling presumptuous Americans.

FROM UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

Warnings Implicit in the Red Fleet at Port Said

THE most striking single event in the Mideast this past week was the arrival of a flotilla of 12 Soviet warships at Port Said and Alexandria, Egypt, at or near the northern end of the Suez Canal. By this display of gunboat diplomacy, the Kremlin was conveying a clear message to Israel. It was: "Thus far, and no farther." The move was as close as the Soviet Union has come to an open threat of physical intervention in the Mideast crisis.

Frye

Bluff or not, the positioning of Soviet striking power within easy range of Israeli front lines readjusted the balance of power in the area.

It inhibited the use of Israeli air power against Egyptian artillery in the Port Said-Port Fuad region—artillery which until shortly before had been shelling Israeli positions almost daily for a week. Just 48 hours before the warships dropped anchor, Israeli bombers had raided the Egyptian gun positions in Port Said.

Canal Control

What is immediately at stake in these manoeuvres, from the U.A.R. point of view, could be control of the Suez Canal.

Egyptian harassment of Israeli front-line positions at Ras el Ish and Qantara, 10-20 miles south of Port Fuad, clearly stemmed from a fear that Israel might inch its way northward toward, and seize the Mediterranean terminus of the canal.

It is highly improbable that the Israelis were, in fact, seeking to take Port Fuad. But the psychological value of the Soviet fleet to U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser stemmed from his concept of the Israeli peril, not from the objective dimensions of that peril.

A better and safer means of calming jittery Egyptian trigger fingers was devised by UN Secretary General U Thant: dispatch of UN observers to the Ras el Ish area. Under pressure from the UN Security Council, a willing Egypt and a reluctant Israel agreed in principle to this step.

The Soviet Union dragged its heels in the Council during the authorization process. Despite Egyptian interest in affirmative action, Soviet delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko delayed approval for 48 hours, and at one point sought to attach conditions he certainly knew were unacceptable to the Security Council majority.

The explanation could be simply that Moscow does not want to strengthen Thant's hand politically. The Russians want Thant to be a glorified clerk, not an executive.

But a much more likely explanation is that the Kremlin wanted Nasser to have to rely on Soviet warships, rather than an outside agency, for reassurance from the Israeli threat. Fedorenko's 48-hour delay enabled the Soviet fleet to arrive well before the UN.

A naval "presence" at the terminus of the canal also serves to advance Moscow's larger objective in the Mideast exercise: influence or control over the waterways and oil resources of this continental crossroads. To be the instrument which appeared to protect the canal entrance from Israeli seizure and which, one day, might help force an Israeli withdrawal from its banks, would make of Moscow a semi-official canal patron.

But to press Israel for a pull-back from the canal before Nasser agrees to open it to Israeli shipping would be a departure from the American policy of healing, rather than merely bandaging, the Mideast's wounds.

It might also be futile, because there is no sign Israel will yield to pressure from anyone if what is asked is unconditional withdrawal from territory useful in a peace negotiation.

Thus Soviet policy in the Middle East continues to be cautiously activist, reflecting a balance between Kremlin "hawks" and "doves" in which the hawks seem to be providing the driving impulse but the doves have their feet on the brake.

Moscow Atmosphere

Two outspoken hawks, Alexander N. Shelepin and Nikolai G. Yegorychev, have recently fallen from grace in Moscow—Shelepin this past week. Still, Fedorenko, who sounds very much like a hawk, remains the voice of Moscow in the UN.

Last weekend, Fedorenko repeated Russia's willingness to participate in sanctions against Israel. A few days earlier, in the General Assembly, a Soviet-supported resolution (which happily failed to pass) included an innocent-appearing paragraph which could have been interpreted as authorizing Soviet military action to force an Israeli withdrawal. The inference was that either the Arabs or Moscow—or both—tried to slip the authorization past the Assembly.

Few here think the danger of a Soviet-American confrontation in the Mideast has wholly passed. American escalation in Viet Nam, however cautious and gradual, could still tip the balance in Moscow between hawks and doves, it is believed, and lead to such a confrontation.

The arrival of Soviet warships in Egypt this past week was a reminder of this danger.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

Out at Cole Bay there is a fascinating beach. The tide runs out a long way and when it comes in over the sand there is good swimming.

On the trail going down to the beach there are several patches of thimbleberry with the fruit now becoming red and ripe.

In the ditch along the way there is an abundance of the yellow monkey fower with its "snapdragon" like bloom. If you attempt to pick this flower the blossoms almost immediately drop off. Look for brown or crimson dots in the throat.

Look along the bank and you will see the mock orange in full bloom. During the evening the perfume is most noticeable and is extremely fragrant. The leaves have a few teeth on each side.

At the top of the steps the conifers are mainly the Grand fir, some of which are two to three feet through.

Look along the bank to the left facing the bay. A short way along there is an old downed garry oak log, that has lain there for perhaps over 100 years. Take note of the wood fibers and the grain.

Also along the bank one can see an old "kitchen midden" that is hundreds of years old. By the trees and overgrowth, you can see clam and mussel shells that were used by the Indian people of a bygone age. Do not disturb. It is against the law.

The beach does not lend itself to a large number of marine species, though you can find barnacles, blue mussels, limpets and some of the very tiny snails. Under the rocks the little shore crab hides.

In the foreground you can see the ferry crossing the bay and the plume of smoke from the cement plant which spoils the magestic backdrop of the Malahat mountains.

ROUGH TACTICS ON L.A. PEACE MARCHERS

How Cop Haters Are Made

By ALJEAN HARMETZ
The New Republic

Los Angeles police came in swinging with clubs when peace marchers gathered outside in Los Angeles where President Johnson was speaking last month. More than 500 persons were arrested and 60 injured in scuffles like those above.

LOS ANGELES — At 8:46 p.m. on June 23, the Los Angeles Police Department turned a one-mile march by 10,000 lawyers, housewives, college students, doctors, teachers and small children into a street brawl.

There were 511 arrested, 60 bloodied or bruised by police clubs, no one was killed. It taught several thousand middle-class citizens the high price of dissent and turned them into cop haters.

The march was organized by the Peace Action Council, a coalition of dozens of anti-war groups, but many of the predominantly middle-aged marchers had no affiliation. The PAC had, in legal fashion, taken out a permit allowing a march from a public park past the Century Towers Apartments (where Jack Benny lives in a $3,000-a-month penthouse) to the gaudy new Century Plaza Hotel where President Johnson was to speak at a $1,000-a-couple dinner.

Not Able To Set Down

The grass in the park had been soaked so that no one could comfortably sit down. Several hundred people at the children's baseball diamond listened to Cassius Clay and Dr. Benjamin Spock. Clay's speech consisted mainly of "Who's the World Champion?" to which the crowd good-naturedly answered, "You are." Police had barred the PAC's sound truck from the park, so Dr. Spock's speech was lost to most of the crowd.

Twilight in the park was friendly. Small children begged cookies from strangers. Many of the thousands who poured into the park as time for the march grew near were husbands just home from work, their wives and their children.

At 7:30 the march began. Ten thousand citizens walked past 20th Century Fox Studios and up Avenue of the Stars. As the front of the line of marchers approached the hotel, the President's helicopter landed in the hotel parking lot. Long after Mr. Johnson had disappeared inside the hotel, the marchers were stopped by one set of policemen and told to march or disperse.

Crowd Penned By the Police

When they tried to disperse, other policemen refused to allow them out. (A few mothers with very small children were permitted to leave. One five-year-old boy was handed across the top of the crowd to his mother.) The rest of the marchers were penned by dozens of cops on motorcycles who crowded them into one lane at the edge of the street.

A few dozen sat in the street as much from boredom as anything else. About 50 more militant demonstrators sat down deliberately but were talked back to their feet in less than 10 minutes by parade monitors. Unable to move, a few marchers learned from their transistor radios that their lack of movement constituted an "unlawful assembly."

Even then most of them did not expect violence. They were neither unruly nor defiant, and the only way they provoked the police was with their homemade signs reading "Make Sense — Not War" or "Johnson is a Murderer" and an occasional ill-mannered chant of "LBJ, LBJ, How many kids did you kill today?"

Turned March Into a Rout

At 8:46 p.m. — without asking or ordering the marchers to disperse — the 1,200 policemen turned the parade into a rout. They pushed, shoved, clubbed the paraders to the east — away from the hotel, justifying their attack with a rumor that the marchers were about to storm the hotel. "We weren't going to storm anything," says Joan Colvin, a young graduate student in zoology. "We monitors were keeping order, standing hand in hand with our backs to the police when the police attacked us. They hadn't warned us. They hadn't said a word to us for 20 minutes. Suddenly they just attacked."

Within 10 minutes, the crowd dissolved in terror. "I fell down and someone stepped on me and I kept shouting, 'For God's sake, don't crush me. Please don't crush me.' I was just trying to hang onto my kids. Some man picked the baby up and held her above the crowd even when the police were clubbing him.

"When the policeman raised his club at me, I grinned foolishly and thought, 'Gee, this is silly,' and then the whole side of my face was numb. I stepped over some young boy who was lying there with blood pouring down his head and then I ran like hell."

Ran Instead Of Fighting

If they had grown up on the streets of Los Angeles instead of in its private nursery schools and better colleges they would have fought. Instead they ran.

("It was the crowd's lack of violence that kept more people from being hurt," says Henry Wolinsky, a CULA medical student. "That crowd couldn't have been dispersed in less than 45 minutes without its co-operation.")

Ran Motorcycle Into the Group

They were split into small groups and harried like rabbits by the motorcycle hounds. Nearly a hundred of those who ran were innocent bystanders — residents of the neighborhood who had come to watch the parade. A thousand were shoved to the Beverly Hills city limits nearly four blocks from the hotel. There, the exhausted marchers stood, panting in the darkness, until one policeman roared his motorcycle into their midst, scattering them once more like chaff in the hot wind of his exhaust.

In less than 45 minutes the area surrounding the hotel was empty — except for policemen. Dressed in a tuxedo, Police Chief Tom Reddin Jubilantly told his assembled force, "You stood up just tremendous. You fellows showed a great deal of patience. I think the message is out. Our city is not going to give in to law-breakers."

Costly Victory For the Chief

Even now Police Chief Reddin is not aware that his victory may have cost far more than it was worth. Well-meaning, respectable citizens have been permanently terrified by the blank rigidity of 1,200 police faces. And as they drove or hitchhiked home in the darkness to their custom-built, remodelled, multi-bathroomed homes, many of them began to wonder who indeed had caused the Watts riots.

DIEFENBAKER RUINING PARTY'S UNITY HOPES

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA — By a characteristically contrary act, John Diefenbaker has managed to place in greater jeopardy than ever the tremulous hopes of responsible Conservatives that the September leadership convention can be used to re-unify their party.

Newman

The opposition leader has let it be known that he won't come to the convention at all unless the executive knuckles under and changes its program to fit his wishes.

The specific point at issue is the cutoff time for the nomination of leadership candidates. For weeks Diefenbaker was fighting to keep the nomination deadline at 1 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7, the afternoon of the opening session of the convention and the day when he is scheduled to make his major address.

After winning this concession he has now suddenly shifted his ground and is insisting that nominations not close until the day after he speaks, thus gaining a great tactical advantage for his possible candidacy over the half dozen already declared contenders.

By usurping the occasion to speak as a candidate before nominations are closed, the Prince Albert politician might turn the convention into a straight battle between the pro- and anti-Diefenbaker factions — a possibility the convention planners had hoped desperately to avoid.

The fact that Diefenbaker is backing his demands with the threat that he will boycott the convention has left much of the inner circle of the party divided and dispirited.

The convention's organizers face a terrible dilemma. If they do not give way to Diefenbaker's wishes and he doesn't turn up, the party's splits and divisions could be perpetuated for another political generation, hindering the efforts of the new leader to heal them.

If they do accede to Diefenbaker's demands they face the possibility of having to give in on a whole series of other requests by the opposition leader that would eventually turn the convention from a neutrally-directed attempt to re-unify the party into a vehicle for bitterness and recrimination centred on the Diefenbaker record and personality.

The various declared leadership candidates and ptential contenders are aware of the new problem, but they're shying away from the controversy so that they don't seaken their hold on eighter pro- or anti-Diefenbaker delegates.

Ironically, the exception is Dalton Camp, who has quietly joined John Diefenbaker in urging the posponement of nominations to the Friday deadline-though for quite different reasons. If the Prince Albert politician decides to run for the leadership, Camp would presumably attempt to revive the anti-Diefenbaker coalition he fielded so successfully at the party's annual meeting last fall. Failing that, Camp would want to keep the options open as long as possible for one or other of his favoured candidates — Duff Roblin of Manitoba or Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia.

Neither premier would stand much of a chance if he arrived at the convention undeclared, with nominations closing at 1 p.m. on the opening day. But if Diefenbaker managed to throw enough havoc into the proceedings by Friday, it might become obvious that only the wide appeal and political stability represented by one of the premiers could rescue the situation.

The dispute about the nomination date began on June 14 when Ewart C. Atkinson, an old-line New Brunswick Tory, wrote to convention co-chairman E. A. Goodman protesting the fact that if John Diefenbaker declared himself as a candidate, he would not be allowed to speak to the convention on Thursday in the traditional leader's invocation. (The ruling seemed fair enough since all the other candidates will have only one opportunity to address delegates during the Friday speeches.) m wm ym wmg speeches.)

Atkinson sent the letter, following a call he had made to Diefenbaker's Ottawa office. He also protested against a move then afoot inside the convention committee to cut nominations off a full week before the start of the convention.

The party's convention committee, meeting at Victoria on June 26, took up the Atkinson complaint. At the same time, a long and bitter letter was read to the meeting from Diefenbaker himself, protesting any prohibitions that might be placed on his Thursday evening address.

He also indicated that nominations must close at 1 p.m. on Thursday and not a week earlier, as a growing segment of the party was urging. At this point, Ken Matthews, a lawyer from Truro, N.S., who is a member of his party's provincial executive, made a strong case for supporting both of the Chief's demands, and the meeting unanimously agreed.

But when a Diefenbaker supporter went out of the room to telephone Ottawa with the good news, he discovered that the Tory leader had changed his mind. Although he had been granted exactly what he had been demanding, Diefenbaker was now determined to have the nominations moved ahead to Friday. Although the meeting was not formally informed of the new Diefenbaker request, the convention organizers have been pondering what to do about it ever since.

This manoeuvre, added to some calculatedly provocative public hints about his intentions (which have led some wags to call him the "Machiavelli of Main Street) might seem to indicate that John Diefenbaker has decided to contest the leadership. But this remains too definite a conclusion to draw from events to date. Certainly, he seems determined to fragment his party and certainly he's not going to give up the reins of power gracefully.

John Diefenbaker is, as he always has been, a man steeped in self-generated mystery, playing out his lonely game to the consternation of both his supporters and his rivals within the Conservative party.

You Can't Dispense Justice From Machine

The Toronto Star

Parliament should approach with caution the subject of compulsory breathalyzer tests to determine whether persons suspected of impaired driving are really "impaired."

The breathalyzer, a machine which measures the amount of alcohol in a suspect's breath, was developed to "prove" whether a person is intoxicated. But its accuracy is highly debatable.

The government is now preparing an amendment to the Criminal Code, to be submitted to the fall session of Parliament, which will give the breathalyzer official status.

Apparently the legislation will make it an offence for a motorist to refuse to take a breathalyzer test when required to do so by a police officer.

There would be no great objection to it if the breathalyzer was an absolutely accurate and reliable measure of the amount of alcohol a suspect had taken.

Unfortunately, this is not the case. Medical and legal opinion are divided on the dependability of the machine.

A series of tests in England last year showed that in a significant number of cases there was a wide difference between the percentage of alcohol found in the breath and the actual percentage in the blood—which is the significant factor.

Deceptive

Certain conditions may concentrate alcohol in the lungs, producing a deceptively high reading in the breath.

There is, therefore, a danger that if breathalyzer readings are taken as an infallible guide, some motorists who have drunk moderately, and are in fact sober, may be convicted while some who are actually drunk may escape punishment.

Justice Minister Pierre-Elliott Trudeau has hinted that under the proposed amendments to the Code, it would be necessary to supplement breathalyzer tests with other evidence in order to secure a confiction.

This other evidence could be a blood test. The House of Commons justice committee has recommended that an accused person who has been "breathalyzed" should have the right to call for a blood test as well.

Some safeguards of this kind are necessary, and the government must take care that they are incorporated in the new legislation.

The breathalyzer is a useful tool for investigation in these cases, but it cannot stand alone.

Triumphs of the Young— With Adults Behind Them

By ART STOTT

Stott

One of the most venerable axioms of sport says nobody can beat the old but the young. It's a truism, of course, if you divide people into two classes, old or young. The phrase takes on interest when you qualify the classifications. How old? How young?

When it comes to swimming, particulary among the girls, young crowds down on infancy. In British Columbia we've watched Elaine Tanner follow Mary Stewart at the top of the ladder while in high school. Internationally, we remember Australia's Konrads and, though the name may be forgotten, the pert little South African miss who swam in the Olympics for her country when she was 11.

In a recent United States meet, several women's world records were bettered. One was shaved by a 14-year-old. The others by old ladies of 17.

No doubt medical research has provided an explanation for the phenomenal ability of kids to swim faster than their elders—buoyance, oxygen intake, heart reaction, perhaps a particular co-ordination of supple muscle. Somebody may even suggest a closer association with the gill stage in prenatal development. However it may be figured, the surprise these days occurs not from the extreme youth of the topnotchers, but when somebody ranging upward from 20 still ranks among the best.

With few, if any, exceptions, the kids who set the records do not, however, set them on the basis of natural attributes alone. The climb to the top involves, also, a lot of hard work, constant training, special exercises, a particular routine of living—as well as such intangibles as desire, dedication, courage and discipline.

There is also, usually in the background, a human element of primary importance — the coach. He, or she, is the one who directs the development of the swimmer. The prospective champion has to have the requisites of a top performer. But these can be undeveloped assets without the mentor to exploit them—and kids from 11 to 17 are in no position to handle the job themselves.

It's a subject for philosophical discussion whether or not the young human being grows into a well-rounded person when he or she falls under the dominance of a coach, when the coach steps in and leads the youngster's life. Sometimes the association is magnificent. Sometimes, to me at least, it seems almost brutal. But it's part of the business of creating record-breakers.

At its best it can be a happy welding of the knowledge and experience of the older person and the special capacities of the young.

The point is that success in such a partnership depends on the combination of the talents of the young and those not so young. When the resources are adequate and the combination effective, success is achieved, the goals are reached.

What applies in one narrow field of human activity may not necessarily apply in another. Yet it seems to me that there is an example here which could be of cardinal importance in the current campaign for excellence. The French have a wistful little saying that points up the deficiencies of the different generations. It presents the wish-thought: If the old could; if the young knew how.

The idea fits neatly into the success story of a lot of record-breaking young swimmers. The old, meaning the coaches, know how. The young, meaning the kid competitors, have the ability to apply that knowledge if it is properly imparted to them.

There are lots of potentially good young swimmers in this world who reject the discipline imposed by coaches while they are trying to impart their proven theories to proteges. Often they have reason for rebellion—but not many rebels make the grade to new records on their own efforts alone.

Musical Partners Again

Musical partners in literally hundreds of concerts and broadcasts, Tessa Robbins and Robin Wood are renewing their association this week and next on the University of Victoria campus.

The eminent young British violinist flew here from London at the invitation of Uvic's School of Fine Arts, to join the faculty of the Summer Workshop in Chamber Music.

Brunette, slight and vivacious Miss Robbins first met Robin Wood when she was a student with Britain's National Youth Orchestra and he appeared as its first solo artist.

Following a suggestion by Ruth Railton, the founder and until recently manager of the NYO, Miss Robbins later contacted Mr. Wood and this led to the notable 15-year association.

Born into a musical family, Tessa began violin lessons at the age of four and was admitted to the Royal College of Music when she was eight as a Junior Exhibitioner (a council scholarship awarded only for exceptional promise.)

MAJOR AWARDS

Entering two world class international competitions, the Premier Prix and the Munich, she won both, the first with the highest possible marks.

In constant demand as a soloist, she has played at prom concerts in the Albert Hall with all the major orchestras of Britain and with such notable conductors as Sir Malcolm Sargent and Basil Cameron.

Both she and Robin were well known BBC Third Program recitalists, both in solo and sonata performances.

As a team they concertized all over the British Isles, at The Hague and Amsterdam, and Tessa has toured from Vancouver to Moscow and points in between.

In private life Tessa is Mrs. Norman Khambatta. She was married "very recently ... not to a musician."

Her husband is in the automobile business and, she says, a very calming influence.

"He watches me go berserk before a performance and remains steady and cool waiting for me to simmer down."

Monday and Wednesday evenings she will be playing with other faculty members in the public concerts that are a part of the workshop.

Wednesday's concert will also feature the renowned harpsichordist, George Malcolm. On Tuesday and Thursday evenings, Mr. Malcolm will give lecture-recitals on the harpsichord.

Final concert Friday, which will bring the workshop to a close, will feature students of the course.

North Breezes

When the General comes in from his Malahat place, he enjoys a table to himself and chats only to our Maitre d', Leslie.

"Teletrans, hovercraft, hydrofoils," he quoted from the paper. "Quiet and privacy will be done with on the Island. The Mainlanders are coming!"

"We'll always have your table," Leslie promised.

"I may want a private dining room," snorted the general.

"Our private reception area is being built now. You can have a private dinner. Just the guests you wish," soothed Leslie.

The General brightened.

"Mainlanders, bah," he said.

LITTLE MARY

She Won Her Man With Her Cookies

When Little Mary Sunshine was a tiny tot, she got lost in the forest whilst picking blackberries. Luckily, she was found by a band of Kadota Indians, and became the adopted daughter of Chief Brown Bear.

With the savings from the sale of her home-made cookies, she was able to purchase a picturesque inn, high up in the mountains of the Canadian northwest.

Alas, now she cannot meet the payments on the land, and is in danger of losing the inn.

Meanwhile, a detachment of Mounties on a secret mission, arrives, led by Captain "Big Jim" Warington, whose courage and daring won the the heart of Little Mary, while her sweetness and beauty have in turn, won the heart of Captain Jim.

LIGHT-HEARTED

In case anyone is still in doubt, it's all a light-hearted, good-natured spoof—Bastion Theatre's summer musical comedy, Little Mary Sunshine, which opens next Friday at McPherson Playhouse—and like all good spoofs, it contains many elements of truth.

BEGINS JULY 21

Little Mary Sunshine is directed by Peter Mannering and designed by John Heath, with costume design by Wendy Packard. Musical direction is by Marge Adelberg, Merlisse Hill and Don McManus. It plays at McPherson Playhouse July 21 to Aug. 12, 8:30 nightly.

During its run, Bastion is also presenting a children's musical, with adaptation, music and lyrics by Marge Adelberg.

The Three Bears opens Monday, July 24, and plays matinees daily at 2 p.m. until Aug. 12. Mannering again directs and starring are Irene Henderson, Ramona McBean, Nancy Watt, Ross Petty, Glenn MacDonald, and appearing on stage in her own play—Marge Adelberg.

LOOKING AT BOOKS

Grateful Even For Graffiti

By JOAON COLDWELL

If you're looking for something to do this summer, try looking for poems. Found Poems are the latest craze with the literary fringe groups of London and New York.

COLDWELL

Like the "objet trouve" of modern art, where any old object—soup can, Coke bottle or hunk of scrap iron—is invested with artistic significance, the found poem is discovered in unlikely places.

Cook book obituaries, insurance policies, classifieds; any source not originally intended to be poetic can be used. The words are kept as they are found, except for rearrangement into lines.

Take an example from Hoyle's Official Rules of Card Games:

Some play
That since a cat, dog or skeet
Beats a straight,
A cat flush, dog flush or skeet flush
Beats a straight flush and becomes
The highest-ranking hand
Unless
A wild card makes possible
Five of a kind
Which is always the highest hand.

The most publicized "found poet," as I suppose he must be called, is an English lecturer named John Daniel, who has been reciting the London telephone directory on the BBC Third Program. He plans to publish his grandfather's First World War diary as a sort of Found Epic.

Meanwhile in New York, where several poets have been finding poems in newspaper items, tax forms and graffiti, a radio station broadcast a reading of labels, "The Canister Papers."

Then a competition in the New Statesman attracted some fine specimens—from The Warren Report, Roget's Thesaurus, a Pan-Am guidebook (submitted by Graham Greene) and a Latin grammar. This last, from "Verbs of Fearing," took the prize:

I am afraid to do this.
I am afraid he will do this.
I was afraid you would not do this.
He is dead.
I was afraid he had not seen me.
Do not fear to return . . .
Are you afraid of speaking?
We are afraid of being seen.
I am afraid lest they should see us.
I am afraid they will not see us.
They were not afraid to tell the truth.
I fear that he has lied.

Of course it's been done before. In 1819, a Cambridge geologist found a poem, rhymes and all, in William Whewell's An Elementary Treatise on Mechanics:

There is no force, however great,
Can stretch a cord, however fine,
Into a horizontal line,
Which is accurately straight.

Whewell was not amused when the poem was recited in an after-dinner speech and he took care to alter the lines in the next edition. Though Whewell published two books of serious verse, only his Found Poem is remembered now.

Found Poems played a part in a famous hoax organized by two Australian soldiers. In 1944 an avant-garde literary review Angry Penguins published the work of a new poet, Ern Malley, together with a glowing 30-page appreciation. The poor editor was cornered; the poems were all scraps pieced together from handy publications, from a U.S. report on mosquitoes, for example:

Swamps, marshes, barrow-pits and other
Areas of stagnant water serve
As breeding grounds.

There are, of course, dozens of legitimate writers who "found" material for both poetry and prose; James Joyce comes to mind, and Dos Passos and Carlos Williams, while T. S. Eliot found dramatic poetry in the fatuous conversations of a cocktail party. And the first poem in Yeats' Oxford Book of Modern Verse is "found"; it is actually a prose passage from Pater's The Renaissance.

Found Poetry is fun and it is also educational. Our ears are so bombarded by words that we fast become immune to their meanings and their power. Whether it's an artistic exercise or just a game, Found Poetry reveals the patterns into which language naturally falls and sharpens awareness of the beauties—and absurdities—of the written word.

Found Poems Invited

Readers are invited to submit original Found Poems. The best poems will be printed at the end of the summer. Manuscripts, which cannot be returned, should be sent to the book editor and must carry the sender's name and address. The source of the Found Poem must be indicated.

Wandering About Lima and Andes

Reviewed by R. C. Terry

An exotic Peruvian setting of mountain villages, lush valley, jungle river and the bustling, white city of Lima, dominates this promising first novel.

Hopkins takes a footloose and unattached character named Caffery through a series of disconnected adventures as he wanders about Lima and the Andes.

This is a strange novel. It seems to have no focus and no character conflict. Caffery remains throughout the very quiet American, revealing little about himself (we don't even discover his first name) merging himself with the landscape.

Yet by the end of the novel we know Caffery well. The effect of highlighting the violent, paradoxical background of peasant farm, mining community and town square, has been to express the hero's own impulsive, restless character.

We first meet Caffery with Anne, an archaeologist, travelling by truck to Lima. Its load is a cargo of pigs bound for the market. A fearful crash is described with gruesome humor and sets the thematic key of enigmatic arbitrariness which Caffery finds in life.

At Lima the travellers part, and Caffery falls in with another friend, Paul Bonsal, a solitary like himself who loves to explore the Sierra.

Preparing for a jungle foray Caffery buys eggs in an adobe courtyard, watches a procession, and becomes for no reason the target of an old woman's anger. She strikes him between the shoulder blades with her shoe.

"Why did you do that?" he asks, but there is no comprehensible answer. "The old woman had succeeded in making me feel thoroughly uncomfortable."

So are we, for Caffery has more experiences, as mystifying to him as to us.

Events are not linked in any way and characters meet and drift apart quiet casually. In the course of the story Caffery lives in a mining town fourteen thousand feet up in the Andes, survives a trip by raft among rapids, gets jailed for killing a dog, nurses an Indian through pneumonia, and helps build a dam.

Direction and pattern are denied us in this novel. Caffery rejects design and permanence, living by the necessity of submitting to the demands of the moment, admitting only the need to keep moving. "I ought to be on my way," he keeps repeating.

At last he is again in Lima, where a neon Coca-Cola sign lights the street, and an enormous cement Christ shines down from a mountain behind the city.

But it is in some ways a new Caffery who has emerged from the jungle.

He senses a greater involvement in human life and a need for some kind of permanence, telling Bonsal that he will first take a flat and then possibly start a lumbering operation in the jungle. Bonsal remains utterly detached:

"I think to be alone in this country is a glorious thing," but Caffery is less sure. "Sometimes I think so," he replies. He heads for the city centre, leaving Bonsal alone in his apartment.

John Hopkins is an author to watch. He has a fine descriptive power which has led to comparisons already with Hemingway and Conrad. This is misleading. It seems to me that in theme and style Hopkins is much closer to the modern French novelists such as Sarraute and Robbe Grillet.

Anthology Corner

Cupid and my Campaspe played
At cards for kisses—Cupid paid:
He stakes his quiver, bow, and arrows,
His mother's doves, and team of sparrows;
Loses them too; then down he throws
The coral of his lips, the rose
Growing on's cheek (but none knows how);
With these, the crystal of his brow,
And then the dimple of his chin:
All these did my Campaspe win.
At last he set her both his eyes—
She won, and Cupid blind did rise.
O Love! has she done this for thee?
What shall, alas! become of me?

John Lyly, 1553-1606.

Did Bard Translate The Bible?

Some people think Shakespeare helped translate the King James Bible. One of the more engaging "proofs" is as follows. The 46th word of the 46th Psalm is SHAKE and the 46th word from the end of the same Psalm (not counting Selah, which is not part of the Psalm proper) is SPEAR. And, would you believe it, when the Authorized Version was completed in 1610, Shakespeare was 46 years old.

QUOTES FROM WARS

DICTIONARY OF MILITARY AND NAVAL QUOTATIONS, by Col. Debs Heinl Jr., Annapolis, United States Naval Institute, 1967. 367 pp. $15.

Reviewed by R. H. Roy

How many times have you heard a saying which seemed rather familiar yet you were unable to place by author or time?

Or have you ever been in a position, whether when preparing a speech or writing a paper, when you wanted to reach out for a book which, like Roget's Thesarus or Bartlett's Quotations, could provide just the right solution to your problem? If such is the case, and if your interest is in the military field, this is the book for you.

Let me try you on a few. Who said: "Whatever happens, you and I will do our duty"? Or: "However absorbed a commander may be in the elaboration of his own thoughts, it is sometimes necessary to take the enemy into account"? What about this one: "A man-of-war is the best ambassador" or perhaps "Willing obedience always beats forced obedience." For those of you who are puzzled, the spokesmen were, in order—Wellington, Churchill, Oliver Cromwell and Xenophon.

Liddell Hart, Stonewall Jackson, Sir John Fisher, Shakespeare, General Patton, Foch, Napoleon, Farragut—these are but a few of the people he quotes.

There is no limitation with respect to either time or place. Quotations such as "An end to those bloated armaments" sounds so modern that it is surprising, perhaps, to realize that Disraeli said it over a century ago.

Generals and admirals, diplomats and historians, poets and playwrights—all are quoted, and usually there is a brief description putting the quotation in its proper context.

The dictionary is arranged alphabetically by headings such as Ambush, Barracks, Camouflage, etc., which permit the reader to go immediately to the area in which he is interested. An index of sources is another invaluable help. This book is not only very useful as a reference book, it is also one which can be picked up, opened anywhere and read with interest.

Packages Of Fun

THE CANADIAN SERIES OF JACKDAWS. Clarke, Irwin and Company Ltd. $2.50 each.

The publishers call them "play objects." They are packages of newspapers, letters, posters, songs, portraits and assorted fragments of the past with which the player can reconstruct history.

These miniature private archives originated in London. Now we have our own series of Jackdaws, wholly Canadian in concept and design.

The first three packages are just out: Confederation 1867 (with a plastic replica of the Confederation Medallion), Riel (includes a flexidisc record of Songs of the North West), and Canada Votes, 1791-1891. Many more titles, including The Fur Trade and Building the CPR, are in preparation; three more will appear in September.

The News Are Here

HERE ARE THE NEWS, by Edith Josie; Clarke, Irwin & Co., 135 pp.

This book is a collection of the unedited newspaper columns written for the Whitehorse Star by Edith Josie during the period from 1962 to 1966. It offers an unusual insight into the texture of Indian life in the isolated Yukon village of Old Crow, eighty miles beyond the Arctic Circle. It is largely a recording of day-by-day news — arrivals and departures by plane, episodes within the village, ravages of disease, the successes and failures in procuring the bare necessities for the 200 Indian population and the few "whites" who service the village.

Written in colloquial English, it reveals the warm-hearted personality of Edith, who states, "Myself I really like everyone as to be my friend." In regard to the encroaching civilization of the white man, she writes, "I'll bet if they start to make Old Crow a big town, they won't do it." Recommended for light reading.

Canada Denies Report in U.S. On Blockade

OTTAWA (CP) — An external affairs department spokesman denied a published report that Canada had been eager to join the United States and Britain in breaking Egypt's Gulf of Aqaba blockade before the June 5-10 Arab-Israeli war

The report appeared in Monday's New York Times. The spokesman said it was evident at the time of Prime Minister Wilson's visit here May 29-30 that Britain and Canada did not contemplate joining in any military action to break the Egyptian blockade, which triggered the war.

There has been some concern here about the newspaper report because of the repercussions it might have in Arab countries.

On May 28, President Nasser of Egypt accused Canada of "imperialist plotting" with Israel, Britain and the U.S.

CANADA OBJECTED

He also accused Prime Minister Pearson of an "act of aggression" against all Arab states because Canada had objected to withdrawal of the United Nations Emergency Force in Egypt without the matter being submitted to the UN Security Council or General Assembly.

On July 8, Mr. Pearson told the Commons the U.S. had given Israel a firm promise in 1956 that it would exercise the right of free and innocent passage in the Gulf of Aqaba if the gulf were ever blockaded. The gulf is Israel's only southern outlet by sea.

Mr. Pearson said Canada had supported this U.S. position in 1956 but gave no indication that Canada had any intention of providing military support.

When Canada dispatched three naval ships to the Mediterranean in case they were needed to assist in evacuation of the Canadian UNEF contingent, the Cairo press suggested the ships were part of an Anglo-American task force bent on helping Israel.

UN Secretary-General U Thant still has not asked Canada to supply any observers for the UN team overseeing the cease-fire line along the Suez Canal.

And so far, none of the 20 Canadian officers serving with the UN Truce Supervisory Organization in Palestine has been assigned to the Suez mission.

'Instant Town' Go-Ahead Given To Granduc

Granduc Mines was given a provincial government go-ahead Thursday for establishing an "instant town" in the Summit Lake wilderness about 60 miles north of Stewart.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said the cabinet order leasing 254 acres to the mining company will provide an area for a townsite serving about 1,000 persons by the 1969 opening date for the mine.

He said the next step will be for the company to formally submit to him a community plan for laying out the townsite.

Fines Total $375

Clifford Lynch, 21, of 1018 Pembroke was fined $350 for impaired driving and $25 for driving without a licence Friday.

He pleaded guilty to both charges when he appeared in central court.

JAYNE'S ESTATE WORTH $800,000

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The estate of the late Jayne Mansfield is worth more than $800,000, according to one of the men involved in a court struggle to administer it.

Charles Goldring, business manager for the actress, claimed she left $35,000 in cash, $163,500 in stocks, and personal property worth $250,000.

'Put Houses in Order' Postal Unions Told

OTTAWA (CP)— The public service staff relations board reserved judgment Friday on a proposal that it adjourn its current hearing on a certification bid by the Council of Postal Unions.

The council—made up of top officers of the Canadian Union of Postal Employees and the Letter Carriers Union of Canada—seeks to win certification on behalf of some 28,000 postal employees.

Counsel for the treasury board, the government body that acts as employer in all federal public service bargaining, proposed the adjournment to give the two postal unions time to "put their houses in order."

Key questions raised during the two-day hearing:

—Does the postal council have constitutional authority to bargain on behalf of postal employees—neither union ever obtained referendum approval from their memberships to form the council.

—Should the council be allowed to bargain on behalf of some 3,500 part-time workers and railway mail clerks who are constitutionally barred from membership in the council. Spokesmen for both unions testified this restriction will be lifted.

Board Chairman Jacob Finkelman reserved judgment on the two points until next Tuesday.

When the hearing resumes the board will also hear evidence from the 115,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada and the Association of Postal Officials of Canada, both seeking to represent some 2,000 postal supervisory employees.

NEVER CAUSED ILL EFFECTS IN PAST, SAYS DOCTOR

Rejuvenation Serum Injected Before Deaths

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Albert Grenier, 39, told a coroner's inquest Friday he injected two women with a "rejuvenation" serum which he said was prepared from unborn lambs.

Dr Ilona Kerner of the medico-legal institute in Montreal testified that both women died several days later—the cause of death being "infection with the formation of gas gangrene."

The inquest is being held into the deaths of Marie Louise de Grandpre, 74, and Pierrette Riverin, 31, a schoolteacher. Miss de Grandpre died June 6, Miss Riverin two days later.

Dr. Grenier, of suburban La Salle testified before Coroner Laurin Lapointe that on 12 previous occasions the serum had been used on patients with no ill effects.

He said the practice of taking the foetus of a lamb for the rejuvenation of humans was developed in Switzerland during the 1930s and used since by many European doctors.

He testified his serum was not in accordance with the Canadian Food and Drug Act, but added that these statutes concerned large commercial laboratories and that his lab was established for "the advancement of science," not for commercial motives.

Under questioning by Michel Cote, city police attorney, Dr. Grenier said that in a death certificate he attributed Miss de Grandpre's death to a heart attack.

He also testified that he charged two of his patients $450 for the injections and one $350. Miss de Grandpre received the serum for free, he said, because she had invested $1,000 in the laboratory operated by himself and his associate, Roland Caty.

I'd Like to Talk to You About THREE MILLION DOLLARS

Last month, over $3,000,000 in business was done by the Multiple Listing Service of the Victoria Real Estate Board.

So—Who Cares?

You should. Because some day—maybe sooner than you expect—you'll decide to sell your home. And when that happens, you'll want two things . . .

1. Fast Action
2. Highest Possible Price

Multiple Listing works fast (in June, 59 homes were sold in the first week of listing)—and because it reaches more of the possible buyers, you get better offers, and a better final price.

Hence the $3,000,000

And if you find all that money hard to imagine, look at the dots on the left. If each one represents $10,000, that's three million dollars worth of dots.

It's a lot of money. Some of it could be yours this month, if you put your home on Multiple Listing.

Western Oils Centre Stage

By DOUGLAS ADAMSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Scurry-Rainbow Oil held the spotlight this week as western oils continued their long-running, centre-stage performance on Canadian stock exchanges.

Scurry advanced 10 to 46 as it bettered the losses suffered when it plummeted 13⅛ to 29¼ June 29 after the company announced drilling on its north-eastern Saskatchewan property failed to establish the presence of a readily-exploitable orebody.

Analysts said rumors circulated recently about possible mergers and new ore discoveries but the company said Thursday it "has no knowledge of any proposed tender offers . . . or any proposed mergers or amalgamations."

Peter Abt, Scurry's executive vice-president, said Wednesday in Calgary the company was continuing its mining and oil work and he could give no details on fresh developments.

OPEN NEW MARKETS

Analysts attributed the continuing investor interest in western oils to uncertainty of future relations between the Arab oil-producing countries and the West. Western Europe, the analysts say, may have to loosen its dependence on the Middle East as a source of oil and turn to Canada, the U.S. and Venezuela to meet its needs.

Dome Petroleum rose 6⅞ to 61¾ as company officials predicted higher profits for 1967. Hudson's Bay was up 2⅜ to 39¼, Pacific Petroleum ¾ to 17½ and Canadian Superior Oil ¾ to 47¼.

The western oil index rose 10.99 to 194.18 after reaching an all-time high of 195.27 at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Among industrials, Rothmans advanced 2 to 28¼ and Imperial Tobacco ⅛ to 14 in the wake of news of a new cigarette filter reported by its American inventor to reduce the intake of tars and nicotines.

Shop and Save, a Montreal-based food wholesaler, gained ¾ to 12¾ after reporting record sales and profits for the fiscal year ended March 25, 1967.

SPLITS SHARES

John Labatt Ltd. rose 1 to 26⅞ after the board of directors recommended the company's shares be split two for one and authorized a 25-cent increase in the quarterly dividend.

Uranium issues experienced losses with Denison down 4 to 69½, Roman Corp. ⅝ to 19, Rio Algom and Preston 1¾ each to 34 and 18½ and Stanrock 20 cents to 4.25.

Japan Deals Spark Hunt For B.C. Coal

A major exploration effort to find vast deposits of coking coal is under way in the Kootenay area about 20 miles north of the Natal-Michel centre of B.C.'s coal mining industry.

So far no firm strikes of major coal seams have been reported but interest is high enough that Crows Nest Industries Ltd. Friday gave notice it will apply for exploration permits on an additional three square miles of the Rocky Montains' Fording River area.

The legal notice says it hopes to find seams enabling production of one million tons annually.

The application adjoins some four square miles it was licensed to explore last March.

An even bigger search is under way in the same vicinity by McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd., which this week was granted nine licences of about one square miles apiece. This was added to the 49 exploration licences it obtained last March from the cabinet.

BIG CONTRACTS

The activity is believed prompted by the recent signing of a 12 million ton contract by Coleman Industries with Japanese steel interests for supplying coal from the Alberta slopes of the Rockies and current negotiations for an even bigger contract by Kaiser Corporation and CNIL.

Both deals have been described as merely preliminary stages in a prospective export trade that could send more than $1 billion worth of Rocky Mountain coke to steel mills in Japan and California during the next decade.

GAS, OIL RIGHTS SALE WILL BE HELD AUG. 23

The first of four gas and oil rights sales for this fiscal year will be held Aug. 23, the department of mines and mineral resources announced Friday.

A total of 62 parcels of land covering 793,280 acres, mostly in the northeast and Peace River blocks, will be auctioned in the sale for exploration and development purposes.

Last year's four sales garnered $18.6 million in royalty and rental payments for the provincial treasury.

The new sale offering includes 19 permit parcels totalling 725,917 acres; six drilling reservations on 49,261 acres and 37 leases covering 18,102 acres.

Copper Industry Hit by Strike

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The U.S. copper industry was virtually shut down today after negotiations affecting about 37,000 union members broke down.

Cass Alvin, public relations director for the Western Division of the United Steelworkers of America, said the strike affects "over 90 per cent of all copper production and a substantial portion of lead and zinc production."

The Big Four of the copper industry — Kennecott, Phelps-Dodge, Anaconda, and American Smelting and Refining—and numerous smaller western copper producers all were affected. Union officials called it "an orderly shutdown."

More than 80 per cent of the workers are with the United Steelworkers of America, which recently merged with the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

Strikers included production, maintenance, clerical and technical workers.

Walter Maggiolo of the federal mediation and conciliation service announced Friday the breakdown in negotiations.

Maggiolo said talks would resume July 20 with Phelps-Dodge, July 21 with Kennecott, July 26 with American Smelting and Refining and July 28 with Anaconda.

Details of various contract proposals have not been revealed, but a union spokesman in Salt Lake City last month said the union wanted a three-year contract providing a wage package in excess of the 1964 increase of 36-40 cents an hour. He said the majority of workers now make about $3.25 an hour.

American Metal Market, the industry trade newspaper, says copper consumers have 60 to 90 days supply on hand.

Westbank Interest Admitted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Financier Andrew Saxton said Friday he has been asked to find a plan that would save the troubled Bank of Western Canada.

He said he has been "encouraged" by several Westbank directors.

He was commenting on a claim by Westbank President James Coyne that a move is being made to replace him with Saxton.

"If I had not been encouraged by a great many directors to find a plan, I would not be wasting five minutes of my time on it," Saxton said.

He said he has always been fascinated by banking.

"I might be prepared to meet this challenge under certain conditions," he said. "But I am not prepared to discuss them in the newspapers."

BIF Reports Heavy Loss During 1966

TORONTO (CP)—British International Finance Canada Ltd. had a loss after special charges for the year ended Dec. 31, 1966, of $1,974,514 compared with a profit of $37,819 in 1965.

This includes the company's operating loss for the year totalling $11,677.

Special charges of $1,962,837, noted in the company's annual report Tuesday, included:

1. $913,758 in non-recurring losses in subsidiaries, including write-off of branch establishment and preliminary expenses, and write-off of advances to mutual fund sales companies;

2. $900,000 to cover a probably loss under guarantee of a loan to the wholly-owned subsidiary, BIF Management Corp. Ltd., "due to a decline in the market value of its underlying investments";

3. Provision of $149,079 for non-recoverable investments and advances to associated companies.

Marc Bienvenu, company president, said the profitability of BIF's subsidiary companies was "adversely affected by a combination of tight-money conditions, excessive development costs, and an overextended investment position."

WESTERN MINES

Report Missing, Meeting Ends

VANCOUVER (CP)—A meeting of Western Mines Ltd. shareholders was adjourned Friday before it got started.

Adjournment was requested by president W. G. Jewitt because financial information necessary for the main business was not available.

Mr. Jewitt said it appeared the financial situation was more complex and the financial requirements of the company more onerous than previous estimated had shown.

Western Mines closed Friday down 30 cents at $2.20 on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

The meeting was called to vote on a proposal for increasing the authorized capital of the company to 6,000,000 shares from 5,000,000 shares.

The amount of money to be raised through an offering of rights and the number of shares to be issued was to be determined after an independent survey of the company's requirements.

AWAIT REPORT

Mr. Jewitt said the report had not been received and that Consolidated Canadian Faraday Ltd., which was to purchase some of the shares not subscribed by other shareholders, wanted a detailed report before making a proposal.

When the meeting was called June 29, shareholders of Western Mines were told they would be offered rights to subscribe to additional shares at $2 each to provide additional capital for the company's mining operation on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Jewitt said in a letter to them the money was needed because the cost of getting into production last January had exceeded original estimates, due to a number of unforeseen factors.

Automakers Enjoy Gain In Sales

DETROIT (AP) — United States automakers, gearing down for the changeover to production of 1968 models, found sales up eight per cent in the first 10 days of July compared to the same period a year ago.

Reports show all four companies had sales jumps ranging from slightly less than one per cent at Ford Motor Co. to 13 per cent at tiny American Motors Corp.

General Motors Corp., giant of the industry, had sales up 11.8 per cent and Chrysler, smallest member of the Big Three, showed a sales gain of nine per cent over the July 1-10 period in 1966.

The 1967 comparisons were extra - favorable because there were only seven days in the period against eight of the 1966 period.

Distillery Reports Increase in Profits

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Hiram Walker-Gooderham and Worts Ltd. has announced net earnings of $28,737,836 U.S., or $1.67 a share for the nine months ended May 31, 1967, compared with $26,983,200 or $1.57 in the similar period last year.

Earnings in the third quarter were $8,195,737 or 48 cents a share compared with $7,735,562 or 45 cents a year ago.

Tobacco Firms Ponder Two Cigarette Filtering Devices

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Two of Canada's leading tobacco companies looked away disdainfully today from claims by three University of Windsor scientists who have announced a new tar-reducing device for cigarettes.

They were not impressed with the plastic and aluminum percolating device.

The three men—Dr. Joseph R. J. Habowsky, assistant professor of biology; Otto Brudy, a research equipment designer; and his son, Peter, a chemistry technician — announced Friday the development of their percolating device.

They said in an interview they had been forced to disclose their research by an announcement Thursday from Columbia University of its acquisition of a "revolutionary" new filter system for cigarettes.

They said the findings of their research in Canada should now be publicized also. They claim their device removes up to 90 per cent of tars, nicotine and other possibly harmful agents in the smoking of cigarettes.

The device spins the smoke and by centrifugal force ejects it through an aluminum diaphragm depositing tar and nicotine particles safely away from possible inhalation by the smoker.

Refuting their claims, John H. Devlin, president of Rothmans of Pall Mall of Canada Ltd., said samples tested by his organization "did not produce a good taste" and Rothmans now was more interested in the filter system acquired by Columbia.

He said in Toronto Friday that if the claim of the United States university is proved correct—that its filter system reduces the amount of nicotine and tars by 70 per cent—and there is no loss of flavor, it might mean the end of plain cigarettes.

In Montreal, the vice-president of research and development of the Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada Ltd., said his company had also witnessed a demonstration of the Windsor device and was "not impressed."

Mr. L. C. Laporte said his organization has assessed the device and considered it did not offer any advantages that are not present in existing filters.

Dr. Habowsky today vigorously rejected their statements. He explained that both companies had sent representatives to Windsor when the device was in an embryonic stage. "Since then we have perfected it and we stand by our claim. They can be demonstrated at any time."

Otto Brudy, superintendent of the University of Windsor's research equipment section, charged Friday that two U.S. cigarette companies had manufactured their own tar-testing devices, setting their own standards in the tests and accepting "great inaccuracies."

He said the percolator, which he originally invented a year ago, was versatile enough to be used outside a cigarette and reproduced much more accurately the "human conditions existing in smoking."

But if the major tobacco companies in Canada have shown little interest in the device, support came from a director of the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Board, who said Friday night the Windsor development "could give smokers more confidence and feeling of security."

Ernest Duckett of Leamington said far-reaching effects on Ontario's $153,000,000 tobacco industry could result from use of the percolator.

J. Robert Calcott, chairman of the board of the National Association of Tobacco and Confectionary Distributors of Canada, also praised the Windsor researchers.

"All cigarette smokers will be looking forward to testing the new systems."

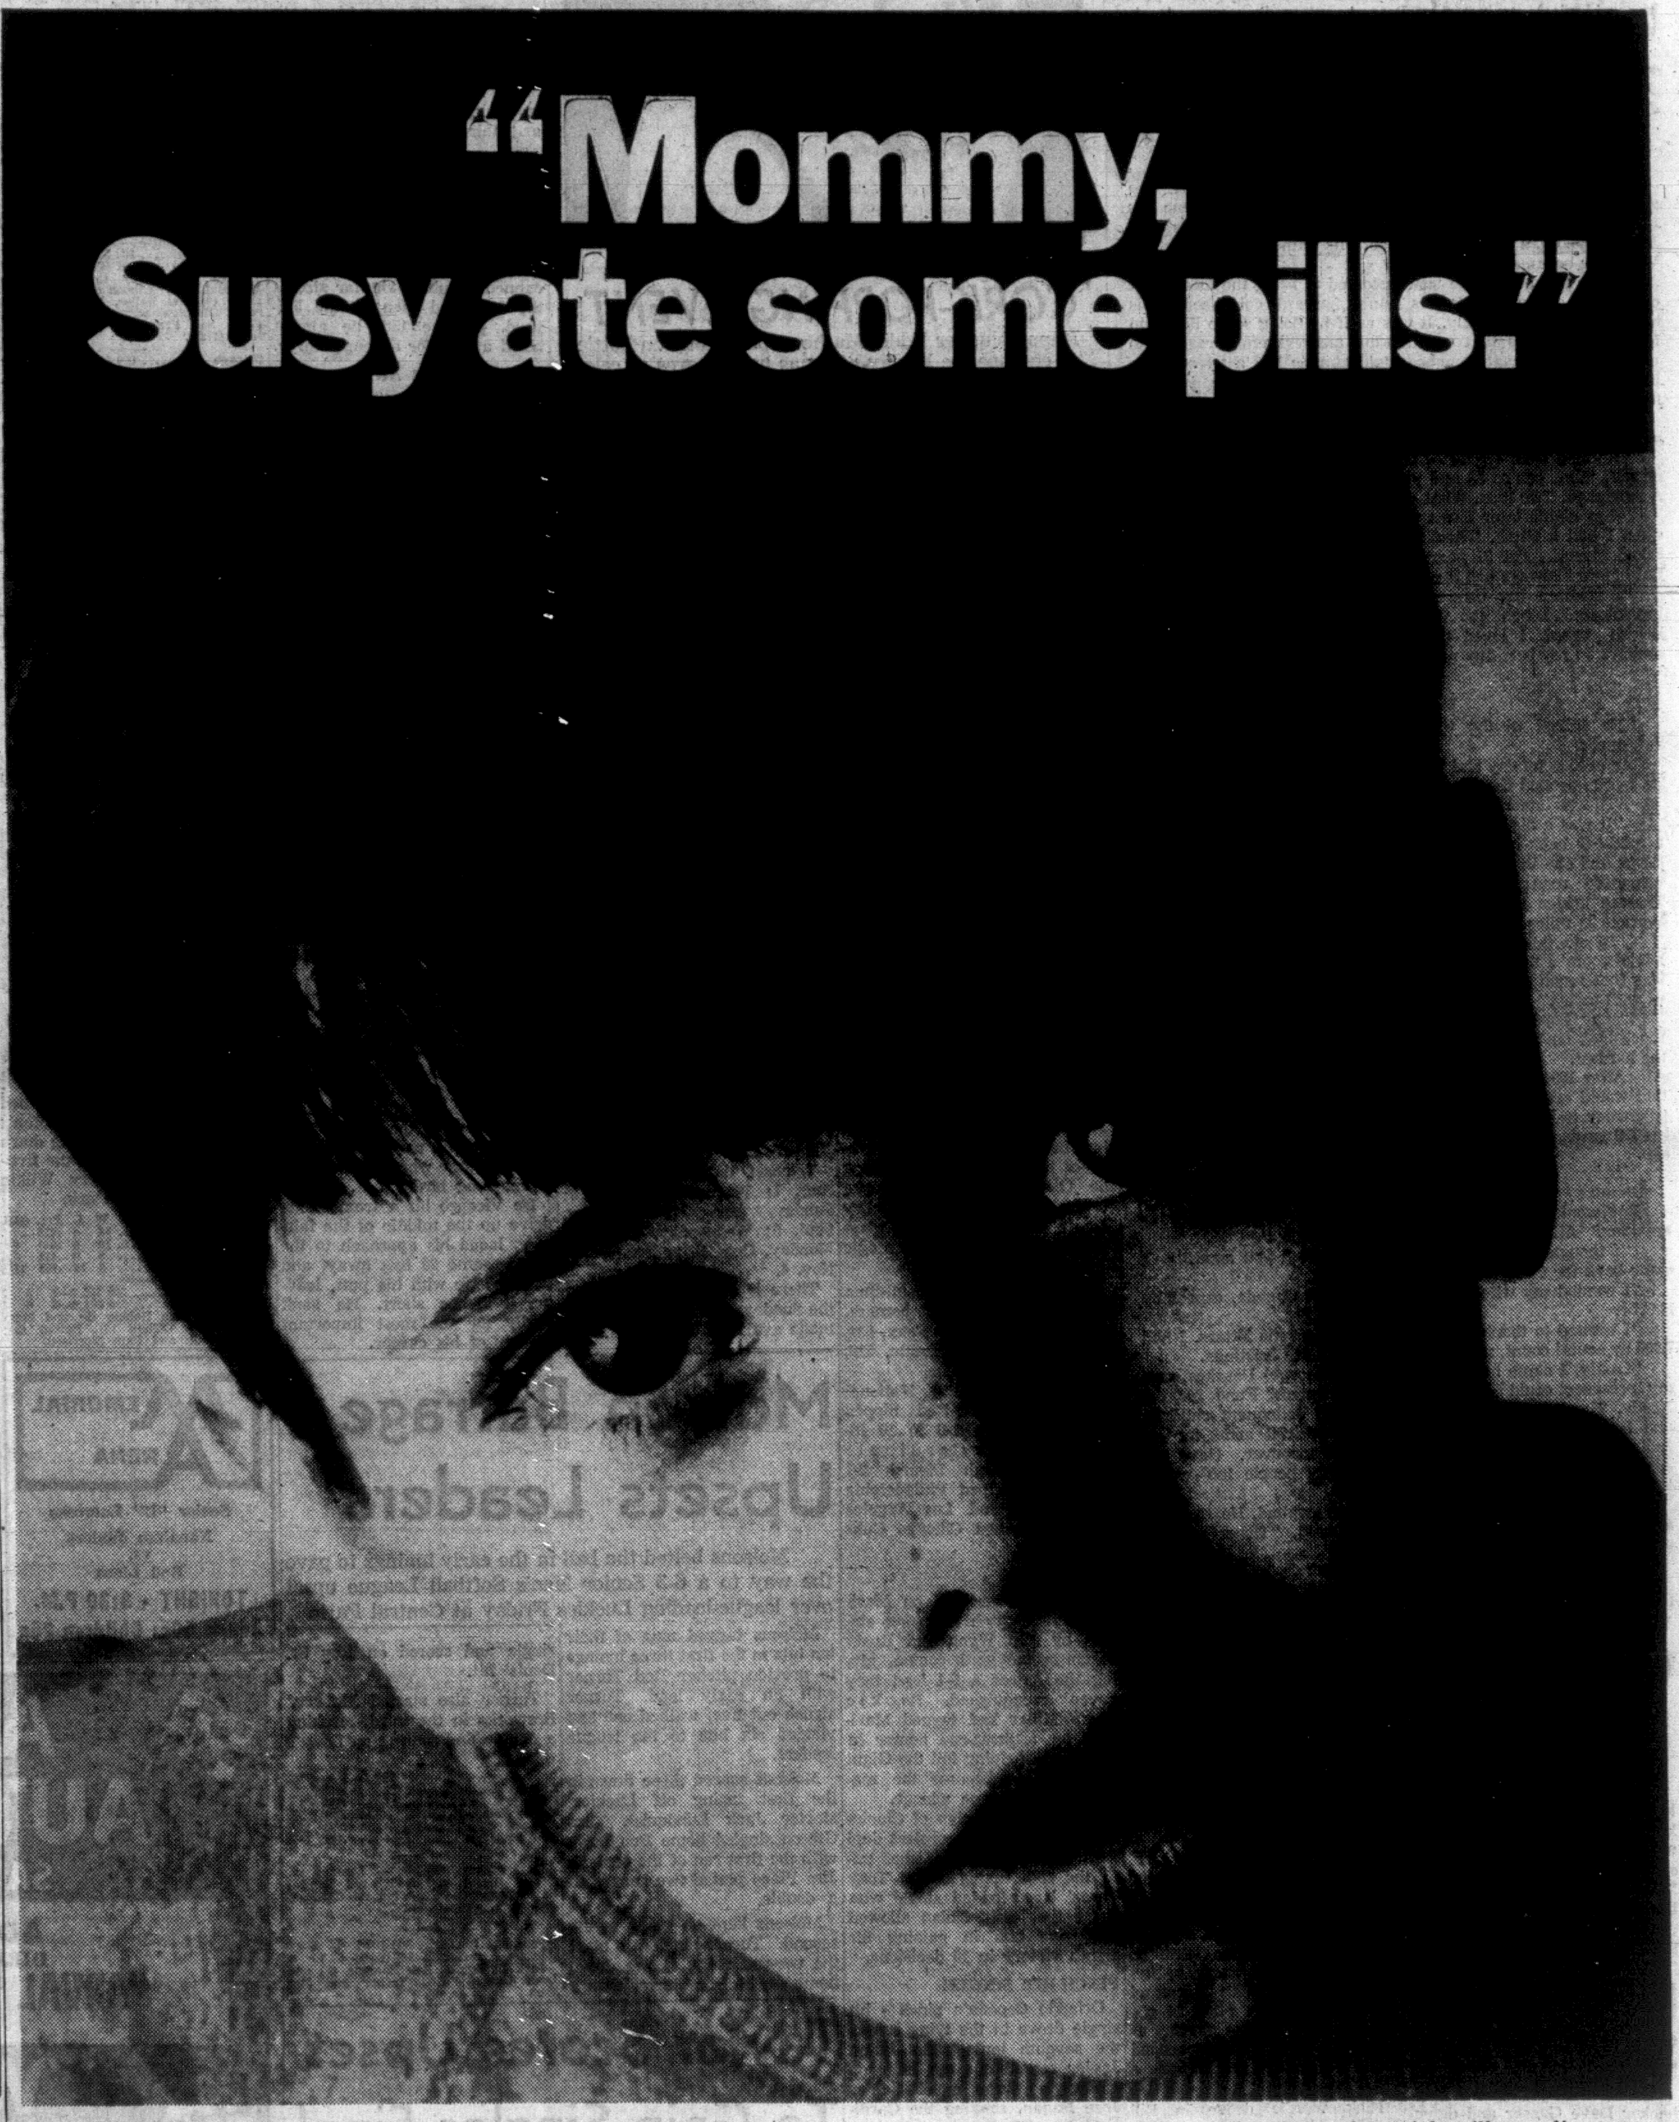
Sales Manager Appointed
Expansion Continues At Colony Realty

Norm White

As the picture indicates, there's nothing square about Norm White. In tune with today's selling ideas, ready to apply original thinking to every sales problem, Mr. White and the young, forward-looking sales organization at Colony Realty complement each other perfectly. He comes to Victoria from Saskatoon, where his 10-year realty experience included six years running his own successful business, National Realty Limited. A member of the Canadian Legion, No. 7, and the U.C.T., he is well qualified in selling homes, commercial properties and hotels, as well as in the rental and property management business.

Salesmen—and saleswomen—who would like to share in the success of Colony Realty are invited to phone Mr. White at 386-3231, or call in at the luxurious new Realco Buliding, 1800 Blanshard Street.



"Mommy, Susy ate some pills."

It can't happen to you.

It can happen to someone in the newspapers, someone on TV. It can even happen to the family right across the street. But to you? Never.

Last year, in B.C. alone, it happened to over two thousand parents who said it couldn't happen to them.

Somehow their children were accidentally poisoned.

Medicines are supposed to save lives, not take them. That's why the prescriptions you receive from your Cunningham dispensaries come in special safety vials.

They're childproof.

As a matter of fact, unless you're an adult and know the combination, you can't open one either. But it's quick and simple once you know how. All it takes is some firm palm pressure on the lid, and a twist to the left. It's easy for you, but not for your child. So dangerous drugs stay locked inside. Out of harm's way.

But remember. Most accidental poisonings still occur not because the child was able to open a poison container but because it was left within his reach in the first place. Please. Store your drugs, cleaning fluids and other household chemicals where your children can't get their hands on them. And just in case, jot down the number of the Poison Control Centre near you: in Vancouver it's 876-3211, in Victoria 386-3131.

You can take the first step towards preventing an accidental poisoning in your home right here and now. Say this out loud to yourself:

"It can happen to me."

Our safety vials will save lives, but we need your help.

Do it for us.

Because we want your children to live.

AT CUNNINGHAMS
WE CARE

LOOKS AT SPORTS

When you think of an athletic great the image is of a man, carved in the muscular mold of Gordie Howe, a fiery individual like Maurice Richard.

Then you meet Jim Peters. He wears sandals with crossover straps. Dark brown shirt. Windbreaker. He is slightly hunched. When you shake hands it's like holding pencils.

But the eyes are clear. They dance. He has mastered the art of total concentration. When he listens or speaks he gives all of himself to you.

It is perhaps incongruous that here is a man who may never be forgotten by my generation for a race he didn't win. For those who ride aimlessly on a hallucinogenic broomstick there may be a lesson—you can lose a battle and still win self-esteem.

The drop-out, tune-in, turn-on disciples of Timothy O'Leary see the world as a challenge—man's independence vs. conforming society.

Some day they may peer through the bangs and banana leaves and measure their contributions to society (take your time, hippies) against Jim Peters'—outstanding example, indomitable spirit, unlimited will.

Peters won respect long before he staggered and fell, arose and fell again in the marathon at Vancouver on Aug. 7, 1954. He did not have to go on, pushing beyond the precipice of pain, flirting with death by exhaustion.

Such was the pull on the hearts of the millions who watched on television and the 30,000 present that his name has become a page-mark in time. Everybody remembers Jim Peters. Who can recall the winner? His name was Joe McGee. Whatever became of Joe McGee?

In the manner of one unaccustomed to being the focal point of a press conference, Peters leaned forward, cold beer in his hands, and talked rapidly. It was as if by doing so he hoped to forestall questions that would bring answers embarrassing to others. (Why hadn't somebody told him he had a tremendous lead so that he could have slackened his pace? Why had no one thrown water on him?)

A man asked, "What went wrong after 1954? Why did you quit running?"

"Nothing went wrong — physically," Peters said. I said to myself, 'Jim, you're 35 and you haven't made much progress. A mortgage. Two kids. What else?'

"Two nights later I was running. I'd gone about two miles when I had a stitch. 'What the hell are you doing this for?' I asked myself. For 21 years I had been asking that question. But before I always had a reason. Now I didn't.

"I realized my time was over. Strictly a psychological breakdown. I held the world record for the marathon, the British record. I loved running. Every minute of it. But I couldn't do my best any more."

●

He talked of the traffic accident he had been in at Vancouver.

An auto company had turned over a car and he was driving his family around the city.

"It was automatic drive and I wasn't used to it.

"It was a big car by English standards," he said. I drive a mini-car back home. I have a shop (dispensing optical) in Essex and one in Surrey. They're 22 miles apart over the most congested road in England—including a tunnel under the Thames bridge which was built for horse-traffic in 1980. I average 11 miles-an-hour between shops.

"I saw this big car coming from my left. 'Better give him lots of room' I thought. He held his hands bare inches apart. "I was that much out." Haven't had an accident in 200,000 miles — until today."

Denny Boyd, the author, shook his head. "You don't have much luck on Vancouver streets." Everybody laughed, Peters the hardest.

After 1954 I wondered what Peters could do for an encore that would embellish the memory of his feats. There will be a poignancy to his return to Empire Stadium Monday, to retrace his 220 yards and finish the 220 more he couldn't make 13 years ago.

But wouldn't the beat generation say, "it doesn't prove anything. All he wants is self-aggrandizement'.'

"I thought of that," Peters said. "I tell you honestly—I came back for three reasons.

"I wanted my wife and daughter to see Canada, especially B.C.

"I wanted to thank those people who sent me letters. I had 7,000 by acutal count, more than 1,000 cards at Christmas.

"Lastly, I came because Lieut-Gov. (George) Pearkes, said my presence could stimulate the Jim Peters' Fund for the Needy. They've done quite a job. Helped delinquent children and families in trouble. They bought artificial arms for an Indian boy. I drove past his house in Vancouver. Gave me a wonderful feeling that your people—my people too—would be so generous."

He had overstayed his time. A plane awaited. He stood up and shook hands with everybody and said, "Thank you for coming here."

He had it wrong. He deserved our thanks.

Gordon Head Retains Hopes of Ruth Title

Gordon Head Cosmopolitans kept their hopes alive in the Vancouver Island Babe Ruth tournament (13-year-old division) by edging Alberni Valley 3-2 in two extra innings Friday at Duncan.

Chow's blow was a key one. The Cosmo starter tripled and scored to tie the score at 1-1 in the fourth inning.

Alberni pushed ahead again 2-1 in the top of the eighth on Gordon Dolynny's sacrifice fly. Cosmos replied with a run of their own to stay alive in the bottom half of the frame as Mike Lee walked, stole second and third and scored on a throwing error.

Cosmopolitans tackled Victoria Babe Ruth this afternoon, the winner earning the right to take on unbeaten Saanich Evening Optimists in the final at 5 p.m.

An extra game will be played Sunday if necessary.

Esks' Defence Stops Ti-Cats

EDMONTON (CP) — Linebacker Dave Gasser and defensive end E. A. Sims came up with key defensive plays in the last minute Friday night to preserve a 16-11 win for Edmonton Eskimos over Hamilton Tiger-Cats in a Canadian Football League exhibition game.

The two plays forced the Ticats back to midfield after a fumble recovery had put them in scoring position.

MUNN SLIPS INTO SECOND

SPOKANE (AP)—Ken Still fashioned a second straight sub-par round Friday to take the second-round lead in the Lilac City Open golf tourney in Spokane. The Tacoma pro had a 66 for 131.

In second place, just a stroke back at 132, was Dick Munn of Vancouver. He shot a one-under 70 Friday after a spectacular 62 Thursday. In the third spot was Spokane amateur Mahlon Moe with a 66-68—134.

CORK-POPPING EVENT

Happy slugger Eddie Mathews pulls cork on bottle of champagne Friday night as he prepares to celebrate with Houston teammates after hitting 500th home run of his major league baseball career.

Eddie Wanted The Big One Against Braves

By Associated Press

If Eddie Mathews could call his shots, the Atlanta Braves would be a lot more embarrassed than Juan Marichal today.

"I wish it would have come against the Braves", Mathews said Friday night after smashing the 500th home run of his major league career—a three-run shot off Marichal that carried Houston Astros to an 8-6 victory over San Francisco Giants.

It was the seventh homer of the season for Mathews, who hit 493 in 15 years with the Braves in Boston, Milwaukee and Atlanta before being dispatched to the Astros in a winter trade.

The 35-year-old third baseman thus became the seventh member of the elite 500 club, joining the Giants' Willie Mays and New York Yankees' Mickey Mantle as the only active players who have reached the magic figure.

Babe Ruth heads the all-time list with 714 lifetime homers. Mays has 555, Jimmy Foxx, 534, Ted Williams, 521, Mantle, 512, and Mel Ott, 511.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati Reds nipped New York Mets 1-0 in 10 innings, St. Louis Cardinals edged Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 Atlanta topped Philadelphia Phillies 4-2 and Los Angeles Dodgers downed Chicago Cubs 5-2.

KEY CLOUT

Mathews connected on Marichal's first pitch following singles by Jim Wynn and Rusty Staub in the sixth inning, giving the Astros a 6-4 lead they never relinquished. Rookie Norm Miller had tagged Marichal for a three-run homer in the fourth, helping foil the Giant ace's bid to become the majors' first 13-game winner.

Rookie Gary Nolan of Cincinnati hooked up in scoreless duel with the Mets' Jack Fisher until the 10th inning, when Tony Perez' bases-loaded single won it for the Reds. Nolan allowed only five hits in gaining his eighth victory in 10 decisions.

PINCH-HIT SINGLE

Orlando Cepeda's pinch-hit single drove in the tying run in the seventh inning and Julian Javier scored one out later on a throwing error by left fielder Jose Pagan, sending the Cardinals past Pittsburgh.

Rico Carty pounded a three-run homer in the first inning and Hank Aaron provided an insurance run with his 23rd homer off the Phillies. Winner Tony Cloninger gave up a first-inning homer to Tony Gonzalez and needed relief help in the seventh.

TV VIEWERS WILL BE ABLE TO SEE LIONS

Seven of the B.C. Lions' eight scheduled home games and all playoff games if Lions reach the Western Football Conference playoffs will be televised in Victoria this season.

The announcement was made jointly Friday by Dennis Veitch, general manager of B.C. Lions, and Les Curran, manager of Victoria Cablevision Ltd.

Telecast dates are Monday, Aug. 7; Wednesday, Aug. 16; Sunday, Aug. 27; Saturday, Sept. 9; Wednesday, Sept. 27; Monday, Oct. 23, and Saturday, Nov. 4.

There is little possibility that the Sunday, Oct. 8, game will be made available to Victoria.

Molson Barrage Upsets Leaders

Molsons belted the ball in the early innings to pave the way to a 6-3 Senior Men's Softball League upset over league-leading Luckies Friday at Central Park.

Molsons tagged nine of their ten hits in the first three innings to provide pitcher Rod Turner with an early lead. Turner struck out five, walked one and yielded six hits to the league leaders.

Molsons scored three times in the first inning off Luckies' starter Jack Lundquist. Jim Gibson singled home Bob Lowe with the first run of the contest. Jim Place plated two runs with a double.

Molsons kept on going in the second. Turner singled to start the two-run rally. Lowe drove home the Molson starter with a single and scored on Roy St. Denis' hit.

Turner also started Molsons' fireworks in the third, stroking a double and scoring on Lowe's third hit.

Taylor Scores Upset To Gain Singles Final

Matched against top-seeded Ivor Goodmanson in a men's singles semi-final, unseeded Taylor rose to the occasion to score a 6-4, 6-4 upset and earn the right to challenge veteran Gordon Hartley in today's city tennis championship finals.

Taylor then teamed up with Goodmanson in men's doubles semi-final play. The pair found themselves in a hole after dropping the first set 6-0 to George MacMinn and Bruce Robertson.

But the Taylor-Goodmanson duo volleyed from behind to notch 6-4, 6-3 victories and reach today's final.

In women's singles, Sally Wood trounced Wendy Cuppage 6-0, 6-0 to advance to the final along with Nancy Hill, a 6-2, 6-4 winner over junior Faith Graham.

Juniors Play Molsons

Games start at 2 and 6:30 p.m.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS SUSPENSION

Kapp Denied Injunction

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Supreme Court Friday upheld the suspension of former British Columbia Lions quarterback Joe Kapp by the Canadian Football League team.

Mr. Justice Victor Dryer refused to grant an injunction to Kapp which would have lifted the one-year suspension and restored his name to the players' list.

The Lions contended in court that Kapp breached his contract with the Lions by signing a contract with Houston Oilers of the American Football League for the 1968 season, while still under contract to the Lions.

John L. Farris, B.C. Lions lawyer, said Kapp had received $10,000 for signing the contract, was to receive another $30,000 when he reported to the Oilers and was to receive $10,000 as a car firm public relations officer.

Tenth Try Brings Title to Roberto

Nicklaus Two Strokes Back As De Vicenzo Takes Open

HOYLAKE, England (CP) — Roberto de Vicenzo, the 44-year-old Argentine professional, finally won the British Open golf championship today — on his 10th attempt since 1948. He shot a final-round 70 for a 72-hole total of 278.

Gary Player of South Africa, who started the last 18 holes two shots back of de Vicenzo and one ahead of Nicklaus, struggled with a cold putter, shooting a 74 for 284, which gave him a tie for third place with 22-year-old Clive Clark of England, who had a final 72.

The Latin American had been runnerup for the title in 1950 and third on four other occasions.

De Vicenzo's lead was cut to two strokes by Nicklaus at the nine-hole turn, but the Argentine didn't waver.

He knocked in an eight-foot putt at the 10th hole, almost canned a putt of similar size at the 13th and then at the 515-yard, par-five 15th he almost holed a chip for an eagle three.

MOVED FOUR AHEAD

He canned the putt easily and at this stage moved four strokes ahead of Nicklaus, with Player, de Vicenzo's partner in the pairings, another stroke back.

Birdies eluded Nicklaus on the easier incoming nine and he had to go to the 16th for his first bird after birdieing the eighth and ninth. There he knocked in an eight-footer.

The putt cut de Vicenzo's lead to three, but the six-foot, powerfully-built South American never gave big Jack an opening.

De Vizenzo and Nicklaus, at each other's throats on the 16th hole, never gave in. Nicklaus got a birdie four and then de Vicenzo matched it with a great shot.

GAMBLE PAID OFF

Off the tee he was to the right and there was a wide expanse of out of bounds territory between him and the green. Roberto took a wood and the big gamble and it came off. He lofted it over the trouble and onto the heart of the green.

Two putts, and de Vicenzo was down, now 10 under par and with two holes to go was three shots up on the defending champion.

The Argentine was playing behind Nicklaus when he heard a roar go up at the 72nd hole of the 6,995-yard, par-72 Royal Liverpool course where Jack rolled in his long birdie putt.

De Vicenzo hit a tremendous drive up the middle of the fairway, laced his approach to the green, some 20 feet away, and played safe with his putt, leaving it inches short. He sank easily for the most important victory of his career.

DESPITE DOUBLE-BOGEY

City Pro Tied For Top Berth

TORONTO (CP) — Winnipeg pro Wilf Homenuik can thank a thoughtless spectator that he's not leading the Ontario open golf tournament.

The spectator, standing near the 17th hole Friday kicked Homenuik's shot to the green from the fringe towards the pin.

After conferring with partner Nick Weslock, the Winnipeger decided to continue play from where the ball lay. Tournament officials later penalized him two strokes, leaving Homenuik with a two-round total of 140—one stroke back of three golfers grouped in first place.

Leading going into today's final 18 holes of the 54-hole play were Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., Bill Wakeham of Victoria and amateur Ben Kern of Cooksville, Ont.

With the two penalty strokes he finished with a 70 instead of a 68 for the round.

DIDN'T GET RULING

Chairman of the tournament committee, Len Goldston, said Homenuik should have asked for a ruling before hitting the ball, should have hit it from its original position or should have hit two balls and then sought a ruling from officials.

Following a lengthy meeting with Homenuik after the rest of the golfers had completed their rounds, officials decided on the two-stroke penalty rather than a disqualification.

Homenuik was not the only competitor to experience some uncomfortable moments. Wakeham could be leading the tournament alone, except for a miserable 16th hole.

The Victoria pro three-putted from 12 feet and took a two-over-par six, but sill finished the round with a 68.

Kern, only 20, played his worst golf in three trips around the course this week by shooting a 71. In a qualifying round Tuesday he was 69 and in the Open's first round Thursday he fired a 68.

Playing consistent golf, Norman had a 69 Friday to couple with his first-round 70.

'Golf Package' Officials Hope for Money Mark

JOHN DURRY
. . . New Zealand ace

"The largest package of amateur golf ever presented by the Royal Canadian Golf Association."

That's the way they are describing the fairway festival scheduled for Victoria next month and nobody is likely to dispute the description.

Within a space of 12 days, spectators will be able to watch 11 days of play that will decide the Commonwealth team crown, the inter-provincial Willingdon Cup team title and the Canadian amateur championship.

Appearance of many of the world's greatest amateur shotmakers has organizers of the events hoping for a new revenue record for amateur golf in Canada.

Advance ticket sales for the two tournaments have fallen slightly below expectations but there are ample reasons to hope Victoria will top the money mark of $16,000 set at the national amateur meet at Toronto.

For their dollars, fairway fans will see the Commonwealth matches at Victoria Golf Club (Oak Bay) from Aug. 8 to 12 and the Canadian amateur chase at Royal Colwood from Aug. 14 to 19. Willingdon Cup matches will be played in conjunction with the amateur.

Competing in the Commonwealth event will be six-player teams from Great Britain, New Zealand, South Africa, Australia and Canada.

Four of the teams will be in action each day and each country will play the other four teams once during the event. The championship will be decided on match play with foursomes being played in the mornings and singles during the afternoon.

In each daily team match, the winner will be the one that accumulates the most points (two for a win, one for a half) in the combined foursomes and singles play.

ELIGIBLE FOR AMATEUR

Representing Canada, which has drawn a bye on opening day, will be Vancouver aces John Johnston and Wayne Vollmer, the famed Ontario duo of Nick Weslock and Gary Cowan, and the Alberta pair of Keith Alexander and Doug Silverberg.

Among the other noted stars on team rosters are New Zealanders John Durry, Stuart Jones and Ross Murray; South Africans Derek Kemp and Rodney McMullan; British aces Mike Bonallack and Ronnie Shade, and Aussie experts Phil Billings and Kevin Hartley.

All Commonwealth entrants are eligible for entry in the amateur, which had an entry limit of 160 and is restricted to golfers with handicaps of three or less.

Entries are being received by the RCGA at Toronto and are open until Aug. 1. It is reported that the entry list has climbed above 100, with almost half the applications from the United States, and officials expect entries will climb past the limit.

Competition in the national tourney will start with a 36-hole qualifying round, played over two days, and continue with match play between the 64 leaders of the qualifying test.

VALUE FOR FANS

Match play will start with one 18-hole round Wednesday, Aug. 16. Two rounds will be played Thursday and Friday and the two survivors will meet on Saturday in the 36-hole final.

Best value for fans is a season ticket that costs $12.50 and is good for every day of both events. Also available are weekly tickets for each tourney. They will sell at $7.50. Single-day admissions for both fairway events will cost $2.50 for each of the earlier days and $3 for Friday and Saturday play.

The season ticket appears to be tops in fairway bargains. It offers observation of many of the world's most noted amateur stars at slightly more than $1 per day.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at the Greater Victoria Centennial Office at Centennial Square or at any golf club.

KNUDSON'S world of GOLF

What we're talking about here is being able to put your full potential into force.

For instance, I can't hope to match fellows like Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus stroke for stroke. They're going to out-hit me at every turn. Physically, I'm just not in their class.

So, for me to win a tournament I need to be extremely thrifty. And by that, I mean I need to play sound golf, I can't miss a shot. Bluntly, I need to be more clever than they are over the four rounds of the tournament.

I think Gary Player is the classic example. Player wins because he thinks that much sharper when he's playing.

But even weekend golfers can improve.

★ ★ ★

Some are what we call steer artists, conservative golfers who are always cautious. Others are thrashers, golfers who give it the maximum on every swing, regardless of the situation.

The proper way to enjoy a round of golf and to play your best is somewhere in between.

Naturally, the thrasher is going to find himself in trouble he could have avoided had he been cautious. However, it's as bad to show too much caution as it is to be too bold.

This is the fellow who says: "I'm going to shoot 82 or 83 today," and he'll do it because he'll just go around, bump, bump, bump, never using his full swing.

The other guy, swinging all out on every shot, may not score as well, but chances are he's getting more enjoyment out of his game.

It is wiser to show caution in certain situations, but if a golfer is playing as if he's afraid of losing a ball, he shouldn't be playing the game.

True enjoyment on a golf course is when a person decides that he is capable of making a shot—perhaps clearing a water hazard—and does by putting his full swing on the ball.

I learned a long time ago that I couldn't outdistance or match the big swingers in the game.

So I have all my equipment made to order and it is geared for straightness instead of distance.

Instead of trying to make a club that would help me match the big hitter, I want to be able to outscore him by being thrifty with my shots.

Take a look at your game and see how you can play it to your best ability and at the same time for the most enjoyment.

GEORGE'S TIP

The best way to hit with accuracy is to shorten your grip on the club — an inch or an inch and a half at most. You can figure that shortening your grip by a full inch is like stepping up two clubs. For instance, it would make a five-iron swing like a seven. The shorter shaft—and there is a half-inch difference between each of your clubs—gives you greater control.

HOLMES PREPARES CLUB . . . FOR B.C. TOURNEY

Work Is Key to Success

By TONY COSIER

No matter what happens to the Saanich Evening Optimist all-star club in the B.C. Babe Ruth baseball tournament being held at Royal Athletic Park July 17-23, it won't leave the Optimist manager speechless.

Nothing can shake Bill Holmes now. He has been through it all before.

Bill has piloted Saanich teams in tournaments since 1961. He has managed a B.C. champion, three B.C. finalists and five Vancouver Island winners.

"You can't scout the other teams to prepare for a tournament," Optimists' manager states. "So you work on perfecting the plays you know are probably going to come up."

Optimists step into action against defending champion Trail Tuesday at 2 p.m. Victoria Babe Ruth, the highly regarded host team, takes on Vancouver Fraserview in the playoff opener Monday at 6 p.m.

Holmes and coaches Tony Grover and Herb Leeson count on a strong, speedy offence. Solid hitters Doug Curran, Rick Lamoureux, Randy Cronk and Graham Lee can all scamper. Jim Hunter wields a strong, steady bat.

Lee is a big first-sacker who can stretch tall for the high throw, dig deep for the low one. "He's the best first baseman I've had," Holmes says.

He's had some good ones.

One was Dave Cutler, a standout on Optimists' 1961 provincial champion club. Holmes hasn't had a B.C. crown since that time.

England Captain Risks Criticism

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuters)—India, which suffered the rare ignominy of being routed for 92 before lunch, needs 410 runs during the next three days to beat England in the third test cricket match here.

That was the position Friday after an unusual day's play in which 20 wickets fell and England captain Brian Close caused discussion by not making India follow on.

England, with a first-innings lead of 206, was dismissed in turn for 203 just before the scheduled close. There was no time for India to start their second innings.

India's winning target seems almost certainly beyond their reach. But Close can expect to be widely criticised if rain should cause time to be lost and the match left drawn.

Close said his fast bowlers are no longer fresh after their morning's work. He did not wish England to have to bat last on a pitch which was already taking spin.

England fast bowlers David Brown and John Snow broke the backbone of the Indian resistance when inside the first hour Friday morning they captured five leading wickets with only 41 scored.

LONDON (CP)—Results of Friday's cricket matches:

DISTAFF DIVOTING

Tribe, Dagg Take Fairway Awards

Two more trophies were decided this week as the ladies swatted golf balls around the fairways.

Kay Tribe collected the silverware at Uplands, beating out Lil Thirlwell to win the D. F. Johnson Cup.

Mrs. Thirlwell was more successful in a par competition, gaining a tie with Trudy Peden for "A" division honors. Pat Goy topped the "B" section and "C" laurels were shared by Freda Blythe and Monica White.

Out at the spacious acres of Glen Meadows, Daphne Dagg joined the silver collectors with a victory in the George Paulin Cup handicap event. Edna Hay was the consolation winner, Betty Fowler paced the first flight and Emma Silverberg won a medal event.

Things were sweet at Royal Colwood for Mary Butler. She won a "honey pot" contest as Mickey Wescott tied Doris Saxon in "B" section and other division awards were taken by Rena Simonds and Ev Margerison.

There was also silver up for grabs at Colwood and Onaugh Painter collected the McPherson Cup and Sheila Morgan earned the Helen Crowe Cup.

Bea Green won a medal round at Cedar Hill and teamed with Edna Ousey to defeat Nellie Ross and Joan Mitchell in a button match. In a par contest at the Oak Bay links, R. Robbins edged J. Rimmington for the "A" division award and M. Prutton tied S. Boyd for the "B" division lead.

In trials here last weekend for the B.C. women's team, Gayle Hitchens fired a 72 at Colwood. Marilyn Palmer and Janet McWha each had 75 and Barbara Renwick carded 76.

Paul Trapp Day will be held Tuesday at Oak Bay with players starting at the following times:

Sooke Starts At Fast Clip

Sooke Hotel erupted in the opening frame to score five runs on six hits to set up a 6-1 victory over Hillside 66 in a Stuffy McGinnis Softball League contest Friday at Heywood Avenue Park.

Expo Visitors Can Find An Empty Room

By CY FOX

MONTREAL (CP) — With a little enterprise and despite the tourist tide generated by Expo 67, visitors without reservations still can find accommodations.

Living quarters may not be ideal and, in some cases, may seem more expensive than last year.

Even in top hotels, cancellations of previously-made reservations make some rooms available for anyone with sufficient enterprise to call.

One group of motels, bypassed by traffic on a newly constructed expressway in the west end, reports that rooms are available on most days.

Marcel Provencher, secretary-treasurer of an association representing motel owners, said in an interview Monday that one of the owners recently went to New York. He asked a travel agent whether any rooms could be found in the Canadian city.

"The travel agent said the whole city was booked right out," said Mr. Provencher. "At that point, the Montrealer took out papers representing 100 rooms, just to prove that the contrary was true."

GIVE U.S. REACTION

The feeling here is that prospective Expo visitors in the United States have been led to believe that going to the fair will mean sleeping under the stars

"That's a false idea," said Mr. Provencher.

Andre Mercier, head of the housing service, said a "panic was created" prior to the fair as to the possible inadequacy of existing hotel and motel space in the face of the anticipated tourist flood.

HOME OWNERS GRUMBLE

Some people who went to the expense of making their rooms ready for the tourist trade now are grumbling that their investments went for nothing.

Mr. Mercier said this indicates that Montreal has more than sufficient facilities for visitors.

On the basis of a spot check, visitors lacking reservations would seem well-advised to telephone the major hotels on the off-chance that something is available—especially if they arrive during the morning hours and during the Thursday-to-Sunday portion of the week.

First Stop For Tourists In New York

The centre is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day of the year with a multilingual staff on duty to answer questions on facilities, events and attractions in the city. All services to the public at the centre are free.

Canadian Visits Up 36 Per Cent

According to Jindrich Uher, chairman of the Czechoslovak Government Committee for Tourism, final figures show that a total of 3,518,456 tourists visited Czechoslovakia in 1966, an increase of 19.4 per cent over the year before. Of these, 754,566 were from the West, up 22.1 per cent from 1965.

Visitors from Canada numbered 4,667, according to Mr. Uher, an increase of better than 36 per cent over the figure for 1965.

Canadians stayed longer than most visitors, averaging 11.8 days, against 8.7 days for Britons, 8.5 for French visitors, and 8.4 for Americans.

A breakdown shows that of the total Canadian visitors, 660 gave business as their reason for going to Czechoslovakia, 10 were members of official delegations, 850 were largely in transit, and the remainder were almost all holidayers.

A preliminary report for the first quarter of 1967, states that the 94,283 Western visitors for that period represented an increase of close to 50 per cent over the first quarter of last year.

Holiday Camp Bookings Down

LONDON (CP) — Sir Billy Butlin is finding that the flamenco dancing of Spain and the cafe chantants in the South of France are putting the squeeze on his network of holiday camps in Britain.

Butlin, a London millionaire who began his business career as a $3-a-week office boy in a Toronto department store, said Wednesday that bookings at his chain of eight holiday camps are down 10 per cent from the estimated 1,500,000 that visited the camps last year.

CORRO'S BAD MANNERS

Black Angus Hosts A 'Quick' Dinner

Former Victoria Times reporter John Manning and his wife Pat are currently on a 12,000-mile "Centennial Cruise" aboard their tiny sailing ship Powindah. The pair started in England and hope to end their cruise in the Inner Harbor. This is the 33rd in a series on their adventures.

By JOHN MANNING

They knew him as Black Angus.

He was a barrel-sized Scot on a 30,000-ton oil tanker.

Aboard ship he wore brown leather sandals, a boilerman's undershirt and fan-shaped black shorts that seemed to wink out from beneath his generous abdomen.

No matter whether he was on deck, stalking about the bridge, or in his palatial cabin, a Colombian parrot called Corro rode perched on his shoulder.

The Scot's laugh sounded like a giant diesel being cold-started. The crew lived in terror of it. For Black Angus was their skipper.

A brand new Canadian ensign, sent to her with the compliments of the Canadian Embassy in Caracas, had been hoisted aloft.

Thoughtful Gift

It was this thoughtful gift, bestowed upon us because the old flag had become so weather-worn, that occasioned our introduction to Black Angus.

As his third mate later related it, Black Angus was in the habit of taking early morning walks on the bridge of his ship—complete with parrot. On one such excursion, barely after the sun had risen, he spied Powindah's fluttering ensign.

"Mr. Stewart!" he roared, easily making himself heard over the discharging oil pumps. "That yacht there, the one that flies its ensign all night, what do you make of it?"

"She's Canadian, sir."

"I know that, you dunderhead, but what's she doing here?"

Mr. Steward had the answer. "I was on board her last evening, sir," he said. "She was originally from Dartmouth, England, my old home port, and I'd seen her there under a different owner. A Canadian couple are taking her back to Canada."

Those Colonials

"No telling what these colonials will do . . . better nip over and have them come aboard for lunch."

The invitation was accepted with alacrity, for Allan Steward had already told us much about Black Angus; among other things, that he had never sailed with a better skipper and that to a man, both officers and crew had nothing but the highest respect for him.

When the appointed hour arrived it was decided we would row over to the ship, from where we were berthed, and climb up a "Jacob's Ladder" onto the tanker. This, it was suggested by Mr. Steward, would save us a costly taxi ride.

The beginning of the luncheon was an unqualified success. Present beside Black Angus was the third mate; Bernie, the Canadian engineer; Powindah's occupants; the parrot Corro; and a West African steward, dressed impeccably in white, whose name was Albert. The meal commenced with hors d'oeuvres being served in the captain's cabin.

There, Black Angus held court from a leather swivel chair, outfitted in black shorts and boilerman's undershirt, with the parrot alternating between his shoulder and the tray of hors d'oeuvres. Iced Tuborg beer was served by Albert. He set it down in front of each guest with reverent care, neither glasses nor bottle making a sound as they touched the table top, his starched uniform so crisp it crackled.

In appearance he looked more Asiatic than Negroid, for his sedate, scholarly-looking features were entirely without expression. A dozen or so beard hairs swung like anchor cables below his chin. It was to one of these that the parrot fastened its beak.

For a split second I thought the bird would slip its grip. Then Corro, beer and Albert flew in opposite directions. The refreshment landed on his commanding officer, the tray spun against a walnut-panelled bulkhead and Albert collided with the ship's telephone stand.

More Bubbly

Black Angus revealed his true colors. "Never mind, steward. The damned bird should have more manners." The beer had actually put out his cigar. "When you're done wiping up we'll have another round of bubbly."

Within minutes the luncheon was back on even keel. Then Pat asked Black Angus a question which had been only a matter of time in coming. "How good a watch do most of these ships keep, captain?"

"Excellent. Excellent."

"Have you ever found any of your crew asleep on watch?"

"Young lady, if I ever so much as discovered one of them blinking I'd chop off their arms and legs!"

"But Mr. Stewart told us the other evening that too many ships were cutting down on their crew and that this one, for instance, only carries an officer and one seaman on the bridge, even at night."

Toe the Mark!

Mr. Stewart was trying to make himself as small as possible. I attempted to toe my mate under the table but missed. She was determined to interrogate Black Angus.

"We've nearly been run down by a freighter," she said. "It worries me to think that ships don't see us."

"Any ship I'm aboard will see you. My officers have standing orders to look at the radar at least once every 15 minutes, besides keeping a normal lookout."

"But Mr. Stewart said there were times when he had to go into the chart room, even when the seaman was below making coffee."

Although the third officer had turned beet red he still managed to retain a papermache smile. "Just pulling her leg, Captain. Ha, ha . . ."

The look he received would have buckled a crowbar.

"Be that as it may, if they carry a bright enough light we'll see them, won't we MISTER Stewart?"

Playing Rummy

"Oh, of course, sir. I was thinking more of the Torry Canyon wreck . . . broad daylight, inconceivable that anyone could have been on the bridge and still not seen the rocks. Maybe they were playing gin rummy."

Black Angus laughed. His special laugh. "You've an amusing turn of mind, Mister Stewart. It's a good thing you can perceive the humorous side of life for you'll likely remain third officer a while yet."

The luncheon progressed.

Wine was served, then a delicate Italian liquor called Sambuca, followed with Dutch cigars for the men. Albert delivered coffee. He eyed the bird with as much grace as an American would a Viet Cong.

At that moment there came a knock on the door. A seaman entered. "Excuse me, Captain, but the pilot's just come aboard. He seems in a bit of a hurry."

"The devil he is!" muttered Black Angus. "I've guests to see ashore before we sail. He's 20 minutes early."

"Aye, Cap'n."

Suddenly the tanker began to vibrate. She was going astern! From the porthole I could see she was already 20 feet from the jetty. Black Angus disappeared in a fast spring to the bridge, leaving Corro squawking in mid-air. "Come along," I said to Pat, "I think it's time we were going."

In mid-harbor the great ship stopped. We scrambled into the dinghy and propelled ourselves as fast as possible to the yacht club. There, an off-duty customs officer proceeded to inform us that we could have been arrested for leaving a ship in such an "irregular manner." We apologized. He decided to let the matter drop.

Twenty-four hours later a telegram was delivered to Powindah reading: "Heartily regret abrupt departure." It was from Black Angus. We are keeping this message; if only to remind us that life in port can often be more harrowing than at sea.

Currency Rules Not Halting Overseas Jaunts

LONDON (CP) — Britain's currency-conserving restrictions on holidayers going to non-sterling countries make a lot of people unhappy, but don't seem to cut down much on travel.

Holiday travel abroad is booming. That goes not only for the continent, where the neighborhood milkman is likely as not to be junketing in Spain or the south of France, but also to more expensive areas, such as Canada.

By all indications, holiday travel by Britons to Canada actually will be up over last year despite the restrictions that went into effect last November to improve the balance-of-payments position.

They prohibit Britons from buying more than £50 ($150) of non-sterling funds a year for non-business travel. The touring Briton can augment this with £15 in sterling.

Sport Capital

GRAND BAHAMA ISLANDS, Bahamas—Freeport, Grand Bahama Island, might well claim the title of "Subtropical Sports Capital of the World."

The ultra-modern island resort offers top-notch facilities for an impressive list of sports activities. Some of them include skin diving, fishing, water ballet, skeet and trap shooting, horse back riding, sailing, water skiing, fencing, rugby and parasailing, soaring high above the sea while being towed by a power boat.

By AUDREY JOHNSON

A young man who began his working life in the display department of the Bon Marche department store in Spokane, became its head at 19, and for the past four years has been costume designer for the Seattle Repertory Theatre, is teaching at University of Victoria this summer.

Allan Grandstrom has had to trim his costume design course to the basic requirements of a class primarily made up of high school bursary students.

Mr. Grandstrom is also designing and supervising the execution of more than 80 costumes for the workshop production of Brecht's The Caucassian Chalk Circle to be presented in August.

SENSE OF COLOR

A powerful sense of color, texture and form and the ways in which they communicate ideas led Mr. Grandstrom to his early commercial success and eventually into the theatre where the visual and performing arts interrelate.

"When I graduated from high school at 17, I didn't feel ready for university and in fact, I didn't start my university education until I was 28," he tells you.

The display job was fascinating and after he became department head he began experimenting, bringing his imagination to bear.

LED FORAYS

"I used to lead forays out into the country and we'd come back with all sorts of materials for window displays", he recalls.

Service in the Korean war was a necessary interruption but afterwards, when he returned to display he found that his outlook had altered.

"I began to feel myself in a gold-lined rut. That's when I decided to enter the University of Utah."

He enjoyed acting and did quite a lot of it but as statistics indicate the actor's national average annual income to be something in the neighborhood of $800, he felt it would be wise to put his other skills to work and concentrated on design.

After graduation he was costume assistant at the Stratford, Connecticut, Shakespeare Festival and two years with the American Costume Company in New York.

Another year of study—this time at Northwestern University in Illinois—gave him his master's degree in 1964.

Many things in many places give Allan Grandstrom ideas for design, but most frequently he turns to paintings.

"Usually I settle on one painter when I start to design a production because this gives an automatic assurance of unity of style," he says.

A series of Rowlandson lithographs formed the basis for his designs for Goldsmith's She Stoops to Conquer, and old English brass rubbings inspired his most recent costumes for the Seattle, Rep—Shakespeares' Henry IV, Part 1.

"It must not be allowed to over-power him."

To illustrate he refers to the flamboyant red velvet bejewelled gown worn by Carol Channing on her first entrance in Hello Dolly!

"She has such a strong personality and gives such a gutsy performance that she can dominate the costume," he says.

"Ginger Rogers in the same role, just held her own with it. Betty Grable will almost certainly be defeated by it and Dorothy Lamour who is reported to be going to play Dolly on tour, will be even worse served by the costume.

Where the emphasis is to be placed, what you are seeking to symbolize in terms of color and line, how the show is to be lighted—these are only a very few of the factors the designer has to take into account.

An ample budget and a free hand in purchasing materials must be every costume creator's dream, and many would be envious of Mr. Grandstrom's situation in Seattle.

For six shows, $11,500 is not an astronomic budget in comparision to some of the larger centres such as Minneapolis and New York.

But Mr. Grandstrom, in effect, nearly doubles it with a visit to Chicago each year where he takes advantage of an annual sale at a fabric house to procure all the materials he needs for the season.

This year, for $7,000 he purchased $35,000 worth of fabrics that included dozens of yards of pure silks, satins velvets and brocades.

His assignments next year, aside from the Seattle Rep season, include designs for Joan Sutherland and the cast of Don Giovanni which will be performed next winter at the Seattle Opera House.

Mr. Grandstrom finds the Brecht play he is now involved in at Uvic, an intensely interesting experience because of the concept of the director, Martin Jenkins.

"You first see the actors preparing to perform, unpacking costumes, setting the stage," he explains.

"Everything takes place in view of the audience throughout the play. The approach which seems so right in view of Brecht's desire for alienation, naturally presents special challenges to the designer."

That puzzling idea, alienation, is misinterpreted by many people, according to Mr. Grandstrom. What Brecht intended was a manipulation of the audience—tuning them in to experience the forces within the play, then tuning them out to a full realization of the theatrical medium.

The satisfaction Allan Grandstrom derives from designing for the stage is pretty well equalled by the satisfaction he finds in teaching design.

He hopes to return to the University of Victoria campus next year.

"Eventually I think teaching will be my main occupation," he says.

Foundation scholarship winner, Colleen De Corte.

Six Weeks by Sea All Work for Her

That is where 15-year-old Colleen De Corte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. De Corte, 928 Wollaston Avenue, is spending her summer.

It's exciting and almost certainly there is a lot of fun involved, but mostly it is work, strenuous work and tough discipline.

Colleen was one of two Wynne Shaw students who were awarded the scholarships following a visit to Victoria last October, of the school's director, Patricia Wilde.

The other was Paul Blakey, but Paul has had to turn down his scholarship as he had accepted an offer to join the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

AT AGE FOUR

Colleen started dancing at the age of four and has been a consistent winner in dance festivals in Vancouver, Nanaimo and Victoria.

She was one of the four children from the studio who danced in the Bolshoi's "Ballet School" ballet at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver three years ago.

She won the "most promising dancer" bursary at the Nanaimo Music Festival this year and was Miss Shaw's choice to receive the $100 Royal Roads Chapter IODE bursary last month.

Harkness School director, Miss Wilde, was until recently a ballerina with the New York City Ballet and has danced in Victoria as a member of the original Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

A summer workshop of Les Grands Ballets Canadiens is being attended by two more senior dancers from the Wynne Shaw Studio — Maureen Lawson and Madelene Ponich.

Paul Blakey's first appearances with the Royal Winnipeg will be at the Pan Am Games in Winnipeg, at the Charlottetown Festival and at Expo.

Rhythmic Response Demonstrated

Students of the Josephine Butler Music Studio took part in a piano recital recently at the thome of Dr. and Mrs. R. N. Young, 2555 Chelsea Place.

Included in the program were five items, demonstrating various aspects of rhythmic response, performed by rhythm bands of the studio's two group-music classes, with students conducting.

Piano duets and a trio also formed part of the program.

Victorian In Group

More than 50 talented actors, singers and dancers, members of the University of Southern California Festival Theatre Players, will stage 13 separate productions at Edinburgh's Fringe Festival next month.

With the group is a Victoria singer, Evelyn Westinghouse. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Westinghouse, 559 Towner Park Road.

The Players are the first American university group invited to participate in the Scottish Fringe Festival.

This will be their second appearance in Edinburgh. Last summer the company reaped enthusiastic critical response for their performances.

AT GOLD RIVER

Pulp Mill Producing

VANCOUVER — J. V. Christensen, president of the Tahsis Co., said Friday production of bleached kraft pulp has begun at the company's new mill at Gold River on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

"However, the production has come at a time when new capacity in the industry has temporarily outrun demand which makes it difficult to predict when the mill's full production capacity will be utilized," he said.

"In longer term prospects, demand for bleached kraft is continuing to increase."

Mr. Christensen said other pulp producers in British Columbia have cut back their output in the last few months.

The $60 million mill has been under construction for more than two years. It is owned by the East Asiatic Co. (Canada) Ltd. and the Canadian International Paper Co. of Montreal.

Mr. Christensen said first shipments of pulp to North American customers have already been started and overseas shipments are expected to begin at the end of July.

Indian Project $33,000 Short Of Its Target

DUNCAN — With half centennial year gone Cowichan Indian Band has raised just over half the money required for its centennial project.

Centennial project chairman Abel Joe reported Friday another $33,000 is needed.

He said: "The cultural and recreation hall is not only for Indians but for the whole community but so far nothing has been given by either Duncan or North Cowichan councils."

Mr. Joe and his committee have turned their attention south — to Victoria.

He said: "Various groups there have pledged financial assistance."

A fund drive launched in the spring has brought in $18,000 and the band is assured of a $25,000 grant from the Indian Affairs branch.

Friday afternoon Western Forest Industries Ltd., Honeymoon Bay, donated two large loads of logs and shake material for use in the building.

Mr. Joe said he is still optimistic the centennial hall can be opened by December.

Nanaimo Man Dies in Alberta

A Nanaimo man injured in an accident which claimed the life of his wife at Nampa, Alta., eight days ago, died Thursday in hospital.

Nick Howell suffered extensive injuries in the two-car collision which killed his 45-year-old wife and Calvin Read, 13, of Nampa.

Two Howell children riding in the car with their parents escaped unhurt. The Read boy was a passenger in the other car.

FINED $25 FOR DELUGE

Farmer 'Baptizes' Witnesses

NANAIMO — Farmer Armand Caillet had no desire to be converted.

So when two well-dressed Jehovah's Witnesses called on him Friday, farmer Caillet decided it was time to carry out his own little baptism ceremonh.

Unfortunately it was a pail of slop water, not holy water, that descended on the two women on his doorstep.

After describing the sect as "that screwy tribe" in magistrate's court Friday, Caillet was fined $25.

He told the court he'd been kicked by a cow earlier in the morning and wasn't in a very good mood.

Referring to the event in question, Caillet said he thought the women were the same two who had called earlier in the week—"I said to my wife, 'Here come them two ladies again'."

He said the sect had been calling on him twice a month for two years.

Charged Man Found Hanged

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Garfield Good, 29, hanged himself Friday night in his Oakalla prison cell where he was awaiting trial on a charge of capital murder.

Bedding was used, a guard said.

Good was charged Wednesday with the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Dorothy Roberts, 40.

DESIGNED MONTHLY INCOME IN RETIREMENT

is not always easily arranged, as dividends or interest on investments often fail to tie in well with the monthly style of budget to which the retired man accustomed himself during his working years.

Further, some of our retired clients are expressing their real desire to spend some of the capital of their retirement fund along with their earnings rather than have it all left in their estate.

To meet this need, Victoria Mortgage Corporation will mail a monthly cheque applying on any investment of $10,000 or over, for any AMOUNT you SPECIFY, to ARRIVE PROMPTLY ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH. This can be for interest only at 7½%, or for an amount including part principal, as well as interest.

$10,000 at 7½% produces $62.50 earnings per month. $10,000 at monthly payments of $70 including 7½% interest would take nearly 30 years to spend: $73 month—25 years; $80 month—20 years; $89 month—16 years; $100 month—13 years; $118 month—10 years; $138 month—8 years; $153 month—7 years; $200 month—5 years.

Terms of all 7½% Victoria Mortgage Debentures provide that the unused portion of your investment is repaid in five years—or earlier in the event of prior death, in which case your estate can cash the debenture.

To have the prospectus mailed, phone Douglas Hawkes Ltd., 384-7128, 817 Fort.

Sure,
you can get a great deal
on a new car right now.

But be sure you get a great car.

Leave it to Pontiac to take the mediocrity out of car deals. You see, Pontiac dealers don't have any mediocre products to start with. Every one's a "special". Their specials carry names like Firebird, Grande Parisienne, Parisienne 2+2, Parisienne, Laurentian and Strato-Chief.

Their specials are endowed with distinctive split-grille styling, the crystal lustre of Magic-Mirror finish and such styling slickeries as Grande Parisienne's hideaway headlights.

If all that sounds like your Pontiac dealer has great cars, you're getting the message. Now all you need is the great deal. You can get that at your Pontiac dealer's today.

'Follow John' Revival Here Led by Student

A "Youth for Diefenbaker Movement" has been launched to try to persuade the Progressive Conservative party's leader to seek his own succession.

But the official West Coast representative doesn't know much about the campaign.

Ian Baird, 19-year-old president of the PC Students' Club at University of Victoria, said Friday he doesn't know yet how far his jurisdiction will extend as West Coast representative nor precisely what he is expected to do.

"They'll be here at the end of the month to brief me on things," he said in an interview.

"They" are William Hatton and Keith Martin of Toronto.

Mr. Baird, who lives at 630 Oliver, said he didn't know either of them but understood they were involved in the PC youth groups in Toronto.

Mr. Hatton announced formation of the movement in Ottawa Wednesday but his press release did not arrive here until Friday.

PLAN VAGUE

"I don't know too much about it yet but I think the Youth for Diefenbaker Movement hopes to persuade him to run at September's leadership convention," said Mr. Baird.

"Mr. Diefenbaker hasn't announced his candidacy and I understand the movement doesn't know whether he plans to or not but we hope the young people at the convention will try to heal the wounds of the last convention by getting out to support him for leader."

Mr. Baird was referring to last spring's annual Tory convention in Ottawa where vociferous criticism and booing of Mr. Diefenbaker by young party members helped swing the tide in favor of the rebels demanding a leadership convention.

"I got a phone call about this from Mr. Hatton on Tuesday and I'm certainly willing to help. I think they're planning to hold some centennial picnics, much like the recent Tory cookout at Saanich, so that Mr. Diefenbaker could meet the public."

SIX CANDIDATES

(The PC leader skipped the Saanich meeting due to prior commitments but three of the six candidates for his job came to lobby for delegate votes.)

"I'm all for Diefenbaker personally and I feel he's seven feet high above everyone else in the race," said Mr. Baird.

"He still has an awful lot of support, especially in the Western provinces, and if he runs most of the Western delegates will give him their first ballot votes because he did so much for the Prairies."

CARS PASS ROCKIES AND TAKE BREATHER

CALGARY (CP)—Participants in the vintage car rally from Victoria to Expo 67 and back took time out today to visit the Calgary Stampede during a three-day stopover here.

The 30 autos arrived in Calgary Thursday and are scheduled to leave Sunday on the next leg of their trip, a 175-mile run along the Trans-Canada Highway to Medicine Hat.

"The cars are standing up very well indeed," said Cpl. Larry Cann of Yarmouth, N.S., stationed at Nanaimo.

CLC PROBES JURISDICTIONS

Smoother Sailings for Ferry Unions?

The Canadian Labour Congress has moved to find a solution to union jurisdictional problems on B.C. Ferries.

Meetings were held in Ottawa earlier this week with representatives of three unions—the B.C. Government Employees' Association, Canadian Merchant Service Guild and B.C. Ferry Employees' Union.

Specific proposals have been prepared by the CLC which will be the basis for discussions aimed at ironing out the problems.

Details are being withheld pending a review of the problems by the individual unions and further discussions.

E. P. O'Connor, general secretary of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, said it was agreed that no further details be disclosed at this time.

The Canadian Merchant Service Guild, which represents 250 deck officers and engineers on the ferries, recently lost its appeal against a raiding charge filed by the B.C. Government Employees' Association.

The B.C. Ferry Employees' Union, representing more than 500 seamen and catering workers, was formed after dissatisfaction with the B.C. Government Employees' Association which they left. The independent union has applied to the CLC for a charter of affiliation.

CANADIAN KODAK SPECIAL CANADIAN AWARDS

After the holding of the Newspaper Awards, Canadian Kodak agrees to conduct on its own responsibility not later than December 14, 1967, a Canadian judging of entries in the Newspaper Awards which have been submitted by newspapers in Canada which have signed an agreement to conduct an amateur snapshot contest under the conditions named in the 1967 Newspaper National Snapshot Awards agreement.

For this judging Canadian Kodak will pay the following awards:

- 7 CANADIAN SPECIAL MERIT AWARDS OF $100 Each. (Black-and-White entries) ---- $700
  The above category for those who have NOT WON ANY OTHER PRIZES in the Newspaper Awards offered by the Kodak Company.
- 1 CANADIAN BEST-OF-SHOW AWARD of $200. (Black-and-White entries) ---- $200
  The above category for those who have NOT WON ONE OF THE FIVE MAJOR PRIZES in the Newspaper Awards offered by the Kodak Company.

SNAPSHOT CONTEST RULES — 1967

1. The contest is strictly for amateur photographers. Anyone is eligible excepting employees of this newspaper, or employees of any newspaper participating in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, employees of the sponsors and their families, and individuals who, personally, or any members of whose families are engaged in manufacture, sale, commercial finishing or professional use of photographic goods.

2. Pictures that have been made after July 1, 1966, are eligible.

3. Your snapshots may be made from any brand of negative-type black-and-white film, but not from color transparencies. Black-and-white prints from color negative-type films will be accepted. Any make of camera may be used. Developing and printing may be done by a photofinisher or the entrant. No print or any enlargement more than 10 inches in the longer dimension will be accepted. No art work or retouching is permitted on prints or on the negatives from which they are made. No composite pictures, such as multiple printing or montages, are eligible. Pictures should not be mounted or framed.

4. To enter the contest, mail a print or prints of as many pictures as you desire, within the contest dates, to the Victoria Daily Times "Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor." On the back of each picture print your name and address clearly in ink, and the class in which you wish the picture entered. (See Classes.)

5. No black-and-white prints will be returned. Do not submit negatives with your prints. Keep them, until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only original negatives accepted.) The Victoria Daily Times and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives or prints.

6. All pictures received in The Times office, by mail or personal delivery, by 12 noon on Saturdays ending with July 29th to closing week of Sept. 2nd, will be entered in that weekly competition of $10.00 prizes in three individual categories. At the close of the contest, The Times will award Grand Prizes to the three pictures (one in each class) chosen by its judges as the best entered in its contest. These three winners then will be entered by The Times in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, where they will compete with the same number of entries from other participating newspapers for cash prizes totalling approximately $50,000.

7. All pictures shall be judged in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards on general interest and/or appeal. Photographic quality, although important, may not necessarily be the deciding factor. The decision of the judges shall be accepted as final.

8. It is not permissible to enter pictures in the contest of more than one newspaper participating in the 1967 Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

9. Before receiving the newspaper's final prizes in one or more of the three classifications, the entrant must submit the original negative with print, and sign a statement that his picture, or any closely similar picture of the same subject or situation, has not been and will not be entered by him in any snapshot contest, exhibit, or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by this newspaper, and has not been and will not be offered for publication in any manner.

Miss Universe 1967 Will Be Crowned Tonight at Miami

The crown won by Miss Universe is not in the shape of a magic key, but it has unlocked doors to wondrous adventures and careers for past winners.

It should be just the beginning of a future bright with promise for Sweden's Margareta Arvidsson, Miss Universe 1966, when she yields the crown and sceptre to her successor on the "Miss Universe Beauty Pageant" in color tonight at 10 on Channels 7 and 12.

The lovely, blonde Miss Arvidsson's goal is to become a top New York model. The only precedent she has to follow is success if the various glowing accomplishments, including marriages, attained by other girls who have held the Miss Universe title are any indication.

Armi Kuusela of Finland became the first Miss Universe back in 1952, and during her reign accepted an invitation to crown Miss Philippines at an international fair in Manila. While a guest of the Philippine president she met, and later she married, a young business executive. Today she lives in Manila and has five children.

Christiane Martel of France won the title in 1953 and went on to star or co-star in a number of motion pictures. She later married Miguel Aleman Jr., son of a former president of Mexico, and now is enjoying a combined career as one of Mexico's popular screen stars and a leading society hostess in Mexico City.

Miriam Stevenson, Miss Universe 1954 and first winner from the U.S., returned to her home town, Columbia, S.C., to become a housewife and mother, a local television personality and a prominent member of the city's women's clubs.

Marriages to millionaires followed the Miss Universe triumphs of Hillevi Rombin of Sweden in 1955 and Carol Morris of the U.S. in 1956.

Gladys Zender went back to her native Peru after winning the title in 1957 and accepted a government post as a goodwill ambassador, in which capacity she travelled extensively.

Linda Bement of Salt Lake City, Utah, who won the title in 1960, pursued a career in modelling which led to steady assignments in television commercials. She retired when she married internationally famed jockey Manuel Ycaza and became the mother of two children.

Marlene Schmidt from Stuttgart, Germany, the world beauty queen in 1961, refused film contracts and modelling jobs to continue a career as an electronics engineer.

Norma Beatriz Nolan of Argentina, Miss Universe 1962, returned to her native Buenos Aires and marriage to architect-builder Franco Zanotti.

Corinna Tsopei of Greece, who won the title in 1964, has set her goal on a movie career in the U.S.

West Coast Feature

The west coast of Vancouver Island is a long, rugged and mostly desolate stretch facing the raging storms of the Pacific. There are not many people who want to endure its violently changing climate and tremendous isolation.

On Sunday, and on July 23, at 5:30 on Channel 2, CBC-TV's Centennial documentary series 20-20 presents The Water People, a special two-part color film, produced by the Camera West film unit at CBC Vancouver, about the 2,000 people who live on the Island's west coast.

On the first program viewers will meet Mr. and Mrs. Harry Calleia of Tahsis (Mrs. Caleia is a doctor at the sawmill); Barry Brown, who drives the sawmill company boat-car; pilot Bruce Smith; Nootka Indian brothers Francis and Herb Jack, who hunt seals for a living; and Dr. Herman A. McLean, head of the only hospital faciltiy north of Tofino at Esperanza. Dr. McLean describes his religious beliefs as interdenominational fundamentalist. His hospital handles 10 to 12 patients a day including those coming in for dental work.

The second program visits with Ralph Trelvik who lives at an abandoned cannery plant. He repairs boats and uses an old church for his machine shop. At Kyuquot viewers will meet pilot Mike Carr-Harris, sometimes called Coyote Mike, who until recently owned much of the area.

Along the coast a bit, Charlie O'Hara, his wife and three daughters live on their floating camp while Charlie runs his small logging operation—pulling logs out of the hillside.

At Zeballos, some old timers recall stories when Zeballos was a goldrush boom town of the 1930s.

Garrison to Reply

District-Attorney Jim Garrison of New Orleans will appear on the NBC television network Saturday night at 8 on Channel 5 to reply to criticism of his conduct of an investigation into the assassination of President Kennedy.

He will respond to criticism of him made in "The JFK Conspiracy: The Case of Jim Garrison," an NBC news special presented on June 19. The special examined the testimony of the two key witnesses in the assassination of President Kennedy and explored the methods used by his office to obtain witnesses and evidence.

MASTER OF CEREMONIES for Miss Universe pageant tonight at Miami will be Bob Barker, seen with Margareta Arvidsson, 1966 winner, and June Lockhart, who will act as on-stage hostess. Pageant will be seen on Channels 12 and 7, starting at 10.

Sports Show

Trout fishing in Labrador and a study of the American Elk are filmed highlights of the "Sportsman's Holiday" colorcast on Channel 5 Sunday at 5:30.

Host Curt Gowdy interviews Robert Crandall, an international sportsman, about his trip to Labrador which was recorded on film. The remote country with its many lakes is shown along with exciting scenes of fishermen casting for brook trout and Eskimo guides preparping the fish for smoking.

In a remote area of Michigan lives a wild herd of American elk. How the animals live and survive through a winter will be shown in a special film report narrated by Gowdy and Mort Neff, which includes a humorous scene of an elk who moved into a farm in Johannesburg to be near domestic cows.

The final feature on "sportsman's holiday" will feature Gowdy and Christopher Emmerich with some expert tips on how to approach and cast for trout and the proper handling of the equipment.

News Test Series

How much of this week's news have you absorbed? Do you recall the names of the principals involved? Do you know the main issues? How swift are your perceptions? How much do you remember of what you see—at an accident scene, for instance?

An opportunity for television viewers to find answers to these questions and to compare their own knowlege and alertness with the national average of their fellow citizens will be given in CTV's national news test, a new series of half-hour programs, in color, beginning Sunday night at 10 on Channel 8.

The format of CTV's national news test is partially based on a series of highly acclaimed audience-involvement national tests which were conducted in the U.S. But it carries the concept further, using it to communicate, with impact, the news of the world, thus informing as well as entertaining viewers.

Each program will open with highlights from the news of the week, and questions concerning them. Other segments will present information and tests of general knowledge or of a more personal nature to enable the viewer to measure the breadth of his understanding and his degree of mental alertness as compared with the average citizen. For instance general topics will range over mental health, IQ, alcoholism, dreams, birth control, old movies, Canadian history, space travel, etc. Perception tests will permit a viewer to rate his speed of reaction, vision, memory, judgment, etc.

Harvey Kirck, CTV national news reporter-broadcaster will be host of the program. He will present the topics, will ask the questions

DeFOREST KELLEY
. . . haircut did trick

'New Look' Led to Role In Star Trek

"For the past 10 years I played western 'heavies' mainly," said Kelley, who portrays Dr. McCoy in Star Trek. "About two years ago Gene Roddenberry, the creator and executive producer of this series, considered me for a part and asked if I had any objections to doing my hair differently. I had been wearing it long, for westerns."

Roddenberry wanted a brainy, Kennedy look and asked Kelley to go to Jay Sebring, famous Hollywood men's hair stylist.

"It was expensive," said Kelley. "It cost me $35 but I had confidence in Roddenberry."

The new look eventually led to the Star Trek role.

"I've never been in a series before," he said. "I made a drastic change with this role. Roddenberry went out on a limb for me. The town had forgotten the actor I used to be. Roddenberry pulled me out of a big rut. I feel very lucky."

Kelley, who plays the medical officer aboard the United Space Ship Enterprise, was never much of a science-fiction buff but he did have medical ambitions once.

SIDETRACKED

"My uncle was a successful physician," said Kelley. "I admired him. He offered to help me pursue a medical career. It appealed to me but I got sidetracked."

Kelley is now immersed in medical matters.

"I find myself particularly interested in medical columns and reports," he said. "I've always been interested in this area, really. However, I was never a science-fiction buff. This puts me on the spot when I'm approached by real buffs. I should be better prepared, but I'm not. I'm at their mercy."

Kelley bought himself a big, unabridged dictionary, however.

"I became involved in so many words and terms that I had never heard before that I decided to invest in a big dictionary," he said. "As I study the script and come across these words, I often feel that the writer has made them up. When I check the dictionary, sure enough, there's the word. Some of the terms we use on the show are made up, but I can't tell which, without checking."

Kelley, who was born in Atlanta, Georgia, has been acting 20 years.

"I've always worked as an actor and I've managed a good, comfortable life," he said.

Expo Specials Scheduled

Major Highlights Of World Fair On Monday, Tuesday

The Today show will enable its viewers to take a good look at several of the outstanding highlights of Expo when it presents two two-hour specials on the Montreal fair on Monday and Tuesday at 7 a.m. on Channel 5. Today host Hugh Downs and Barbara Walters will report direct from the grounds.

Monday's program will include a film taken by Today reporter Paul Cunningham on the various types of Expo transportation, costs and special services, and a brief tour conducted by Hugh and Barbara of La Ronde, the fair's amusement area that offers among other things a variety of rides, special shows and a collection of game booths and foreign souvenir shops.

Hugh and Barbara will also visit the Czechoslovakian Pavilion, considered by many observers as the most artistically delightful of all the pavilions. A film by NBC news correspondent Aline Saarinen will follow, showing an overall view of the fair's architecture, emphasizing the outstanding architectural feature, habitat, a muliple dwelling.

On Tuesday, the special will feature the Soviet and U.S. pavilions. Barbara will introduce a Lithuanian folk dancing performance and a fashion show from Latvia. Hugh will discuss Soviet housing and conduct a tour of the Soviet pavilion's space exhibit.

In the U.S pavilion, Hugh and Barbara will visit the Americana section, which contains 19th century artifacts, old campaign posters and Indian war bonnets, among other items, and the motion picture section which traces the history of movies in the U.S. The American space exhibit and pop art exhibit will be shown, and the program will conclude with a montage of the entire pavilion.

Special on War

Israeli Generals Moshe Dayan and Itzhak Rabin, other key Israeli officers and three Egyptian generals will appear on a CBS News Special, How Israel Won the War, Tuesday night at 10 on Channel 7.

The blow-by-blow, hour-by-hour account of the five-day lightning war and events precipitating the Middle East crisis will be viewed in the battle zones where the Israelis shattered Arab forces and in the war rooms where the desisions were made.

CBS News Correspondent Mike Wallace and Brig. Gen. S. L. A. Marshall, CBS News military consultant, are the reporters on the broadcast, which will include Israeli and CBS News combat film of the Israeli Sweep of the Sinai, into Jordan and Syria, and the capture of Jordanian Jerusalem.

Appearing on the broadcast will be Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israeli defence minister; Maj. Gen. Itzhak Rabin, Israeli Army chief of staff; Maj. Gen. Yeshaya Gavish, commander on the Sinai front; Brig. Gen. Abraham Joffe, leader of one of the Sinai desert thrusts; Brig. Gen. Ariel Sharon, who led the assault on Abu Agweigila; Brig. Gen. Mordecai Hod, commander of the Israeli Air Force, and Col. Mordecai Gur, leader of one of the brigades that captured Old Jerusalem.

'Miracle Man'

Quebec-born Alfred Bessette, though physically unimposing, lacking in formal education and continually beset by poor health, lived to be 91 and became one of Canda's best-known sons—revered in his own country and throughout the world.

Bessette is better known as Brother Andre of the Holy Cross order—the Montreal "miracle man" whose intense devotion to St. Joseph inspired the building of St. Joseph's Oratory, the world-famous shrine that today dominates the slopes of Mount Royal.

Last of the Saints, the inspiring story of Brother Andre, is a film documentary to be seen Tuesday night at 10:30 on channels 2 and 6.

The program reviews the impression of Brother Andre today 30 years after his death, and has interviews with people who knew him, including a fellow Holy Cross brother, a psychiatrist, and people who believe they were miraculously cured through his intercession.

Bessette was born in Saint Gregoire d'Iberville, about 30 miles southeast of Montreal, in 1845. Too frail to attend school, he was in his 20s before learning to read and write. He was accepted as a novice in the Holy Cross order in 1870. Two years later he took his final vows as a lay brother, was given the name Brother Andre, and was assigned the only post he seemed fitted for—that of doorman at Notre Dame College opposite the site where St. Joseph's Oratory stands today.

In 1896 the order acquired 25 acres of land on Mount Royal and Brother Andre obtained permission to place a small statue of St. Joseph atop the slope. By 1903 he had saved enough money (by charging students at the college 15 cents for haircuts) to erect a small wooden chapel on the mountain. He carried the materials up the hill himself and completed his chapel for St. Joseph by the following year.

In 1912, permission was granted to have plans drawn up for the large basilica that now stands on Mount Royal. Blasting began two years later and services were held in the preliminary crypt in 1917. The oratory wasn't completed till years after Brother Andre's death in 1937.

Aviation Problems

NBC news will present a revised and updated version of its special program on the complex problems facing the aviation industry today, including a completely new segment on developments in the area of flight control, on The Aviation Revolution, a one-hour documentary to be colorcast on Wednesday night at 9 on Channel 5.

The program explores such topics as:

- How our air traffic control system (which has not changed fundamentally for 20 years) can cope with supersonic transports (SSTS).
- Is it safer to fly today than it was a decade ago?
- How can air terminals (overcrowded already) handle jumbo jets (Boeing 747s) and SSTS?
- What will be the reaction of people who have to live with the sonic-boom noise there planes will make?

The color special asks the question: How can these major problems be solved, when there is strong diasgreement among the men who fly, control, and administer the airlines and airplanes? In pinpointing these problems and others, the program seeks out the answers from responsible spokesmen of groups which make up the commercial aviation industry.

One of the highlights of the program is a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight (TWA 803, of June 5, 1966) from Paris to New York. Producer George Vicas, in charge of NBC News European production unit, took his cameras behind the cockpit door to film all the procedures involved in the preparation and carrying out of the trip. Ground and oceanic controllers are also seen in operation during the flight.

Chuvalo Fight

Top-ranking heavyweights Joe Frazier and George Chuvalo will be matched for the first time Wednesday night at New York's Madison Square Garden in a 12-round bout which will be carried live and in color at 7 on channels 2, 6, 7, and 12.

Frazier and Chuvalo—ranked fourth and fifth, respectively, in the recent Ring Magazine heavyweight ratings—will be attempting to improve their positions and get a crack at the vacant heavyweight title.

Frazier, the 1964 Olympic heavyweight champion, is considered one of the most promising heavyweight contenders. The 23-year-old Philadelphia resident is undefeated in 16 professional fights and has stopped 14 of his opponents including Eddie Machen and Doug Jones. He also defeated Oscar Bonavena in 10 rounds.

Chuvalo, the Canadian heavyweight champion, has won his last 11 fights by knockouts and has an overall record of 46 victories, 13 losses and two draws, while knocking out 39 of his opponents. A native of Toronto, Chuvalo lost a 15-round decision to Cassius Clay for the heavyweight crown on March 29, 1966, and Clay maintains that the Canadian gave him his toughest fight.

The 29-year-old Chuvalo has never been knocked down in his 61 encounters. His opposition has also included Floyd Patterson, Bob Cleroux, Doug Jones and Oscar Bonavena.

SUMMER SERIES "Malibu U" will debut Friday night, 8:30 to 9, on Channel 4, with singer Rick Nelson in the starring role. Dancers on the show will be named "Malibeauties".

When a nondescript cowhand showed up on NBC-TV's Bonanza set recently, he was almost rushed into a crowd scene as an extra until, on second look, he turned out to be Charlton Heston. Heston, wearing a stubble and cowboy clothes, was doing scenes for a western movie and had just dropped in to greet the Bonanza stars.

Nanette Fabray almost gave her agent a fit when she informed him she had taken one day's work as a bit player on "Jigsaw," upcoming NBC-TV "World Premiere" movie. "You'll ruin your career doing things like that," the agent sputtered. Explained Nanette, "You see, my husband's (Ranald MacDougall) the show's producer."

TIPS FOR HOME GARDENERS

50-Center Is Often Best

By JACK BEASTALL

Jack

A sprinkler is supposed to be a piece of equipment tat distributes water evenly over a given area.

All sprinklers distribute water, but few distribute it evenly, and it is rather contradictory to find that the most efficient sprinklers are often the cheapest.

Many a 50-cent sprinkler with no moving parts spreads water more evenly that a $15 collection of dials, chrome tubing and streamlined eye-appeal.

The evenness of water distribution is of considerable importance to the home gardener because the size of the home garden does not permit a different position for the sprinkler at each watering.

In most gardens there is just one place where the sprinkler can be placed to water without drowning the neighbors or the passers by, and it is placed in that position week after week through the watering season.

If the sprinkler does not spread the water evenly, a portion of the area gets well saturated while the rest gradually becomes drier and drier as the season progresses.

LIGHT, DARK AREAS

On a lawn, for instance, distinct rings of light and dark grass will develop when an inefficient revolving arm sprinkler is used, or the extreme ends will be rich green and the centre yellow or brown when the oscillating sprinklers are used.

The same effects can be noted in shrubberies, flower beds, and vegetable plots, and quite often dying plants or poor growth can be traced to an inefficient sprinkler.

It is quite easy to test the efficiency of any type of sprinkler you may be using, and to compare one type with another.

The only equipment needed is a dozen or so empty cans, such as are used for canned vegetables, and a foot rule or yardstick.

The cans should all be the same size, 15 or 20 ounce capacity, so that a direct comparison can be made of the water contents.

To test a sprinkler, the cans are placed three feet apart in a straight line from the sprinkler to just beyond the extreme spread of the water. The first can should touch the sprinkler base, or be just clear of any moving parts.

After the sprinkler has been run for 15 or 30 minutes, the amount of water in each can is measured with the rule and marked on a record sheet.

Some sprinklers deposit most water in a circle about five feet wide at a distance of seven feet from the sprinkler.

Others have good coverage near the sprinkler but the amount drops sharply after the six-foot mark.

PERFECT COVERAGE

Once you know the distribution pattern for your own sprinklers it is easier to figure where to place them for complete and perfect coverage. You work out the exact overlap needed to obtain the same amount of water in every can, so that all areas of the lawn, shrubbery, border, or vegetable garden will have the same amount of water applied.

You also find the answer to yellowing of some parts of the lawn, the wilting of some trees and shrubs, or the good and poor growth along the vegetable rows.

There is no one sprinkler that is perfect for all layouts and conditions. Every gardener should have a sprinkler to cover large areas, one without moving parts for small corners, and a canvas soaker to get under shrubs and thoroughly saturate the entire shrub border.

Too many of us have implicit faith in our sprinklers, believing them to be capable of a perfect watering job. But when we give them the ten-can test, we find out why some plants die from rootrot in too wet a soil while others nearby are almost killed by drought.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Bearded irises can be lifted now for division and replanting if the rhizomes have been too crowded and not flowering well

Cut the lavender spikes for drying just as lowest flowers open

Sempervivums and other rosette-forming rockery plants can be increased by embedding the base of detached rosettes into sandy soil and keeping slightly damp.

Pansies and violas can be cut back rather drastically if warm weather has curtailed blooming. Mulch around these plants with compost or old manure and water thoroughly.

Cucumbers and tomatoes can receive fertilizer after fruits begin to gain size. Keep water supply even.

Thin, water and weed the rows of vegetables.

When digging potatoes, dry them quickly in the sun and wind for half an hour or so. Then keep in an airy, cool, dark place to prevent yellowing of the tubers, for this changes the fine flavor of homegrown potatoes.

FOCUS

By BRAD NUGENT

Set for July 20 at Memorial Arena the promoter's original plans included a light show but because of the size of the Arena the idea was dropped.

As things stand now the show will also feature two Vancouver groups The Collectors and The Painted Ship.

The Doors, coming up strong since joining the Electra label, are currently riding high on the charts with "Light My Fire."

Within the top ten on almost all the charts across the continent they are one of the few groups around who have released simultaneously an album with a single hit.

Starting at 8 p.m. it should be a great show with no restrictions on seating or dancing so pick up those tickets at the Arena box office before they post SRO signs.

Eating in Kitchen

By PAULINE GRAVES

Unless you have a separate breakfast room, providing a place to eat in the kitchen is an absolute must.

The most common solution developed in recent years is the bar which also functions as a pass-through between kitchen and dining room or family room.

Shown here is an idea, by designer Doris Palmer, that takes from the bar the idea of a counter's being built to the wall, but incorporates the height and width of a table. The obvious solution here would have been to build a straight bar across the end wall, underneath the high, hanging cabinets.

Instead there's a narrow ledge that functions as a telephone area, which swings around to become a 28"-wide table and narrows to 23" at the end. Rounding the corners and narrowing the end makes for good traffic clearance, reducing the hazards of bruised hips for adults and bumped heads for little ones.

Both the counter, with its pass-through, and the storage area below, are completely accessible, due to the L-shape of the table and the fact that plenty of space was left between table and cabinets.

Arthur Mayse

In the days since a Vancouver husband and wife were killed in their garden by bullets from a high-powered sporting rifle, I have heard from a number of well-intentioned people who would either place an outright ban on the civilian possession of firearms or qualify ownership with restrictions that can only be described as downright punitive.

I share their outrage over such senseless killing, whether in Vancouver, a Texas town, or a nurses' dormitory. But it seems to me that to ban the rifle or make possession all but impossible through a host of nuisance restrictions is to miss the point of the matter.

The gun is the instrument, but the mind that guides its misuse dictates the deed. Plainly, it is a sick mind; and the place for a sick-minded person is not in a tower or at a window or in nurses' quarters with homicidal intent.

I suggest that the real culprit is the society—Canadian, American or any other —that permits a man not responsible for his actions to be in a spot where he can deal death or injury by any method.

★

By the same token, I do not think that the sportsman accountable for his actions and willing to accept sensible but not hysterical regulations governing the ownership and use of firearms should be turned into a scapegoat.

I will not speak a word in favor of the home defence weapon, as distinct from the target revolver or automatic kept for range use.

The plain fact is that the man untrained to the handgun tends to be a worse menace to his dear ones than the intruder.

The thief escapes unscathed . . . but who's that lying on the rug with a hole in her nighty?

The sporting rifle and the shotgun are something else again. I have used both; and though I don't hunt now, partly because the woods have become too dangerous for a family man, I know what cherished friends gun or rifle can become.

Hunting, in spite of the sentimentalist who deplores it, is a legitimate sport. To persecute the hunter because the weapon that drops a deer will also kill a human is to miss the point of the matter.

As well ban golf clubs because some nut in a blind rage has been known to hurl the five-iron that betrayed him, wounding or mortally injuring a bystander!

★

Registration? Sure . . . for what minor good it might accomplish, and on the guarantee that registration and not confiscation is the intent.

Be warned, though, that the mere act of registration isn't going to enhance the public safety.

It would also be necessary for every doctor with a disturbed patient, and each wife worried by her husband's departure from his customary behavior to inform the police without delay. This so that his name could be checked off against the firearm-owners file.

That way, a life or two might be saved . . . though not so many as would be if the yahoo practice of "sound-shooting" at a rustle in the brush were educated, fined and jailed out of the "hunters" who practice it each season.

Returning to basics, firearm regulation is not going to prevent those berserk killings with rifle, knife or any other egent including the fist and the foot.

What will, to the extent that prevention can be achieved, is a full-scale program of detection, hospitalization and long-term treatment of the mentally ill person of hostile tendency. There lies the answer; and when we will be fully prepared to act on it, I cannot tell you.

The Swiss citizen takes his rifle and ammunition home from his compulsory military training, but I have yet to hear of him shooting up his neighborhood.

Prize Winner Stricken by Worditis

Linde Elizabeth Baker, a 1967 graduate of the University of Victoria, has been named this year's winner of the Benny Nicholas Memorial Award.

The $100 award is presented annually by the Victoria Daily Times to the student submitting the best pieces of original writing to a special selection committee.

Miss Baker—21 next Saturday—won the prize with a group of poems styled in both the modern and traditional idiom.

"Writing is a disease," she laughed. "I couldn't stop writing if I tried but I don't know if I'm good enough to make a career of it."

Did she plan to write a book?

"Well, I sometimes think there is a book inside me but it will take a long time to work out."

Born in Tanganyka, East Africa, Miss Baker lived there until she was 17 when the family moved to Victoria. Her mother, Mrs. Shirley Baker, is co-ordinator of women's activities at the University of Victoria.

Her younger sister, Irene, is attending summer school on the campus and will enter first year next fall.

Miss Linde Baker majored in English at Uvic and served during her senior year as secretary of the students' council. She is now employed with the Canada Manpower Centre in Vancouver.

Mr. Atkinson has completed his second year at Uvic.

The Benny Nicholas award was established in memory of a distinguished editor of the Victoria Times. He served The Times for 30 years until his sudden death in May, 1936.

A well-loved newspaperman, he was widely known across Canada as writer and speaker, and his death at 57 was mourned throughout the nation.

"Benny," to his friends, was a character who might have stepped out of a Dickens novel—a wit and raconteur par excellence, whose kindly humor and happy philosophy made him a delightful companion.

A Liberal in politics, he was devoted to Victoria, yet first saw the light of day at Virginia City, Nevada.

Author Bruce Hutchison, later editor of The Times, wrote of him:

"As an editor he maintained one of the last strongholds of a personal journalism that began on the frontier and perished, like so many good things, in a new age—perhaps better but certainly less personal.

"For some years The Times and Nicholas were indistinguishable. By the standards of his day, or any day, he was a great editor and a brilliant writer. But we remember him in this institution not so much as a boss and mentor but as a human being, who made life a combination of serious journalism, circus and riot.

"There will never be such an editor or such a time again, here or anywhere . . .

"In one side of his complex nature—too complex for his younger colleagues to understand then—life was a daily gag, a new explosion at 8 o'clock every morning.

"He would walk to the old office, at the corner of Fort and Broad, with a pensive look like a man meditating some serious purpose. But he was usually meditating some preposterous joke."

FINE WORK is the word today from Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis as members of the Vancouver Island Equipment Operators Association donate services to new Lochside Park in Cordova Bay. Fifteen trucks, two loaders and several cats were busy moving fill from Northridge subdivision and levelling it at the new park site. Equipment association undertakes public service projects from time to time.

RACING STYMIED

No settlement has yet been reached in a dispute over fees at Sandown Park, Reeve J. B. Cumming of North Saanich said today.

North Saanich wants the B.C. Jockey Club to pay daily licence fees of $50 this year, $75 in 1968 and $100 in 1969 to operate the 17-day fall meeting at Sandown.

The Jockey Club offered to pay $50 over three years.

"Discussions have been going on between our representatives and the Jockey Club," Reeve Cumming said, "but no agreement has yet been reported.

"In any case, council would have to approve settlement so far as North Saanich is concerned."

Critic Draws Response From Welfare Minister

"I think it's time we stopped some of the more irresponsible statements about what happens in the department of welfare," said the minister.

Mr. Campbell was irked particularly by statements made Friday by Saanich Councillor Alan Newberry.

Coun. Newberry said government officials setting up day care centres should spend less time "counting toilets" and more time finding out whether the operators love children.

He also feared that while day care centres are necessary to women who must work because their husbands have deserted them, some mothers are working to boost family incomes into the $8,000-a-year class.

He also wondered whether the government wasn't going too far into regulating the care of children. He thought day care curriculums were possibly too simple—"too Dick and Janeish."

Finally he supported zoning regulations which give neighbors opportunity to oppose day care centres springing up anywhere.

Mr. Campbell said the inferences that department inspectors are too bureaucratic "isn't even close to the truth."

He added, "Since we started emphasizing day care centres a year ago we have established more than 500 such places. They are spreading rapidly all over B.C."

He went on to say that there have been enough "vague generalities" about Dick and Jane type teaching. He said people operating day care centres are not tied to any particular curriculum.

Finally, Mr. Campbell was scornful of Coun. Newberry's support of special zoning for day care centres. The minister said too many people support the principle of the centres "except that they don't want them next door."

Coun. Edith Gunning, chairman of the Saanich health and welfare committee, also criticized Coun. Newberry.

"Surely Coun. Newberry would not think that other establishments such as grocery stores, restaurants, beauty parlors should be made to abide by health regulations and not places where children are cared for during the day," she said.

Mrs. Gunning said that every applicant is carefully screened by a social worker at the Family and Children's Service. There were also requirements laid down for supervisors and assistants.

Drivers' Services Expanding Seaward

Boating has become so popular that a company for assisting motorists in distress has expanded its activities to their seagoing counterparts.

Melville Keys, chief executive of Western Motors Association, explained the move in a telephone interview from Vancouver after the B.C. Gazette published notification that he had registered Western International Yacht and Boat Association under the Companies Act.

"We provide the same kind of services for motorists as the B.C. Automobile Association but we're commercial and competitive," he said.

"We've found that so many people are buying boats nowadays and don't know much about it that there is a real need for the same kind of services we give our motorist clients."

OBJECTS LISTED

The Gazette notice listed various objects of the new company including provision of such services for boaters as arranging tows when aground, mapping trip routes, dispatching fuel for engines that run dry, arranging insurance and providing legal services.

"More and more boaters are going to find they suddenly need the services of a lawyer because of a charge for careless driving and such," said Mr. Keys.

"There already are several police boats in our waters and this aspect is bound to increase substantially as the boating population increases."

Park Cinema Program Starts

Ask The Times

Q. At Kelsey Bay there are five ships forming a breakwater. Can you tell me the type of ships bearing the numbers K-670 or K-687 and K-350? R.W.

A. They are Second World War frigates. K-670 was the Fort Erie; 678 the Runnymede and K-350 the Cape Breton.

Q. How many servicemen and dependents live in the Greater Victoria area? H.M.S.

A. CFB Esquimalt can only give approximate figures on the servicemen and none on dependents. There are about 3,300 navy personnel; 800 army and 150 air force.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Council Hears Rugby Field Appeal Monday

A proposed rugby ground in Saanich which has raised strong opposition among residents will be further considered by council Monday night.

Three weeks ago, council voted at a public hearing to reject the rezoning bid by Oak Bay Wanderers Rugby Club for sports and recreation use off Walema Avenue between Del Monte and Santa Clara.

Two weeks ago, council voted to reconsider the proposal and then tabled it until restrictions can be proposed to ensure the four-acre property is only used for the purpose implied.

ALL SOOKE BANQUET READY FOR GOURMETS

Huge fire pits were readied this morning to cook tons of beef, salmon and clam chowder for visitors to All Sooke Day.

At press time, the logger's sports were under way and Sooke community officials were predicting an attendance of more than 10,000 persons.

Perfect weather and improved facilities at Sooke Flats were attracting the crowds.

Canadian champion logger Bob Waibel of Oregon is defending his title, and Sooke's own Expo stars, Jubiel and Ardiel Wickheim are placing their log birling championships on the waterline.

'Sprint-Top' Stadium Job Soon Starting

The rubberized asphalt all-weather surface will be laid starting Tuesday, one month before the first scheduled track and field meet Aug. 19.

Tickets for the event, a dual meet sponsored by the B.C. Track and Field Association and the Victoria Centennial Society, will go on sale at the Memorial Arena box office next week.

The meet will involve athletes from B.C. and Washington State.

Meet co-ordinator Art Burgess, YMCA physical director, said the track will be one of the best in Canada and will enable Victoria to host national and international competitions.

"If the meet on Aug. 19 is a success," he said, "we may make application to host the Canadian Junior Championships next year."

Traffic Accidents Jump 20%

Traffic accidents in Victoria this year are up 20 per cent.

City police put the blame on two factors, speed and carelessness. They are introducing a new program to do something about it.

From now on, drivers who are borderline speeders or marginal offenders will get a warning ticket.

But one warning is all they'll get.

Traffic officers have set up a new file listing all drivers who have been warned.

Those who receive a second warning ticket within a six-month period will almost certainly end up in court.

"It's quite obvious that people being warned now aren't paying any attention," said Traffic Inspector Richard Berry.

In the first six months of 1966 there were 657 accidents in the city. To the end of June this year there have been 789 crashes.

Police Halt $300 Snooze

Larry Joe, 55, of 2532 Government, pleaded guilty to having care and control of an auto while impaired.

Province Won't Act On Peril

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said delays in placing a traffic signal there threaten human lives.

Delays are "reaching the point of absurdity."

"I'm in continuing fear that there will be an unnecessary accident with injuries and a fatality," he said.

He has pursued requests for a full red-and-green traffic light at the intersection for many months with the highways department, whose responsibility it is because Pat Bay is an arterial highway.

A recent letter from Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi said there is "more to this than just a simple installation of a light. It involves widening and installation of left-turn slots. We are looking into cost estimates but we are not able to go much beyond that at present."

Reeve Curtis replied:

"I have a sense of frustration. I have pursued this for months and I continue to get requests from residents, who place their lives in some jeopardy, and I have to point out that my efforts have so far been to no avail.

"I can't agree with the minister's view that this is more than the simple installation of a light.

"If it was a municipal responsibility we would have installed a light there a long time ago with not much more work than general tidying up of the intersection and construction of the lights.

"The standards he implies are unnecessarily high."

KNIFE-ARMED MAN FINED

A man who threatened restaurant patrons Friday evening while he held a knife in his hand was fined $75 today.

Police found a second knife on Norman Derksen, 25, of 3178 Qu'Appelle, after they were called to the Johnson Street cafe.

He told officers he had bought the knives earlier in the day and was going to use them "for throwing purposes."

Derksen admitted to two previous criminal convictions after pleading guilty to being in possession of an offensive weapon dangerous to the public peace.

"People have got to be allowed to sit in restaurants unmolested," said Prosecutor John Macintyre.

YOU MIGHT BE RICH

But You Can't Keep Chickens

By TED GASKELL

If you had any ideas about moving your chicken farm to Uplands . . . forget it.

All livestock will probably be banned in Uplands before long, with the exception of dogs over three months old. Two per resident are permissible providing the kennel is at the rear of the premises.

Uplands isn't like the rest of Oak Bay, which isn't like the rest of the world, which makes Uplands pretty special.

So special in fact that the Oak Bay council was authorized by an act of the legislature in 1935 to impose regulations which it can't impose on ordinary people.

●

For example, council not only has the right to approve setbacks and sizes and value, it also has the right to approve the design of the houses.

Things haven't changed much in the last 32 years.

The "in" animals like horses and dogs were O.K. but not more than two to a customer. Goats, sheep, asses, swine, cows were persona non grata in the land of silk and money.

But chickens, ducks, etcetra, were not mentioned.

Of course you couldn't sell fryers or the eggs. Uplands bylaw has always banned business or trade of any kind.

Except doctors.

But it doesn't stipulate which kind of doctor, M.D., chiropractor, dentist, or vet.

You could say you are a poultry doctor.

"These aren't chickens, Reeve Cox, these are patients."

But don't count on it.

First amendments to the 1935 bylaw were made in 1957.

The $6,000 minimum for a house was upped to $10,000. The 1967 bylaw stipulates a $20,000 minimum. Can you still get a house built for $20,000?

With a roof and walls, that is?

Do chicken farmers still keep servants and retainers?

It seems butchers and plumbers can afford to but chicken farmers? Anyway, it's still alright to have a second dwelling house on an Uplands lot as long as its for servants.

But you can't build a guest house for your mother-in-law unless she pretends to be the upstairs maid and contributes to Canada Pension Plan.

Your swimming pool must now have a fence around it and a spring lock door that opens from the inside only.

And (as before) your house, can't be similar to another within a radius of 500 feet.

As far as the bylaw goes you can hang out your washing, contrary to popular conception. It doesn't actually say you can, but it doesn't say you can't.

Of course there are private covenants that went with the land but the 50 year term ran out in 1963 although there may still be personal covenants involved.

And of course you can't put garbage at the front of your house, not even if its gift wrapped.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Philippine Wind Song From Tinkling Chimes

By PENNY SAVER

There are days in every household when, if anything goes right, it's only by mistake. Yesterday the children went to spend the day with friends and I was left to my own devices. I was all set to go on a shopping spree, when . . . no car! As I was dialing the police number I remembered that hubby had borrowed the car while he took his own in for repairs. Problem—he hadn't told me where his was being fixed. Grrrrrrr! Eventually I managed to learn from my better half where he'd left it, and went to collect. Hours later, having had no time to shop, I came home to find the phone ringing. It was "guess who," informing me that the parking attendant hadn't recognized the car in Mr. Saver's space (MY car) so, with super-efficiency, had it towed four miles across town. The end of a perfectly disorganized day.

After dinner I decided I deserved the luxury of a snooze on the patio. To my mind there is nothing more relaxing than to lie on a chaise lounge for half an hour just listening to our wind chimes. These chimes have travelled a long way to make their pleasant bell-like tune. They are made in the Philippines, of kapis shells. These shells are perfectly round and flat, strung on thin nylon threads suspended from a wooden bar. You may get these in a local shop in combinations of blue and green, mixed pastel shades, or in plain white. The white chimes are made of 25 shells and sell at $1.95, while the green and blue has 30 shells and is $2.95, and the multi-colored has 35 shells, but, for a short time only, will sell at the same price.

There are dozens of unique imported items in this shop, and some of the most beautiful wooden ware I've ever seen is now selling at half price. Philippine monkeypod wood is molded into salad bowls, serving sets and individual bowls made in both matte and veneer finishes. A large oval salad bowl is $11.95 and if the serving pieces are purchased with it, they are $1.95. Individual serving bowls, priced at $2.95, are molded in this same "egg-shape." This is a very handsome service for summer dining, and will complement both traditional and modern china. There are also several sets of round bowls with hand-carved trim serving bowl, six individual bowls and serving pieces—priced at only $14.50 for the entire set.

You'll love the fantastic import bargains you will find in this shop. If you'd like to know where it is, please give me a call at 382-3131.

The marriage will take place on Saturday, July 29, at 6 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church. Canon Grahame Baker will officiate. DEAR ABBY . . .

Some People Have No Morals

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There is a very nice-looking, well-to-do gentleman in this town whose wife is dying of cancer. No one knows how much longer she'll last, but she's in the hospital now, so the end is probably near.

This gentleman would make a fine husband, and I know that the minute his wife dies there will be a rush of widows and divorcees at his doorstep.

I would like to beat the traffic, but I don't know how to go about it without being too obvious. Got any ideas? Would it be O.K. to invite him to my apartment for dinner some night? Or would it be more subtle to fix a nice hot meal and send it over to his house? Any advice you have on this subject would be appreciated. Keep my name and city confidential, please.

WIDE-AWAKE WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: Sorry, I can't help you "beat the traffic," but since you've asked for advice on the subject, quit scheming! You'd fool no one. Least of all the gentleman.

DEAR ABBY: I am a nurse. My boy friend is an X-ray technician. We date weekends, but see each other daily at lunch during coffee breaks.

Until recently, we both smoked, and this is my source of trouble. My boy friend decided to quit smoking last month. He said it would be easier for him if we didn't meet for coffee breaks since the proximity to someone smoking might be more than he could withstand.

On our weekend date, I smoked a cigarette during a dance intermission. He didn't say anything, but he looked pained. When he said good night he acted cool, and his good night kiss was cooler. Since then, I learned that he's been dating some little student nurse who doesn't smoke! I am so mad I could burn.

I don't want to lose him. Any ideas?

STILL SMOKING

DEAR STILL: If you haven't already lost him, quit smoking, or that cigarette you're holding could become a torch.

DEAR ABBY: If a man is married to a woman who is "cold," or always "too tired" to satisfy her husband's physical needs, he gets a lot of sympathy. And if he should go elsewhere for what he's missing at home, no one blames him. But how about a woman? She can be love-starved for years, and if she so much as looks at another man, she's considered a tramp.

Well, I'm not a tramp, Abby. I'm a decent, normal woman who has been married for 16 years to a man who has given me a fine home, children, financial security, and companionship. But for the last four years his interest in sex has diminished to nothing.

We are both in our early forties, and I think we are much too young to consider the physical side of our marriage finished. Or am I wrong? I've tried everything to revive his interest in me, but it's hopeless. He refuses to discuss it, and he won't see a doctor. Meanwhile I'm left frustrated.

I've never been unfaithful in my life, although I have had chances. I am attractive, look younger than my years, and lately I have been wondering if perhaps an affair on the side would save my husband's face, and our marriage? Or am I rationalizing? Woman to woman, what do you think?

ONLY HUMAN

DEAR ONLY: Woman to woman, I think you ought to tell your husband that if he values his marriage he had better see a doctor for a thorough check-up. He could have a physical disorder which he ought to know about.

If it's not "physical", that's still another problem; but it's not normal for a man his age to have lost all interest in sex. Let him know you love him, but have serious doubts about how much longer you can remain faithful.

Party Whirl Heralds Vows To Take Place Next Week

Co-workers at Raymond's Salon gathered in the Colquitz Avenue home of J. Timmer and L. Horth when they entertained at a shower. A corsage of red and white carnations was presented to the honor guest and she was assisted with her gifts, contained in a decorated wishing well, by her chosen attendant, Mrs. W. Green. The 17 guests attending were served a dinner of Chinese food.

Roses en corsage were given to Miss Lacey when Mrs. G. D. Taylor held a shower in her Gorge Road home. Corsages of roses and carnations were given to the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. E. M. Lacey, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. I. Bjur.

Mrs. Green again assisted the bride-elect with her gifts which were held in a decorated laundry basket. There were 20 guests attending.

A combined 21st birthday party and cup and saucer shower was held in the Mowat Street home of Mrs. H. Thornber. A gaily decorated birthday cake centred the refreshment table and gifts were concealed beneath an umbrella. Another chosen attendant, Miss Wendy Bjur, sister of the groom-elect, assisted with the gifts from the 14 guests attending.

Mrs. Otto Wiik, Mrs. P. Hawksworth and Mrs. J. Bell were co-hostesses at a sherry party and shower in Mrs. Wiik's Hawthorne Road home. A novel corsage of kitchen utensils and carnations was presented to Miss Lacey and the mothers of the principals received carnation corsages.

For Today's Bride Diane Hayward

ANTIQUE COIN IS TOKEN

A Danish coin, 600 years old, was the "something old" talisman for Diane Eugenie Hayward when she became the bride of Dr. George Ernst Rasmussen this afternoon.

Appliques of Guipure lace highlighted the elbow-length sleeves of the bride's gown of peau d'elegance. The gown was styled with a bell skirt, and a full train accented with Guipure lace extended from the waist. Her cathedral veil misted from a headpiece, fashioned of white bells studded with pearls. She carried talisman roses and Peruvian lilies in her bouquet.

Rev. R. Morris conducted the ceremony in First United Church, which was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and carnations for the wedding. Mrs. Ursula Bunt was organist.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stanley Hayward, 2725 Burdick Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Rasmussen of North Burnaby. Mr. Hayward gave his daughter in marriage.

Matron of honor Mrs. E. Stricker, and bridesmatron Mrs. J. Mitchell chose matching floor-length gowns in tangerine peau d'elegance, featuring sleeves tipping the elbows. Their headpieces were rosettes holding bouffant veils en tone with the gowns, and they carried bouquets of tangerine Peruvian lilies and white carnations.

A yellow Italian-knit two-piece suit was the choice of the new Mrs. Rasmussen for travelling on honeymoon to Harrison Hot Springs and Washington. She complemented the ensemble with dark brown accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Secretaries Are Against Miss Robotary

TORONTO (CP) — Delegates to the National Secretaries' Association convention don't give a snap of the fingers for office robots.

Miss Robotary, a robot designed by Shirley England of Kansas City, is welcoming delegates to the conference here. Mrs. England, editor of The Secretary magazine, sees the robot as a symbol of automation that could easily take the charm, although not the efficiency, out of front-office operations around the world.

Other secretaries, however, don't feel Miss Robotary has what it takes.

"Oh she's efficient all right, but she has no real initiative," said Christine MacKinnon, a medical secretary from Toronto.

"Miss Robotary doesn't have the personal touch," says Eileen Robson of Washington, D.C.

Men are not as willing or able to cater to their bosses as women secretaries do, says Martha Flood of Orlando, Fla. They wouldn't think of fixing him coffee or reminding him of upcoming family birthdays and anniversaries.

The Time of the Tenters is Here

Gathered around the picnic table on their campsite Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fletcher of Gilchrist, Ore., and their two children, 14-year-old Richard Jr. and 15-year-old Roberta relax over a leisurely mid-afternoon snack. This is the first trip to British Columbia for the Fletchers but they all agree that it won't be the last. Says Mrs. Fletcher, "The scenery is superb and the people are every bit as friendly as the ones back home. In Oregon we have tourist schools for everyone connected in any way with the tourist trade. You'd think everyone here had attended the schools — they make you so welcome."

Even when you're on a camping holiday, a fellah has to make sure that his molars are in tip-top shape. Here, four-year-old Kenny scrubs with a will, helped by his mother, Mrs. Robert Scholes. The Scholes, who live in Edmonton, decided to head west this summer and vote Goldstream Park one of the best sites they've seen. An old hand at the game, Kenny is thoroughly enjoying his second annual camping trip and even welcomes the daily "wash up and clean up" sessions.

"The flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land."

And, on British Columbia highways, caravans of tenters wend their way, alert to the call of woods and green places.

More than 100 years after the first tents were pitched where Victoria stands today, the coming of summer heralds the rising of ever-changing tent towns on the city's outskirts.

In Goldstream Park, hundreds come from all over North America to savor the simple pleasures of outdoor living and sleep under the stars, with nothing between them and the heavens but a rooftop of canvas and leafy draperies.

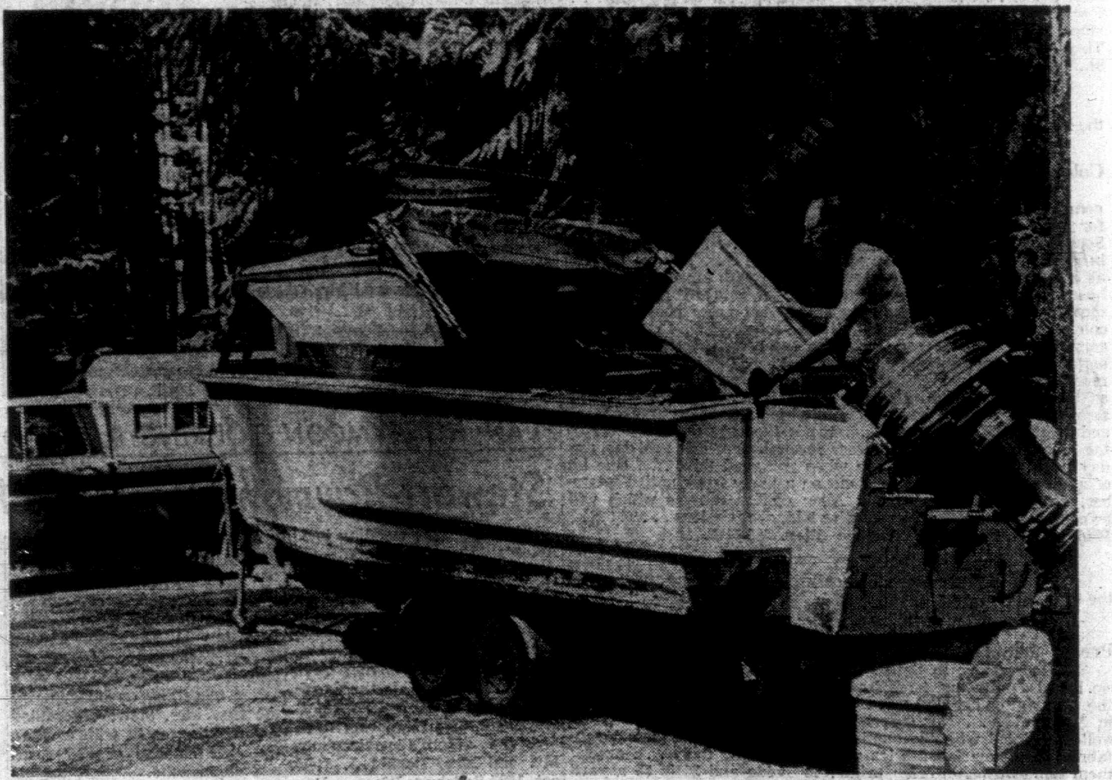
Humans aren't the only ones who like to look their best when they pitch their tents under the trees. With a little coaxing, Fanny enveigles her owners, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Lambert, to join her as she spruces up in the convenient creek. Fanny, a delightful combination of chihuahua and Yorkshire terrier, is very much boss of the Lambert home at Kelsey Bay.



Looking like a modern-day version of Noah, Mr. Maurice M. Romig checks his charts in the stern of his 20-foot cruiser, Morilu, oblivious to the raised eyebrows of fellow campers as they discover the shore-bound vessel. Mr. Romig and his wife, Lucille, trailed their boat from their home at Coos Bay, Ore., giving her hull a wetting during a two-day cruise starting at Friday Harbor. Heading up-Island, the Romigs intend to become seaborne again at Nanaimo.

One of the nicest things about camping, discovered by Mrs. Richard Pretty, is that reluctant husbands suddenly become enthusiastic chefs when the kitchen stove is installed under shady cedars. Eager to sample the meal-of-the-moment are the Prettys' twin 13-year-old daughters, Beth and Dawn, and three-year Robert. This is the family's first camping trip and, coming from Port Alberni, they've adopted the motto "See British Columbia first."

Portable homes that grace Canada's campsites are almost as varied as their more permanent counterparts in residential districts. Mr. and Mrs. Ross Garland chose a home-built trailer when they hit the camping circuit. Five-year-old Theresa and Douglas, six, appear eager and ready to give Dad a hand with the chore of "home-building." The Garlands live in Calgary and Mrs. Garland says they came west to avoid the bustle of stampede time and enjoy a taste of summer sunshine, still available in only minor doses in their home town.

Doing The Town

with DOROTHY FRASER

Bargains in English dinnerware . . .

We had a real eye-opener this week when we visited Sydney Reynolds and saw all the new . . . and inexpensive . . . dinnerware they've just recently got in from England . . . Made us realize how possible it is to set a gracious table for the family every day of the week . . . without bringing out all your best china! . . . Their Ironstone dinnerware . . . by Furnivals and Ridgways . . . is quite lovely . . . Furnivals "Chinese Blue Quail" is a reproduction of a famous old pattern . . . includes everything . . . from cups and saucers in three different sizes . . . to a big, old-fashioned soup tureen with ladle . . . $4.35 buys a 5-piece place setting . . . Ridgways' "Old Country Sprays" . . . whose design speaks for itself . . . is just $3.50 per setting . . . and their beautifully-shaped "Whitehall Plain White" . . . which looks most attractive on a colored cloth . . . is a mere $2.25 a setting . . . We love Ridgways' centennial project for Canada . . . called "Heritage" . . . reproducing genuine hand engravings from Bartlett's scenes of early Canada . . . in soft, subdued colors . . . A complete set of 53 pieces (settings for 8, plus all else needed) is priced at just $50 . . . All these are real bargains in dinnerware . . . and we hope you'll go and see them at . . . Sydney Reynolds Ltd., 801 Government St., 383-3031.

Elegant knits from Vienna . . .

"Elegant" is the only way to describe the new knit suits just arrived at Wilson's . . . They're from Marvienne, of Vienna . . . a label you seldom see here because the selection must be made on the spot in Austria . . . and this is exactly what Wilson's buying representative did! . . . Suits are divided into two categories . . . the definitely dressy ones . . . trimmed with the most beautiful hand embroidery you could ever hope to see . . . (the House of Marvienne is famous for its embroidery) . . . and casual suits distinguished for their good fit and subtle color blending . . . There's a pink suit with pearl and lurex embroidery . . . a pale blue with heavy white wool embroidered collar . . . a lovely black with intricate lurex and beading embroidered on suede . . . size 16 . . . Another dressy suit with bead embroidered collar and buttons is white, size 16 . . . and in size 18 there's a beautiful camel colored suit with wool embroidery . . . In the "sporty" group, there's a turquoise and link windowpane check with pink shell . . . a linden green and beige suit with reversible jacket . . . striped turtle neck shell with ¾-length sleeves . . . You'll find most of the shells in these suits have a sleeve of some kind . . . a much-wanted feature, we understand . . . Do make a point of seeing these choice Marvienne knits at . . . W & J Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., 383-7177.

Haere tatou! (Let's go!) . . .

Remember back a few months ago we told you about a fabulous vacation at the Club Mediterrane in Tahiti . . . two weeks in paradise for $632 all-inclusive? . . . Well, several Victorians went . . . and came home wild with enthusiasm . . . The whole deal sounded just too good to be true, so Paulin's decided to see for themselves . . . and their Mr. John Boyle has just returned to give us a first-hand report . . . "Wonderful!" was his comment . . . "worth twice as much!" . . . We drooled over descriptions of fantastic beaches . . . delicious meals, with wine, prepared by a chef from Paris . . . beautiful lagoons . . . exciting Polynesian entertainment . . . and the intoxicating all-pervasive scent of frangipani . . . There are 3 flights weekly from Victoria via Seattle, Los Angeles, Papeete . . . a short ferry sail to the island of Moorea . . . where you're given your own "fare" (thatched bamboo bungalow with all the amenities) . . . set among the palms bordering a brilliant white sand beach . . . You'll go sailing, spear-fishing, scuba diving, water skiing, horse-back riding, etc . . . all for free . . . Pay your bar bill with beads . . . never in any circumstances hand out a tip! . . . For an extra $49 you can stay for three weeks . . . and you may stop over at Honolulu on your way home . . . Don't believe it? Then talk to . . . George Paulin Travel Service, 1006 Government St., 382-9168.

Newest dress is a one-piece pantsdress . . . shorts to above the knee and a skirt top.

Color in the limelight . . .

You simply wouldn't believe it if we told you the color combinations in many of the new Jonathan Logan wool dresses for fall which Madam and Eve are displaying right now! . . . Sounds awful set down in black and white . . . yet a symphony in glowing technicolor when you see them! . . . They're all cute as a bug's ear . . . some come equipped with toned nylon pantihose . . . and we've a hunch the younger gals will go mad over these . . . (You'll find equally smart, but more conservatively colored dresses for the not-quite-so-young) . . . In this category is the long-sleeved turquoise wool with box pleating at bottom, welt seaming in the front . . . or the lime green with mock turtle neck . . . Purple and brown seem to be emerging as the strong fashion colors for fall . . . styles are mostly straight, but they all have unexpected touches of excitement . . . and talking of excitement . . . that's the only way to describe the Gordi suits, coats and dress ensembles which are due any day now . . . may even be in when you read this! . . . One bit of advice . . . if you can hold out on a party frock until September, do wait for the Anthony Allen chiffon dresses which will be coming in then . . . Colors, we're told, are fabulous . . . Madam and Eve Shop, Trounce Alley, 383-7177.

Eavesdropping in Saba's fabric department the other day, we heard a lady just back from Expo telling a clerk how much the material of her dress . . . bought at Saba's . . . was admired in Montreal . . . Not surprising to us, of course, since we're well-acquainted with the quality and originality of Saba's lovely fabrics . . . New fall fabrics are now arriving daily . . . among them hand-washable orlon prints, 45" wide and $4 to $5 a yard . . . There are paisleys, florals and geometric prints . . . some quite striking color combinations, others more subdued . . . This material drapes softly, is a good weight for dresses, blouses or dressing gowns . . . Also ideal for dressing gowns and just-warm-enough dresses are the paisley, floral and geometric printed Viyellas . . . that wonderfully versatile material which never seems to wear out . . . It comes in plaids and plain pastels, too, as well as small checks which are very smart for men's sport shirts . . . $3.50 to $5 . . . For fall cocktail and formal dresses there are some deliciously colored printed sheers . . . $4.50 per 42" yard . . . and plain sheers to match at $2 if you'd like to combine them . . . A black and white zebra striped sheer is especially stunning, we thought . . . Saba Bros. Limited, 1130 Douglas St., 384-0561.

Now there's colored body paint—complete with paint tray and miniature foam rubber roller!

Get your summer wardrobe freshened up now . . .

Those pretty summer linens and cottons most of us have been wearing for the past few weeks may be looking a bit limp just about now . . . We know ours are . . . but we also know exactly what to do about them to restore their pristine freshness and crispness . . . send them to Paisley Cleaners for a good cleaning and sizing! . . . Even clothes which are definitely washable never look quite the same once they've been laundered whereas expert cleaning restores the "new" look . . . This goes for all kinds of sweaters too . . . particularly cashmeres . . . We've given up washing ours because Paisley Cleaners do them so reasonably . . . and there's simply no comparison in the softness and general appearance of our woollens! . . . Paisley do a superlative job on everything entrusted to them . . . you'll never need worry about the outcome, no matter how delicate or fragile or expensive your things may be . . . And as for men's clothes . . . well, we've yet to meet a male Paisley customer who isn't enthusiastic about the way his suits are pressed . . . just like a tailor would do it! . . . The Bruces, who own and operate Paisley Cleaners, have been away on holiday for the past couple of weeks but they're home now . . . and ready to go to work with renewed enthusiasm . . . So gather together your family's soiled clothes and phone for a fast pickup from . . . Paisley Cleaners, 522 Gore St., 384-3724.

The perfect "thank you" . . .

With weekend invitations being proferred by fortunate friends with camps or cottage or boats . . . we the recipients of this hospitality are sometimes hard put to it to know what token of appreciation would best hit the mark . . . Ditto for husbands bacheloring in town, who get invited to someone's home for a square meal . . . Well, take our word for it, you can't go wrong if you arm yourself with a box of Welch's chocolates . . . It'll do you proud, as well as being a compliment to the recipient . . . If you don't know your hostess's favorites, get one of the made-up boxes of assorted chocolates and candies . . . or, of course, you can pick your own . . . or even telephone and have your order delivered anywhere in town . . . or mailed anywhere in the world! . . . We've tasted a lot of famous-name candy in our day, but have yet to encounter anything better than Welch's . . . They're freshly made . . . of the freshest, purest, finest ingredients . . . and we'd run out of adjectives long before we could begin to describe the 50-odd luscious varieties of chocolates and candies . . . The thing to do is find out for yourself . . . Get your next box of chocolates from . . . Welch's Candy Shop, 755 Fort St., 383-6422.

Times' fashion editor Nona Damaske was delighted to meet Julie Andrews when she visited The Masquers in Hollywood. Here, the star wears a striking outfit which is part of her wardrobe in the movie, "Thoroughly Modern Millie."

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Fashion Writer Tours Famed 'Hippie' Strip

Damaske

A splendid way to alienate yourself from your California friends is to suggest a drive along The Strip on Saturday night about 10 p.m. Being the only non-Californian at a dinner party in the home of my friend Bonnie Hightowers, the choice of an after dinner outing was being left to me. When I brightly suggested a tour along the 12-block-long hippie section of Sunset Boulevard, mouths dropped open and the remark "You must be kidding" escaped from one guest.

The Sunset Strip is bypassed as often as possible by Los Angeles residents and Saturday nights this area is avoided like the plague. However, with the great reputation of California hospitality at stake, fixed smiles were mustered up and off we went.

It was a blast and, believe it or not, we all enjoyed it. It was bumper to bumper with crowds of honky-tonk teenager jamming the streets.

NOISE 'N' KNEES

In convertibles, loaded with passengers, radios were turned to an ear-shattering pitch . . . the beat of the Strip is pretty wild. I saw fellows carrying musical instruments and girls with tambourines. The mini-skirts were the miniest, the textured hose the brightest. Footwear was a sharply contrasting affair . . . bare feet or boots. Everyone seemed to have shoulder-length hair and many were wearing the small granny glasses . . . many with dark lens, although it was nighttime there is a distinct brilliance along the strip.

Every sidewalk open-air eatery was crowded and gangs gathered at every nightspot doorway (by this time I had got the message and knew better than to suggest going in any of the spots).

Whisky-a-Go-Go remains the favorite with the young writhers while across the street the more mature swingers pull up to the Playboy Club.

During the snail-pace ride, motor cycles dart in and out, each one bearing two bodies clutched tightly. Police patrol cars are in pairs, one behind the other.

In a small garden spot between two buildings a group of bearded weirdies are playing assorted instruments and sending ugly discordant sounds out into the warm night air. A barefoot girl with black waist-length hair is crooning to a corn broom and the hippies in the immediate vicinity are swaying as if in a trance. Our rendezvous spot in Hollywood was The Masquers, one of the oldest private clubs in Los Angeles. We spent a happy hour listening to comedy patter and songs of former years.

SEA OF 'STARS'

At this gathering spot of the real troupers of the entertainment industry the guests have a familiar look . . . so many of them appear in movies and television. Many no longer have an active show biz career but the spotlight shines again at The Masquers where they are encouraged to perform.

Julie Andrews came in about midnight and stopped to chat at each table as she walked athrough the crowded room. She was cool and fresh in a simple emerald and avacado green checked shift, low-heeled patent slippers and gold jewelry. Her hair is nut brown with a frosting of pale gold Julie Andrews is far from beautiful but her natural freshness and warm personality make her an attractive and vibrant woman.

That afternoon I had been to see Julie Andrews in Universal's "Thoroughly Modern Millie." This Jazz-Baby-age musical spoof of the '20s is a most delightful movie. My interest in this film was aroused in January in New York when Ross Hunter, the producer, came to New York to give the fashion press a sneak preview of the costumes. Designed by Jean Louis, one of Hollywood's finest stylists, the costumes were modelled live while film clips were shown on a screen.

The irony of my whole day's fashion trip was that in the 1920's the girls wore the headache bands while on Sunset Strip the groovy guys are sporting them.

Dainty Lace Accents Enhance Bridal Gown

Exquisite accents of lace highlighted the floor-length gown of white peau de soie worn by Valerie Joan Hays this afternoon when she exchanged marriage vows and rings with Storm William Andersen in Metropolitan United Church.

The empire-line bodice of the gown was fashioned of lace and featured sleeves ending in lily points. The same lace formed the full detachable train which swept back from the shoulders. Her tiered bouffant veil misted softly from a lily of the valley headpiece and she carried garnet roses and stephanotis in her cascade bouquet.

BLUE AND WHITE

White gladioli and blue delphiniums decorated the church when Rev. E. Laura Butler heard marriage vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hays, 831 Villance Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Anderson, 3213 Doncaster Drive. Mr. Hays gave his daughter in marriage and Eric Boothroyd was organist.

Matching empire-line gowns of rose peau de soie were worn by matron of honor Mrs. Jan Emmott, the bride's sister, and bridesmaids the Misses Barb Smith and Mary Macmurchie. Their rosette headpieces were en tone and they carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

AT RECEPTION

The couple will make their home at 630 Gorge Road West when they return from a honeymoon trip to the provincial interior, Washington and Edmonton.

For travelling, the new Mrs. Andersen wore a pink and rose three-piece linen suit which she made herself. She topped it with a matching coat and chose black accessories to complement the outfit.

COURT CATCH

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — As Judge Leo Gasner rose to leave the courtroom everyone stood up except one woman. Sheriff Fox said loudly and with a touch of impatience: "Please stand up." Replied the spectator timidly: "I can't. My dress is caught in my chair."

PLAN HONEYMOON TOURING B.C. AND ALBERTA

Stewart-Raymond Vows Exchanged Today

The bride, the former Alice Yvonne Raymond, is the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Wilfrid R. Raymond, 3309 Hockering Road, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Stewart, 1627 Splisbury Place. Rev. A. G. MacLeod officiated at the double-ring service and Mr. Raymond gave his daughter in marriage.

Pearl detail highlighted the bodice of the bride's street-length dress which was topped with a three-quarter-length duster coat of delicate lace. Her shoulder-length veil misted softly from a matching headpiece and she carried red roses and white stephanotis in her cascade bouquet. Her jewelry accents were the groom's gift of a rhinestone necklace and earrings.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Ruth Goertz, who wore a street-length dress of pink norganza, fashioned with short sleeves of lace. She carried a nosegay of pink and white carantions.

A WOMAN'S VIEWPOINT

By Pat Dufour

An advertisement in the Ladies' Home Journal set Dr. Helen Gordon Stewart on the trail of a new career which began in New York in 1908 and ended in her being ranked as one of the most influential women of our province.

When you meet Dr. Stewart in her home at the Lady Simcoe Apartments there is little similarity between her and the pioneers which we laud today. It is only when she talks of her life's work, which is libraries, that you receive a hint of the pioneering flame which burns in her as strongly as it did in those who wrested our country from the bonds of wilderness. Born in Ontario of pioneer stock, Dr. Stewart received most of her early education in Manitoba where her family moved when her father was appointed there as a church minister. Her first profession was that of school teacher. She left this career to work in an office.

It was during these days that Dr. Stewart saw the ad that was to bring challenge into her life and sweeping changes in the province where she now lives.

It told of three librarian courses in American universities and, having always had a "love affair" with books, she decided that this would be her new life. She wrote the entrance examinations for two of the schools, the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn and the New York Public Library School. She passed both and decided to enroll with NYPLS. On completion of her studies she was made assistant librarian for the children's section of one of New York's largest libraries. But, as she says, "I've always been an out-and-out Canadian and in 1910 I decided to head home."

Couldn't Stay Away From Canada

Woven through Dr. Stewart's story is the strong influence made on it by the Andrew Carnegie Foundation. In those days the foundation had recently begun to endow libraries, insisting that such institutions be brought up-to-date and tax-supported. Victoria's public library was in the process of making itself eligible for the Carnegie aid when Dr. Stewart came back to Canada. She was taken on as cataloguer under chief librarian, the late Dr. Hands. His credentials, all that were needed in pre-Carnegie days, were those of a retired schoolmaster.

On his retirement in 1912, Dr. Stewart became the library's first trained chief librarian and the second in the province. The other was the late Miss Alma Russell, who headed up the provincial library.

Under her guidance, Dr. Stewart saw the public library blossom into adulthood. She also initiated other reforms, including an apprentice training program that would provide library assistants, trained to the point of being ready for university studies. She enrolled the help of the Seattle and Portland libraries where students were sent for short practical sessions. One of her first students was Miss Margaret Clay, who succeeded her as chief librarian.

Dr. Stewart ran the library until 1925, taking time out during the First World War to drive an ambulance in France. Never content to rest on her laurels, she decided in 1925 to get more education under her academic belt. She headed for Columbia University in New York and in four years had earned her BSc, MA and PhD.

Again, the Carnegie Foundation had its influence. At that time it was offering $100,000 to any group that would be willing to set up a pilot plan for outlying unorganized areas. An active B.C. library association that Dr. Stewart had willed into being during her Victoria stay was vitally interested.

Headed First Pioneer Program

This group now asked her to come back and head a plan that would use the Fraser Valley as a nerve-centre and spread out to provide librarian service throughout the province. She accepted.

The foundation had stipulated that, after a period of three years, such a plan would result in the various areas supporting the library service by taxes. This meant that Dr. Stewart had not only to set up an efficient network; she also had to work miracles by persuading people that were paupered by the Depression to willingly go to the polls and vote for a library tax levy.

With frustrating modesty, Dr. Stewart glosses over her part in this crusade which resulted in 28 out of the 29 communities she serviced voting for the levy which bettered library facilities for the whole province. She's content to admit that it was hard work, involving many public meetings in addition to her organizational duties and thousands of miles of riding over ill-paved roads in her little car, complete with its trailer of books behind it.

One can only catch glimpses of what the challenges were. These come to view when she tells of the farmer who told her he was all in favor of the levy but felt reluctant to vote when he was too poor to pay his taxes. Other farmers, just as desperate, would ask if they could pay their share in either potatoes or carrots.

She also tells of the time when, having had to detour, she lost her way near the U.S. border. You can imagine her shock when she was challenged by an armed border guard after she had inadvertently crossed the line in the midnight hours!

Project Became Pattern for N.A.

The successful B.C. pilot plan was to become the pattern for many a North American community and she laughingly tells of the portly gentleman in Chicago who greeted her at a librarian meeting with "Hi, Miss Fraser Valley!" She organized a similar program on Vancouver Island, working out of Nanaimo.

On completion of this project the Carnegie Foundation again called her into action. She became assistant head of a librarian school in the Louisiana centre of Baton Rouge and, after that, set up a pilot plan for Southern Carolina.

She came home to Victoria to rest, but not for long. The Carnegie Council phoned her at her home in Gordon Head and asked her to set up library services in the eastern Caribbean. She headed for Trinidad in 1939 and remained in the West Indies until 1949 when, with the co-operation of the British government, she was able to see the culmination of all her plans for that area.

Perhaps it's Dr. Stewart's own modesty that prevents present officials from hanging her picture in the local public library she breathed into health. To me, even this token of respect seems inadequate. In this year of our centennial Dr. Stewart deserves something from the province she served so well.

Ten international women journalists, brought to Canada for a month-long visit by the Canadian Women's Press Club as a centennial project, arrived in Victoria Friday for a one-day stay. While here, they were entertained at luncheons, dinners, and were taken on sightseeing tours with members of the Vancouver Island Branch, CWPC, as hostesses. Above, two of the visitors take time out to view the gardens of the Empress Hotel where they were staying. At left is Miss Lobat Vala of Teheran, Iran. Well-known as a poetess and magazine writer in her country, she is responsible for a television program nightly as part of her work with the government department of art and culture. Miss Eliane Gebara is a general reporter in Beirut, Lebanon, and was the first to report on the refugee camps in Jordan, following the ceasefire in the Middle East war.

Son of Victoria Couple Is Wed Today

MARRIED IN MAINLAND CEREMONY

A wedding of wide interest to many Victorians took place in Vancouver, this afternoon, when Penelope Judith Stamp, Vancouver, became the bride of William Douglas Stewart.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. M. Roland Stamp of the mainland city and Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Stewart, 1213 Roslyn Road, Victoria.

Dr. Frederick Boyd officiated at the service in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Kerrisdale, and Miss Gail Holtz, Kimberley, was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Grecian-inspired gown of white cotton lace, fashioned with a full train sweeping back from the shoulders. A cluster of white roses held her bouffant, shoulder length veil. She carried talisman roses in her bouquet.

The bride's attendants, the Misses Judith Grey and Lynn Simpson, wore gowns in orange melon tones. They topped the outfits with matching chiffon coats, styled with belled sleeves. White gladioli were in their bouquets.

Best man was C. William Matkin. Ushering the guests were Ian Stewart and Graeme Stamp, brothers of the principals; Murray McIntyre, and John Herbert.

A. M. Cunningham proposed the toast to the bride at the reception following in the Point Grey Golf and Country Club.

SUNSHINE YELLOW

For travelling on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Stewart chose an A-line dress and matching coat in sunshine yellow. Accessories en tone and a white orchid completed the ensemble.

Victoria guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Edwards, Mrs. Frederick Matkin, Mrs. John Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stewart, Mr. Allan Stewart, Robert Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. George Davidson, Mrs. Ella Tidbury, Mr. and Mrs. John Herbert, Mrs. Victor Holker, Mr. and Mrs. M. Jamieson and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heath.

Other out-of-town guests were Randi Holtz and Miss Gail Holtz of Kimberley; Mrs. R. G. MacFarlane and Liana, and Miss E. Stamp, of Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. A. Cormode, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hood and Miss Margaret Baird, all of Castlegar.

'No-Ball' Ball Proceeds To Start Building Camp

A number of Victorians did not gather for the no-ball ball not held on June 31 by the Ss. Beaver Kiwanis Club of Victoria. Instead they bought tickets for the event and spent the evening any way they wished—even if it didn't exist.

The camp is to be built at an estimated cost of $119,600, but with the donation of construction work, plumbing, materials and volunteer labor, a total of $40,000 remains to be raised. To meet this cost, the Kiwanis clubs in the Pacific Northwest District No. 1 have each pledged to raise approximately $100 per member. Port Angeles and Port Townsend clubs have also offered to share in the costs.

Unfortunately, response to the Ss. Beaver club's project was disappointing, with less than $1,000 realized, and the camp cannot be built this year. A start will be made, though, with the donations received.

Those holding tickets and still wishing to donate to the camp should send contributions to the Ss. Beaver Kiwanis Club, 826 Yates Street.

Chamber, Mrs. E. Beane, Mrs. E. Manahan, the Misses Sharon Robbins, Sandra and Lorraine Gardner and Joan Hansen.

A yellow and white "umbrella tree" topped Miss Wilson's chair when her chosen maid of honor, Miss Judy Holt, held a surprise shower in her Shirley Road home. Ribbon roses were given to the bride-elect, her grandmother, Mrs. A. B. Brown, and the mothers of the principals. Games were played and refreshments served by the hostess and Mrs. R. G. Holt.

Visitors Welcomed From Pulpit in Hollywood's Churches

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Church Editor

Last Sunday morning I strolled up Hollywood's palm-treed boulevard to a massive white building with a tall spired tower standing in the heart of the movie capital.

This is the First Methodist Church and it has a congregation of more than a thousand.

Some 500 men, women and children attended the 11 a.m. service and among them were movie stars, would-be stars and many who contribute to Hollywood movies as cameramen, script writers, editors, scenario designers and wardrobe experts.

The church has splendid stained-glass windows and a fine choir of between 40 and 50. The sermon was preached by Rev. Frederick Cook in the absence of the minister, Rev. Dr. Charles Kendall, who is away on a preaching tour.

The service followed a simple pattern, similar to that of Baptist and United Churches in Canada. There were two scripture readings, a pastoral prayer and three popular hymns—Abide With Me, Lead Kindly Light and God So Loved the World.

"Many people are on holiday at this time," said Rev. Mr. Cook. "During the winter months we get as many as 900 at the main service on Sunday."

There is a 9:30 a.m. service in the neat little white-walled chapel alongside, but this attracts only a small congregation, including Sunday school teachers who are busy with their charges during the 11 a.m. service.

Visitors are asked to fill in a card, and their names and home towns are read out from the pulpit.

"You live in a lovely city," said one of the ladies who receive church-goers at the door. "Everything up there is so green and fresh. I stayed at the Empress in 1961 and, oh, how I loved that crumpet tea in the lounge!

"I don't think our hotels ever think of serving tea. They don't know what they're missing."

The lady wanted to know if the "nice little man" with the trio was still playing at the Empress. Regretfully, I told her that Billy Tickle had retired and taken his tea and crumpet music with him.

The makers of movies—and those employed in many kindred industries — also attend Hollywood's Congregational Church, another white building, floodlit at night, which smiles a benediction on the city's main thoroughfare.

I dropped in there for the evening service and heard a very thoughtful sermon on Christian Attitudes Which Shape Life from Rev. Dr. Merle Fish, Jr.

"The Christian must strive to keep evil from happening," he said. "If you see a child putting money in a cigarette machine, you should tell him nicely that he is doing a foolish thing.

"If you see an evil situation developing, in your office, your workshop or your neighborhood, it is your duty as a Christian to intervene."

As in Canada, the choir was resting during the months of July and August, but I heard a superb rendering of the Brother James' Air by a vocal quartet comprised of professional singers.

This was their church and they gave their services gladly, without fee.

Hollywood is no sin city. It has just as many solid citizens—and solid church communities—as any other.

Vietnam War 'Gnawing Issue' Before All Religious Meets

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Churches are generating a swelling chorus on behalf of peace in Vietnam, many of them calling for a halt to the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

Those urging an end to the bombardment range from Pope Paul to a growing succession of Protestant denominational conventions, in addition to the inter-denominational National Council and World Council of Churches.

However, some American communions have voiced support of U.S. policy in the war.

Others have appealed for renewed efforts at negotiations. Several have asked a stop by both sides to troop buildups. Some have simply raised an anxious question mark.

From several religious quarters, including the Methodist Council of Bishops, have come calls for a world summit meeting of religious leaders to join their influence in seeking to end the Southeast Asia conflict.

Also urging such an assemblage, Rabbi Dr. Marc H. Tanenbaum, of the American Jewish Committee, says it could "symbolize dramatically that the universal conscience of the people of the world cries out for an end to the war."

PLEA FOR PEACE

The war also produced sharp difference among churches, and in them. American Roman Catholic bishops have cited these differences, saying the U.S. position could be reasonably justified, but adding their "plea for peace."

The big Southern Baptist convention last month backed continued U.S. military efforts in Vietnam until "an honorable and just peace" could be established.

Earlier, the Standing Conference of Eastern Orthodox Bishops expressed support for American policy in the war, saying it "is directed against the spreading of totalitarian atheistic ideology and is justified as such."

However, numerous other denominations, in conventions this spring and early summer, have criticized conduct of the war.

The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. voiced "deep misgivings that the immediate need is an alternative to the bombing of North Vietnam."

The American Baptist Convention urged the United States to "stop the bombing," and asked both sides to halt "the buildup of troops" in the South.

Pope Paul declared recently it is "necessary that bombing over the territory of the North should cease and it is necessary that at the same time the infiltration of arms and war materials into the South should cease."

BLOCKS NEGOTIATIONS

The policy - making general board of the National Council of Churches, a co-operative body of 34 American denominations with a total of 42,000,000 members, called the bombing of the North "a block to negotiations."

"We therefore ask the U.S. government to stop this bombing," the board said, and also urged that the war issues be submitted to "collective, international judgment and action" through the United Nations.

The executive committee of the World Council of Churches, which includes 223 member denominations with a total of more than 350,000,000 members, similarly called for a bombing halt, saying this might "break the current impasse" and lead to negotiations.

Last fall, the National Council of Roman Catholic Bishops, in citing differences among church people "over the moral issues involved in this tragic conflict," said "it is reasonable to argue that our presence in Vietnam is justified."

The U.S. bishops added: "While we can conscientiously support the position of our country in the present circumstances, it is the duty of everyone to seek for other alternatives. We are also bound always to make sure that our government does, in fact, pursue every possibility which offers even the slightest hope for a peaceful settlement.

"There is a grave danger that the circumstances of the present war in Vietnam may, in time, diminish our moral sensitivity to its evils."

The statement drew criticism from Catholic peace groups, who called it weak in contrast to papal utterances against the war.

Angola Visitors To Be Speakers

All Vancouver Islanders are invited to attend an open-air church service on Sooke River Flats Sunday, July 30, at 4 p.m.

The open-air worship was inspired by Rev. Donald Gillies, resident minister of Sooke Knox Presbyterian Church. Rev. Dr. Kenneth and Mrs. Prior, medical missionaries from Angola, will give the adult and children's addresses.

"Tourists are especially welcome," Mr. Gillies said. "They will find inspiration by worshipping in the woodland bowl which lies along Philips Road on Sooke River Flats.

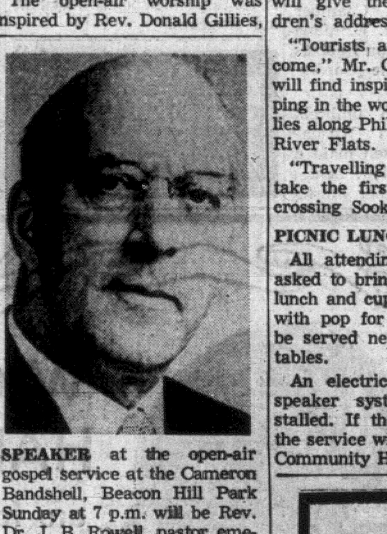
PICNIC LUNCH

All attending the service are asked to bring their own picnic lunch and cups. Tea and coffee, with pop for the children, will be served near the long picnic tables.

An electric organ and loudspeaker system is being installed. If the weather is bad, the service will be held in Sooke Community Hall at 4 p.m.



SPEAKER at the open-air gospel service at the Cameron Bandshell, Beacon Hill Park Sunday at 7 p.m. will be Rev. Dr. J. B. Rowell, pastor emeritus of Central Baptist Church. The Youth Choir of the church will lead the singing and there will be vocal and instrumental selections. The services have been sponsored for 25 years by the Victoria Committee, Christian Business Men's Committee International.

Feeding Problem

More than 1,800 Jehovah's Witnesses from many parts of Canada and the United States are attending a disciple-making conference in Nanaimo Arena this weekend.

About 600 of them are from Victoria.

"Our biggest challenge is feeding the delegates," said John Pimm, spokesman for the Witnesses. "We are providing three meals a day in the arena, with the help of 300 volunteers."

Arab Aid Club Forms

A Canadian-Arab Friendship Association has been formed in Vancouver under the Societies Act, it was announced in the B.C. Gazette.

Objects of the society include the promotion of goodwill between the two groups, creation of an educational program in either English or Arabic and "where possible, assistance in settling new Arab immigrants."

NEWS FROM CITY CHURCHES

Cleric Returns To Old Pulpit

Rev. William E. I. Askew, a former assistant priest at Christ Church Cathedral, will return to his old pulpit Sunday at 11 a.m.

He was on the cathedral staff from 1943 to 1945, then served in the diocese of Calgary. He is assistant director of diocesan services in Toronto and is concerned with the co-ordination and renewal of diocesan structures.

"It is a pleasure to welcome him back to the cathedral," says Rev. Roy Hoult, assistant to Dean Brian Whitlow.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Hoult announced that Wendy Riach and Lynn Pritchard, members of the Cathedral Guide Company, have been chosen to represent Victoria at the National Heritage Guide Camp in Ontario.

Three services—at 9:15, 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.—will be held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday.

They will be conducted by Rev. Bruce Molloy, associate minister, in the absence of Very Rev. J. Lewis McLean, DD, who is in Australia.

At 9:15 and 11 a.m., Mr. Molloy will give the second of a series of sermons on The Use of Stones and this one is concerned with throwing them.

In the evening he will speak on Crises in Faith: Salvation!

A quartet composed of Grace Hanning, soprano; Marjorie Sturgeon, contralto; John Bell, tenor, and Ron Towers, bass, will sing at all services.

Grace Hanning and Marjorie Sturgeon will also be soloists.

A Thursday evening eucharist for men and women who cannot attend Sunday services will be held in Christ Church Cathedral starting Thursday next at 7:30 p.m.

"We are catering to people who are either away at weekends or have to work on Sundays," says Rev. Walter Donald, recently-appointed deacon at the cathedral.

A former pastor, Rev. James E. Smith, returns to Emmanuel and Stevenson Memorial Baptist churches Sunday morning.

Mr. Smith served Emmanuel from 1951 to 1957 and during that time the Christian Education program was established and the Fellowship Hall built.

In 1957, Mr. Smith went to Toronto as director of an inter-denominational youth project. He is now serving as director of the Inner City.

The Inner City is a Christian club, sponsored by St. Paul's Avenue United Church, on the borders of the beatnik area of Yorkville.

"Its aims are to reach the teen-age problem members of society," says Rev. Norman Archer, "and it does extensive work among young alcoholics and drug addicts."

Mrs. Vera Greenway will speak on My Life in Arabia at the Unitarian Church of Victoria next Friday at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the Servetus Hall, 106 Superior Street.

Rev. Lionel Kenworthy from the Church of Truth, Atascadero, Calif., will speak on Intriguing Ideas About Prayer in Victoria Truth Centre, 1201 Fort St., Sunday at 11 a.m.

His evening subject will be Mysticism and Radiance.

MEDAL FIRMS HAVE BIG YEAR

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada may not hand out titles to its citizens but it's certainly free with medals this Centennial Year.

The variety is indicated by a display put together by the Royal Trust Co. as a centennial project and mounted in an exhibition to tour its branches across the country.

A feature attraction is a large solid gold Expo medal valued at $195. Largest of the medals is the Women of the Century issued by the National Council of Jewish Women and presented to Therese Casgrain of Montreal, longtime fighter for the rights of women.

The exhibit, which opened in Montreal before moving to Saskatoon July 14, also includes a set of seven Canadian coins specially minted for Centennial Year and including a $20 gold piece.

There is a British Columbia medal celebrating the 100th anniversary of Confederation and also the 1966 centenary of the union of Vancouver Island and the Mainland.

The City of Dartmouth medal, with its coat of arms and crest, was struck to raise funds for another centennial project, the restoration of one of five remaining 18th century Quaker houses in the Nova Scotia city.

Other medals represent the Ontario mining industry, Prince Edward Island, Halifax, Canadian Progress Club, Knights of Columbus, Winnipeg scouts and girl guides, St. Catharines, Ont., the Pan-American Games and the Calgary Stampede.

There is also a Saskatoon Trade Dollar issued by Pion-era and redeemable up to noon Aug. 31 for $1 worth of trade at the exhibition.

'Shew Me the Path'

In addition to the jets, one of the Centennaires will put an old Avro through its paces. The half-hour show can be witnessed from most spots along Victoria waterfront.

Limit Family, Clergy Told

TORONTO (CP) — Rev. Earl Lautenschlager, principal of the United Church of Canada's Emmanuel College, says ministers should not have working wives and should limit the size of their families in order to succeed in their job.

"I hesitate to say this, but I judge that the Protestant church has the right to expect of her clergy some discipline in the number of children."

He says the style of large families for ministers is overdone when ministers must stay home to do housework or when ministers' wives, by way of too many children, drive husbands from the ministry and into social work and teaching.

'ASK HENRY' TO FIND OUT

What Is Canada Celebrating For?

The writer of this article, Henry Makow, is an Ottawa high school student who, some years ago, wrote a widely-syndicated newspaper youth advice column, Ask Henry. He's now embarked on a trans-Canada hitch-hiking tour to find out what Canadian youth thinks about Centennial Year and about Confederation generally.

BY HENRY MAKOW

MONTREAL—The best antidote to a year in high school is to put a pack on your back and take off! A friend, Peter Lauterman, and I are taking off for a summer-long cross-Canada hitch-hike.

After a week at Expo, our route will be—first east, then west and finally north! Anything more precise would be against our spirit! Emphasis will be on travelling hard and then integrating into the life of one area for a couple of days.

I became part of a small Gaspe fishing village for a week last summer. Apart from when I got sea-sick, it was terrific! I discussed religion with a monk who compared life on earth to a little glass of wine and heaven to a big glass. And there was Sunday dinner "chez grand'mere," the blessing of the boats on St. Jean Baptiste Day and many more beautiful adventures of the mind and spirit.

This is what we're after! Peter's 18, I'm 17. At this age, we're questioning our direction and examining our loyalties. We've read and seen enough to know that important things like success and justice don't really have definitions. Staying tight in our middle-class vacuum won't help us find their meanings. We want to bust out of the mumbling security of classroom, family and friends and do things, see things and meet people like never before!

One loyalty we examine at this age is partriotism. Blind nationalism went out with the hoola-hoop and the 19th century. Today's kind of patriotism is based on a personal understanding of your country, the good and the bad. It is modest, confident and outward looking. It is what we would like to achieve this summer.

"What's all this noise about Centennial for?" a friend asked me recently. "What have Canadians done that any other people in a rich country like this wouldn't have done? In fact, would any other people sell control of half their economy and with some political independence?" Peter and I will find out this summer if this friend is right. Do we really have something to celebrate in 1967 or are we just marking time? These are our motives.

Peter's mother has furnished him with a batch of home-addressed envelopes on which a one-word message will suffice: "alive!". She also told me to remind him of his hay-fever pills, especially in Southern Ontario! Mothers!

Three American teen-agers visiting Expo gave me more to appreciate about my country. They said that the draft is on the minds of every young American today. Regardless of their stand on the war, no one wants to die. Some of their friends are becoming teachers for no other reason than it means draft deferment. It seems there are some good points in living in a country that can afford only quiet diplomacy.

This doesn't make us hicks though! Montreal, a proud, cosmopolitan centre, is enough to cure any hayseed complex. Peter and I saw Montreal from a helicopter after sunset. The island glowed for miles around. The lights from Place Ville-Marie and other ultra-modern buildings sketched an impressive skyline. And Expo resembled a string of glittering jewels flung upon the shadows of the harbor.

An intrinsic element of the landscape is "les belles filles!" Peter had decided that Montreal girls are not only beautiful, but they know how to carry themselves and are mature. They are not just girls, but "young ladies!"

Later today we hit the road for Quebec City.

PREACHER at Oak Bay United Church this Sunday and the three succeeding Sundays will be Rev. Dr. D. B. Sparling, associate minister. Dr. Sparling was minister of Belmont United Church until his retirement in 1964.

Coin-Throwing Visitors Provide Problem at Expo

This habit has been turned to good account by at least one pavilion, where coins worth almost $2,000 piled up in a two-month period. But other pavilions find it more a menace than a boon.

No one knows why visitors feel the compulsion to hurl their pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters into available water.

One Expo official advanced the theory Friday that "people saw the film Three Coins in a Fountain and have never been the same since."

The Belgian pavilion has solved the problem of what to do with the unsolicited dollars—give them to the blind.

The coin magnet in Belgium's showplace is the large pool in the pavilion's ground-floor Hall of Honor.

AID BLIND RESEARCH

The Belgians decided to hand over their take to the University of Montreal as a help to opthalmological research.

Four bags, each weighing about 100 pounds, were given to the university recently.

"We pull in $30 to $50 a week in various small coins in this fountain," a pavilion spokesman said Friday.

"The money was offered to the Montreal Institute for the Blind and they refused to take it. We don't know why.

"We intend to give the money to some humanitarian cause but we haven't found one yet. . . .

Well - meaning visitors also toss coins in pools on the ground floor of the Soviet pavilion were large sturgeon fish swim. These fish, from whose eggs the famous caviar is made, do not, however, take kindly to the chemical effects of the coins.

Said a pavilion official:

"The metal unbalances the oxygen level of the water, annoying the fish, so we have to clean them out as soon as they are thrown in."

"Every time a coin goes in, it breaks off a bit of coral and that stuff is limited and impossible to replace," said a spokesman.

YOUNG MEN GO NORTH

God Bless Canada, Say Americans

TORONTO (CP) — "This is my country."

"I feel perfectly at home here without being Canadian."

These are Americans speaking about Canada, which again is becoming a refuge for dissenters from the United States.

In the 1780s 50,000 United Empire Loyalists fled republicanism in the U.S. to enter Canada. And in the period before the American Civil War Negroes fled north to escape slavery.

Now a new stream of refugees, which started with those escaping McCarthyism, is swelling to include draft resisters, Negroes, and others disenchanted with U.S. attitudes toward race or the war in Vietnm.

The Globe and Mail, in an article on the situation, says figures are difficult to come by but immigration from the U.S. is rising and southward migration is dropping.

375 LEAVE UNION

The United Auto Workers in the Illinois region knows that about 375 members have left the union to move to Canada in the last two years.

"Many are Negroes looking for a better relationship with whites," says James Wright, a UAW international representative in Chicago.

A Toronto businessman, an American, helps draft refugees and says there are more than 10,000 draft resisters in Canada. He claims draft "refugees" arrive in Toronto at a rate of at least five daily.

Not all Americans are draft resisters.

"I'm glad I left the States," he said. "I consider myself a Canadian patriot."

In the United States, he said, "I can smell the stench of fascism."

Mr. Spira came to Canada in 1949 and runs three companies.

To American Negroes, Canada is a land of freedom, at least compared to the United States.

Rudy Gay, 34, is a Negro from Chicago who plans to move to Canada.

"I am a political, social, economic and psychological refugee," he says. Mr. Guy was in his last year of a pre-medical course at all-Negro Southern University, La., when he was expelled in 1960.

"They threw me out because I exercised one of our first freedorms—freedom of speech."

Mr. Guy is in Toronto looking for a job and an apartment for his wife and four-year-old son.

FEELS HUMAN

"This is the first time in my life I've felt like a human being. When I go to an apartment, the only thing they want to know is can I afford the rent."

He said "Canada is the closest thing I have found to a democracy."

Chandler Davis, mathematics professor at the University of Toronto, is critical of the U.S. school system. "The problem of centring world history on one's own nation is severe in the United States. They have an absolute incapacity for empathy with other viewpoint."

Prof. Davis ran into trouble in 1954 by refusing to answer questions before Senator Joseph McCarthy's un - American activities committee. He says he was dropped from the University of Michigan and a blackball against him in U.S. academic institutions was still strong when he came to Canada in 1962.

Mark Satin, a draft resister directing the anti - draft program in Toronto, gives advice to those who want to come to Canada from the U.S., and answers letters from an office provided by the Student Union for Peace Action in Toronto.

Once in Canada, the draft resisters say they may be visited by the FBI, often aided by local police or the RCMP.

Rev. John Morgan of Toronto's First Unitarian Church calls Canada a place of sanity. He was naturalized a year ago. He left Indiana for Toronto in 1959.

Pope Will Fly To Istanbul For Talks

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope Paul will fly to Istanbul, Turkey, July 25 for talks with Ecumenical Patriarch Athenagoras, it was announced today.

The Pope also will meet Turkish President Cevdet Sunay during his two-day stay in Turkey, his fifth foreign journey of his four-year reign.

The 81-year-old patriarch is a strong exponent of unity of the Orthodox and Catholic churches, which have been split for nine centuries.

The talks between the two church leaders are expected to touch on this subject.

OLD HAVEN IMAGE ERODING

Church Not a Hiding Place

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The old image of Christian faith as a haven removed from the tumult of the world is being widely discarded today, and the change brings on stran.

"It's tough, but that's all right," says Rev. Dr. John B. Coburn, dean of the Episcopal — Anglican — Theolgical School of Cambridge, which has spurred the trend toward pursuit of religious truth in life — rather than apart from fit.

"Christianity is life-affirming and life-involving," he says.

"God is making very clear that these structures which separate it from life in the world have got to be shaken. They are being shaken."

The process points up a paradox. As Dean Coburn put it in an interview:

"In a sense, when you turn to God, you turn away from Him, since you turn away from His created order in which we were meant to serve, with all its turmoil and anxieties.

"In the same way, when you turn to that world, you find God there rather than in any cloister. Christianity offers no hiding place. The incarnation means God is involved in the world. We must go to the heart of the secular to find the holy."

Using just the information given in the diagram above to guide you, see if you can determine how many ounces the little jug in the lower right hand corner holds.

Answer: Let X equal the amount in the little jug. Then X plus 42, 32 and 32, or X plus 106, is greater than 160 (see upper right corner). Subtracting 29 from X plus 106, and 27 from 160, we find that X plus 77 is less than 133. Therefore X is greater than 54 or less than 56. So X evidently is 55.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

During the last 10 years there has been a serious rise in the number of thefts of rare stamps, with only a small proportion of the culprits brought to book.

Being so conveniently portable and often so difficult to identify, stamps are now looked on as a very attractive commodity by the thieving fraternity.

However, the British Philatelic Association is now taking steps to make things much more difficult for receivers of stolen philatelic material.

An index of identifiable stolen stamps, with descriptions and photos where possible, will be made available to all the major dealers. Auction catalogues, sales lists, and stamp advertisements will be carefully scanned.

So it is hoped that the criminals specializing in robbing collectors will soon find that their racket doesn't pay.

●

Britain is issuing a special stamp this month to honor Sir Francis Chichester for his heroic feat in sailing single-handed around the world. The stamp will be a 1sh 9d denomination which constitutes the foreign air-mail rate.

The stamp is designed by Michael Goaman, and shows the Gipsy Moth IV heading into a violent storm, with the intrepid Sir Francis making an adjustment to the rigging.

A new definitive set for Fiji is slated for next year. The designs have been chosen by means of a competition.

Altogether there were 268 designs submitted by 78 competitors, and from these the 16 designs necessary to complete the series were chosen. These were all of a pictorial nature.

●

The set of three Malta stamps commemorating the 19th Centenary of the martyrdom of St. Peter and St. Paul are now on sale.

The 2d shows the crucifixion of St. Peter, with head downwards, as he is stated to have affirmed that he was unworthy of the posture in which his Master had died.

The 3sh value depicts the beheading of St. Paul, said to have taken place on the same day, under Nero's orders.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

West's double of four spades is not recommended. He knows that South is in for some bad news in trumps but North and South have reached game with no strain at all and the double may give away the trump situation in time for declarer to guard against it.

Dble	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♥ 10

It is a cardinal principle of bidding that you don't double when you may be jeopardizing the setting trick.

The double didn't hurt this time. West was sure of his two trump tricks anyway, but he slipped in the defence later on.

South won the heart lead and decided to attack the diamond suit before going after trumps. West rose with his ace of diamonds and led a second heart. South trumped in dummy, cashed dummy's ace of trumps just in case East might be holding one. Then he started to play more diamonds. He discarded a club on the third diamond lead.

West ruffed and led a club. South went right up with dummy's ace and discarded his last club on another diamond lead. West ruffed and led a second club but South was able to ruff in his own hand; draw trumps stopping in dummy and make the rest of the tricks with what was left of the diamond suit.

How could West have beaten the contract?

When he took his ace of diamonds he should have led a club rather than the second heart. Then when he ruffed for the first time he could have given his partner a club trick.

Park Pool For Wading Exclusively

City park authorities Friday refuted claims of Central Park supervisor Mrs. Kay Dixon, that the wading pool is dangerous for children learning to swim.

"The small and shallow pool in the Quadra Street park was never meant for swimming instruction," said Herbert Warren, parks administrator.

"It is a wading pool for small children and should be treated as such," he added.

Mrs. Dixon, 2640 Rosebury, said Friday a larger, deeper pool with a lifeguard is needed at the park.

She claimed the present pool tended to make beginner swimmers over-confident when they are in a lake or deeper pool.

Mr. Warren said the city's learn-to-swim program was held at the Crystal Gardens. The program was extensive and the pool was well supervised.

Half-Dollar Minting Halted

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Mint is no longer producing silver dollars and silver half-dollars because they are seldom used in trade, a mint official has reported.

Production of the two coins ended two months ago. The mint will not return to their manufacture until demand for dimes and quarters are fulfilled, the official said.

He said the mint's function is to produce coins for commercial use. Silver dollars and half-dollars were disappearing into the hands of coin collectors as soon as they appeared.

The official said he does not foresee any increase in the value of the coins.

Roughly 5,500,000 silver dollars and 3,500,000 silver half-dollars have been produced since the coins went into circulation, he said.

Orders for 1967 coin sets including the two discontinued ones are still being accepted until Sept. 30, he said.

'No Room for Lukewarm RC'

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—The National President of the Catholic Women's League says there is no place in today's world for a lukewarm catholic.

Mrs. H. T. Donihee of Cornwall, Ont., was addressing delegates to the league's 20th annual provincial convention.

Bishop M. A. Harrington of Kamloops, provincial spiritual director, said too high a value is being placed on material things and suggested that members of the league should lead the way towards a renewal of faith.

Blood Runs Too Slowly

Only 139 arms were bared at Red Cross House Thursday. The University of Victoria bled 83 donors Friday and Red Cross House 118.

Forbidden Hike Entices Scouts

Forty Scouts of the 1st, 4th and 5th Garry Oak Scout troops leave next Saturday for a nine-day hiking and camping trip on Forbidden Plateau.

Seven patrols will be organized of boys ages 11 to 15.

Over 1,000 pounds of food, mostl ydehydrated, will be airlifted by helicopter to the area.

The boys have spent several weeks learning to prepare the food and packing equipment for the trip. Final inspection of the packs will be Thursday at the Oak Bay Scout Hall.

Fluoridation Vote

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Greater Vancouver Water District administration board Friday postponed to 1968 a decision on whether to hold a fluoridation referendum.

FORMER B.C. Lion football player John McKenzie demonstrates to Larry Dalziel, 10, and Bob Cool, 11, best way to throw the ball at Carnarvon Park Friday. Companion 'Predatory Female'

A "predatory female" had a role in the troubles of David Coulter, 23.

The Ontario youth was handed a suspended sentence Friday when he appeared in central court for disposition of his case.

He had been held in jail since pleading guilty a week ago to contributing to juvenile delinquency.

But Magistrate Ostler said Friday that a probation officer's investigation of the case showed the girl had "pursued" the accused west.

Prosecutor John Macintyre said the report suggested the case was one involving "a predatory female."

LAW VARIES

And the magistrate decried the variance in provincial statutes defining the age limits determining juveniles.

Under federal statutes juveniles are 16 and under while B.C. law holds a person a juvenile to the age of 18.

"If it had been some other province there would have been no offence at all," said the magistrate.

"Which doesn't mean to say that I approve of your conduct," he added to Coulter.

Coulter was charged after police checked the girl early one morning and found later the couple booked in a downtown hotel as Mr. and Mrs.

Purse Prowler Pays $75 Penalty

A Vancouver youth who last week admitted trying to steal money from two women's purses was fined $75 on each count Friday.

Robert McRae, 19, was also ordered to sign a bond guaranteeing his good behavior over the next 18 months.

He was chased and caught by three men as he fled from the Tillicum Club, 645 Johnson, after a woman had snatched the $9 he tried to steal from his hands.

Court was told McRae had been drinking.

Hazard Extreme

PENTICTON (CP) — Forest Ranger Ray McDaniel said Friday hot weather has raised the forest fire hazard in the Penticton area to "extreme." One half-acre fire is still burning.

NOT EVERYONE enjoys a naval parade. Several people, including this couple at the corner of Yates and Broad, picketed this morning's centennial naval parade. Their signs called for world peace and an end to the war in Vietnam. The picketers were identified as members of the local Peace Action League which every Saturday lunch time holds a quiet demonstration at the junction of Douglas and View. There were no verbal demonstrations.

'Whites Have to Stop Picking on Us Negroes'

By LEE LINDER

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—"White men are masters of tricknology," said one young militant Negro in explaining why he and his friends were rioting. "We're tired of always getting nothing."

Doug Jones, 22, the father of four, lounged against a weathered picket fence Friday night on the edge of the riot-torn Negro neighborhood, near the towering housing project where his family lives.

Near here, on the street before dusk Friday evening, a Negro man was shot to death. And sniper's bullets, whining and snapping from windows and roofs, killed a policeman.

"There's no leader in this thing," he said, and his four friends agreed. "One guy picks up a brick, and the others just join.

"They think it is necessary. You know, it's got to stop, this picking on us, particularly by the cops. Why if we all had guns, guns . . ." and his voice faded in his thoughts.

Jones, slender but tough, may be bitter. But his pal Yonkii—"no first name, man"—hates with every breath.

NO JOB—BLACK

"I'm not Negro, I'm a West Indian born in Jamaica who is now a Muslim in Newark, all the way," said Yonkii. "I can't get a job because my complexion is black.

"I'm a high school graduate and I can't get a job. But if you're white, you get a job."

The fuse that set off the powder was the arrest of a cab driver Wednesday night for a traffic violation, and resisting policemen.

"They beat that guy up," said Calvin Tindall, 17. "I saw it. They stomped on him, they clubbed him. They killed him. Now, is that right?"

Assured the cabbie was alive and free on bail, the angry young men wouldn't believe it, and Jones said: "It's just another white man's trick, but this time we won't be fooled. We rose up. We made this city take notice."

CALL ON GUARDSMAN

The havoc that this all wrought—the deaths, the injuries, the damage in the millions—also brought in two battalions of New Jersey's 50th Armored Division, roughly 2,600 national guardsmen.

Sgt. Fred Schlueter of Little Falls was one of those called to help quell the rebellion in the city.

"I had just found out that my wife's pregnant—and here I am. Would you believe it?

"And when they break us down into groups of three to stand at an intersection my group is No. 13. And on Friday, too. Then we're assigned to one of the worst streets in the city and sniper fire flashes all around us."

The soldiers, bayonets mounted on rifles, had only eight rounds of ammunition.

Civilians, too, weren't having it easy. The guardsmen blocked streets leading into the riot area and permitted only residents to go through.

Ted Lourie, 21-year-old Negro, came by bus from Philadelphia to visit his girl-friend—and arrived about an hour after the 10 p.m. curfew.

"You sure picked a helluva night to come here," Schlueter told him. "You're not going to see your girl friend. You're going to turn around, walk back to the bus station and go back to Philadelphia."

He did.

Shorts, Yes, But Bikini Too Much

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — Women in shorts now can enter the Roman Catholic church at nearby Martyrs' Shrine.

But bikinis are taboo.

For years women in shorts and men in swim trunks were banned.

A church spokesman said Friday:

"So often mothers were forced to wait outside while the husband and children entered to view the shrine that we decided to ease the restriction somewhat. In respect to family unity, we decided to let in women with shorts."

Signs on the church entrances now read:

"This is a house of God. Out of respect for God, ladies in bikinis and men in swim trunks are asked not to enter."

FOUR CHARGED JOINTLY

Judgment Postponed In Beating Trial

Four men charged with assaulting two others in an apartment parking lot two weeks ago had their case adjourned Friday for judgment.

Magistrate William Ostler will deliver his judgment Friday.

Tried jointly in central court were Arnold Fuller, 29, of 918 Green; Ray Fuller, 23, of Nanaimo; William Pepper, 25, of 113 Gorge, and Gordon Price, 26, of 3205 Aldridge.

Mr. Ball said he and his wife and the Peakers were driving on Shelbourne before the fight when a speeding car tried to pass them on the right.

Mr. Peaker said he pulled his car to the left to give the other auto room as there was a parked car ahead in its path.

A short time later Peaker parked in the lot of an apartment at 3861 Shelbourne where the Balls live.

Mr. Peaker and Mr. Ball were approached by men from another car as they got out of their auto.

Mr. Ball was knocked down by several men whom he could not identify. He suffered two broken teeth, cuts and bruises.

His wife, who said she thought there were about eight men from the other car, added that the attackers tried to enter the car she and Mrs. Peaker were in but the doors were locked.

Mr. Peaker said one of the men hit him on the face. He grabbed him and tried to reason with him but the man broke away.

Peaker said he could not remember what happened after that. He suffered a black eye in the attack.

Sentence Suspended In Forgery Case

A woman who last week pleaded guilty to using a forged cheque to pay a milk bill was handed a suspended sentence Friday.

Mrs. Viriginia Rowland of Cobble Hill was ordered to sign a $250 bond guaranteeing her good behavior over the next year.

Court was told earlier she used a $258.78 Workmen's Compensation cheque last Nov. 8 to pay a $35 milk bill.

Peace Bid by Japan

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan will make a new Vietnam peace attempt at ministerial talks with the Soviet Union in Moscow later this month, foreign ministry sources have disclosed. The sources said Vietnam and the Middle East crisis would be two major topics at the talks, which will be the first of a series of regular sessions agreed upon by the two countries last year.

Rail Unions Set to Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility of a major railway strike hung over the United States today after leaders of six shopcraft unions reaffirmed their decision to rescind their no-strike pledge as of midnight tonight.

"Anything may occur out in the field whether we control it or don't control it," Joseph W. Ramsey, vice-president of the International Association of Machinists, said Friday.

Government and industry sources indicated they believe a strike would be against only a few major lines, rather than against all of the 90 per cent of the U.S. railways involved in the wage dispute.

Union leaders representing some 137,000 shopcraft workers refused to extend their voluntary no-strike pledge Thursday after a Senate-House of Representatives conference was recessed Monday without reaching a decision on a bill designed to avert a strike. They reaffirmed their stand Friday.

GOVERNMENT DOING BEST

George Christian, White House press secretary, quoting President Johnson as saying "a strike at this time would have grave consequences," said Friday "The government is going to do everything it can to prevent a strike."

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz and Defence Secretary Robert McNamara met earlier Friday with congressional leaders of both parties to advise them of the situation.

The Senate-House conferees are deadlocked in their attempts to resolve differences in legislation passed by the Senate and the House a month ago.

The Senate version, proposed by Johnson, would provide for 90 days of intensive efforts to win a voluntary agreement. If this failed, the bill would provide for any compulsory settlement. The House dropped the provision for any compulsory settlement.

The other unions involved represent sheet - metal workers, boilermakers, electricians, carmen and firemen and oilers. They are demanding a 6.5 per-cent pay boost this year and five-per-cent next year, plus 12.5 cents an hour in each of the two years for skilled workers. They now average $2.94 an hour, with skilled workers earning up to $3.05 an hour.

The railways have offered a six-per-cent increase for an 18-month agreement, plus a five-cent skill increase.

Fighters Pay Fines

A youth who bowled over a table of surgical equipment while being treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital early Friday was fined $25 later in the day.

John Flamand, 18, of 2333 Blanshard pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by being drunk.

Police found him shouting and swearing when they were called to the hospital.

Lavern Johnson, no address available, was fined $50 when he pleaded guilty to the same offence. He got in a fight with two men on a downtown motel parking lot.

Fined $25 for causing a disturbance by shouting was Robert Walton, 20, of 4060 Quadra. He ignored repeated police warnings to leave after a domestic dispute at a home in the 600-block Pine Street Thursday night.

14-Day Term For Breaching Probation

A girl who earlier this week was jailed two weeks for her second shoplifting conviction Thursday received an additional 14-day term for breaking the terms of her parole.

Patricia Meikle, 21, of 300 Michigan, had pleaded guilty Tuesday to shoplifting at Eaton's.

She was convicted of a similar offence at the same store in February and given a suspended sentence.

The second jail term today came for breaking the terms of her probation after the February conviction. She had signed a good behavior bond at that time, undertaking not to break the law.

HOT-LINE INSTALLED

A hot-line linking Thetis Lake with the Langford emergency vehicle and inhalator crew was installed at the lake's swimming beach Thursday.

Ald. Robert Baird passed the information on to the Victoria council Thursday afternoon after Ald. Percy Frampton had called for action on the installation of direct communication lines "at all three of our beaches."

Ald. Baird pointed out that hot-lines had already been installed at Elk and Beaver Lakes by Saanich council, the municipality now responsible for maintenance in the regional park.

Cost of the Thetis service will be $44.95 a month.

Code Issued To Regulate Grievances

Apparently prompted by the recent dispute between the B.C. Psychiatric Nurses' Association and the Civil Service Commission, the B.C. cabinet Thursday issued a written code to regulate "relations with government employees."

Acting Provincial Secretary Ray Williston said the order in council "merely codifies" past practice and does not change the system for grievance procedures and appeals to the cabinet from commission decisions.

The written regulations designate the B.C. Government Employees' Association "or a group" as authorized agents for discussing with the commission "general welfare and conditions of employment affecting their members."

It sets up a timetable and progression up the ladder through department officials to the commission for the determination of any grievance procedure launched by any employee or his representative.

It also stipulates that the commission, if called in to make a final decision on a grievance dispute, must provide a transcript or written summary of the evidence at its hearings.

The regulations also establish that a commission decision can be appealed to the cabinet which, in turn, has five choices ranging from confirming the commission's decision to referring it to a special board.

Negro Starving 'Genocide'

BOSTON (UPI) — The state of Mississippi, in an effort to erase the Negro voting plurality, has devised a system of starvation which amounts to a "plan of genocide."

That's the crux of a report submitted Thursday to the 58th convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). The report was compiled by two New York City welfare workers who left their jobs to work for the NAACP.

The starvation plan is being implemented in Mississippi's Delta region, the two investigators told a new conference Wednesday. They spent 15 days in the region while studying and investigating conditions in poverty-stricken areas.

"They are trying to kill the Negro voting plurality in Mississippi," Alex Waites said. "Mississippi has a plan of genocide to get rid of an many Negroes as possible," he added.

Waites and Rollie Eubanks, both of the New York City welfare department, compiled the report, which said, "the principal problem is starvation and survival brought about by onipresent and systematic exclusion of Negro agrarian workers from the economy of the Delta."

The report criticizes state and federal programs for "contributing towards the destruction of the individual, physically and emotionally." It also demands classification of Mississippi as an emergency poverty area and urged "immediate federal action to provide minimum health and welfare services."

Girl Went Too Far In Airline Campaign

LONDON (Reuters) — The British Overseas Airways Corp. has withdrawn an advertisement in Africa over a complaint here that it was pornographic.

The airline used the advertisement in African newspapers to promote traffic to Europe. It showed a long-haired English girl looking over her shoulder with the caption: "Would you like to get off with me?" It adds: "But I have to get on again because I'm the stewardess."

Conservative MP Sir Cyril Osborne has described it as pornographic and said he would complain to the trade department.

A BOAC spokesman said Friday: "Our chairman (Sir Giles Guthrie) has considered this advertisement and thinks it was effective and perfectly proper. It appears, however, that it has offended a few people and he has decided to discontinue it."

KEY CITY CAPTURED BY NIGERIA TROOPS

LAGOS (Reuters)—Federal Nigerian troops have captured the key eastern university city of Nsukka, 41 miles north of the breakaway capital of Enugu, military headquarters announced today.

Eastern forces of secessionist leader Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu were retreating southward from the city in dissarray, an army statement said.

HEAVY TOLL

Cong Rockets Cripple Base

DA NANG, South Vietnam (CP)—The huge U.S. air base at Da Nang was reeling today from a Viet Cong rocket attack that left eight Americans dead, 173 wounded and 42 airplanes wrecked or crippled.

It was the worst punishment inflicted on the U.S. base which has been hit twice before in the last five months.

The base on the South Vitnam's northern sea coast, launching pad for many of the bombing raids on North Vietnam, was shut down immediately after the attack.

Crews went out to repair one badly cratered 10,000-foot runway and sweep debris off of another.

The Viet Cong fired for 45 minutes early today from two positions 4.3 miles southwest of the huge base.

BARRACKS WRECKED

The attack also wrecked for air force barracks.

U.S. officers identified the rockets as 122-millimetre and of Russian origin. They had said earlier that some of the rockets were 140-millimetre but later reports showed only the smaller were fired.

TOLL MOUNTS

A huge fireball rose over the base and the whole sky turned fiery red as rockets hit ammunition and gasoline dumps and aircraft.

These in turn caused chain explosions to spread along the airield as flaming metal was flung into other aircraft and concussion set off bomb stores.

One rocket went through the roof of an air force barracks before exploding among the sleeping troops and two more of the wooden-frame barracks on either side caught fire and burned to the ground.

WIRE BRIEFS

Willing to Resign

Plane Found, 2 Safe

WINNIPEG (CP)—A single-engined aircraft which ran out of fuel when the pilot became lost was found today on Robert's Lake about 125 miles northeast of here. The RCAF said pilot Elvin Rampton and his woman passenger were not hurt.

Hong Kong Bombing

HONG KONG (UPI)—A dynamite bomb believed planted by terrorists shattered a door and smashed windows in the married quarters barracks of Royal Navy enlisted men Saturday night.

Rail Strike Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A local chairman of the Machinists' Union said in Spokane, Wash., today a strike against six western U.S. railways has been ordered for 6 a.m. Sunday. (See page 42)

Surveyor on Course

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Scientists said today the flight of Surveyor IV, hurtling toward a Sunday night landing on the moon, appeared to be the most accurate launch to date.

Newark Looters Busy

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Looters were back in action today and sporadic gunfire crackled down rain-spattered streets as a frightened city, torn by racial rebellion, braced for more Negro rioting after three terrible nights of violence.

The death toll officially was counted at 14, including one white policeman gunned down by a sniper as he chased looters Friday.

In the Friday rioting, from midnight to midnight, the toll was 11, including two boys, 10 and 16 years old.

City Hospital said 13 Negroes died in its wards, 12 from gunshot wounds, and the other of a skull fracture in a riot-connected auto crash. Originally, the hospital said the victims there totalled 15.

A night-long curfew was broken by frequent gunfire, from snipers, harassing patrols and from police and guardsmen blasting with rifles and shotguns.

One skirmish was halted by the arrival of armored national guard vehicles after 15 minutes of firing had kept soldiers huddled for safety in store doorways.

EXCHANGE SHOTS

In one 30-minute period just before the curfew expired at dawn, state police exchanged fire with rooftop snipers in three separate incidents.

As daylight came, police still chased looters.

But with the end of the curfew at 6 a.m., traffic began flowing again. All cars had been routed around the Springfield Avenue section because of sporadic sniping.

Showers didn't seem to bother looters who, disregarding police, sneaked back again into already wrecked stores to search out more salvageable merchandise.

Plane Kills Claimed In Mideast Dogfight

(Times News Services)

Israel and Egypt resumed air and ground fighting along the Suez Canal today and Jordan reported a brief exchange of gunfire between Jordanian and Israeli forces along the River Jordan.

Israel claimed its forces had shot down five Soviet-built MiG-21s of the Egyptian air force, four of them in dogfights and one by anti-aircraft fire. Israel admitted losing one plane—to anti-aircraft fire.

Egypt said its forces had downed three Israeli planes. It said all its aircraft had returned safely to their bases.

An Israeli spokesman said three Egyptian MiG-21 jet fighters were shot down in dogfights along the Suez Canal ceasefire line as the two sides renewed artillery duels after a day of sharp fighting Friday in which 33 persons were killed and 58 wounded.

An Egyptian military spokesman quoted by Cairo radio said two of the Israeli aircraft were shot down over Lake Bardawil while the third was downed over the Suez area.

UN observers were en route to the canal area to observe and report on compliance with the UN ceasefire that ended the six-day Middle East war June 10. Fighting has broken out in the area three weekends in a row.

COMPLAINT FILED

In Amman, a Jordanian military communique said firefights between Jordanian and Israeli troops broke out near the Damyia Bridge in the northern part of the Jordan Valley. It said Jordan had filed a complaint with the UN Security Council in New York.

The communique claimed the Israelis opened fire on a Jordanian patrol and that the patrol fired back, inflicting some casualties on the Israelis. It added that the Israelis reinforced their positions and fired twice more at the Jordanians. There were no casualties among the Jordanians, the communique said.

The new clashes along the Suez Canal ranged from Port Toufiq on the southern tip of the waterway to the Great Bitter Lake and a railway bridge at Firdan, north of Ismailia, about midway up the canal, an Israeli Army communique said.

GIVE RESCUE COVER

Israel launched similar air attacks Friday to allow it to evacuate dead and wounded soldiers, it said, after other methods failed to silence the Egyptian artillery.

It said seven Israeli soldiers were killed and more than 22 wounded by Egyptian artillery, mortars and tanks on the canal's west bank.

Egypt said at least 26 Egyptians, including civilians, were killed and 36 wounded by Israeli shelling all along the canal. It accused Israel of "wanton aggression."

The flare-up was the longest of 13 clashes since the end of the June 5-10 Arab-Israeli war, in which Israeli troops captured the canal's east bank.

Search Plane Missing

VANCOUVER (CP)—At least 20 aircraft were searching today for two light planes in mountainous country between Vancouver and the Okanagan. The first plane, carrying lumberman Dennis Foucher, 34, of Haney, disappeared last Saturday on a 150-mile flight from Okanagan Falls to Vancouver. On Friday, a search plane piloted by Raymond Saunders of Merritt, failed to return after setting out to scan the Manning Park area.

COUNCIL STANDS BY TO ACT ON BATTLE

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Security Council members today stood by for a possible weekend meeting following new clashes in the Suez Canal zone. (See story Page 2.)

The fighting on Friday, along with new action reported today, acted as a spur to United Nations efforts to force Israel to withdraw its troops from Arab territory.

Israel was on notice, for a second time, to give up control of the Old City of Jerusalem which it seized from Jordan in last month's fighting and now has absorbed through spe- legislation enacted by parliament.

Ninety-nine member states, including Canada, voted Friday night for a General Assembly resolution sponsored by Pakistan deploring the Israeli action and calling for its annulment.

LEAVES FOR CANADA

De Gaulle to Boost Separatism Drive?

PARIS (AP) — Informed sources have described President de Gaulle's trip to Canada, which he started today from Brest, France, as a mission to encourage French-Canadian separatism.

De Gaulle and his advisers believe the Quebec separatist movement will result in autonomy within the next decade and want France to profit by it, the informants said.

They added that the French president, therefore, will stress the cultural and historical bonds between Quebec and the "mother country," hoping to pull French Canada farther away from the federal government in Ottawa and toward Paris.

NATURAL MOVE

They made a point of saying, however, that the separatist movement began on its own and would have led naturally to France, with or without de Gaulle.

In Brest, the president boarded the 8,270-ton cruiser Colbert, flagship of France's Mediterranean fleet, for the five-day trans-Atlantic crossing.

NINE-STOREY DEATH PLUNGE

Her name was withheld.

Police said they found the nude body of a woman, about 30 years old, in a parking lot.

A 38-year-old man was being questioned in connection with the death.

'Turning Point for Young Nation'

MONTREAL — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia described Expo 67 today as the turning point for a young nation which needed to convince itself that it possessed "all the qualities of greatness."

Speaking at an open-air ceremony at Place des Nations as the world's fair marked British Columbia Day, the premier said:

"In one giant stroke here, on these magic islands in the St. Lawrence River, the people of Canada have proved to themselves that no task set for himself by man and his world is a task beyond the capacity of Canadians to carry it out."

Mr. Bennett spoke after the raising of the B.C. flag and after he and Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes were welcomed to Expo by Pierre Dupuy, commissioner-general of the world's fair.

About 1,500 Expo visitors, a majority of them apparently from B.C., turned out for the ceremony under a warm, summer sun and burst forth with cheers and applause as Mr. Bennett spoke.

After the ceremony, Gen. Pearkes and Mr. Bennett proceeded to the centre of Place des Nations and exchanged handshakes and greetings with numerous visitors from B.C. The party then proceeded to tour the pavilion of the Western Provinces.

During his address Mr. Bennett told the crowd at Place des Nations Expo's greatest contribution has been to demonstrate to Canadians "not just to the world but once and for all to ourselves—that there is in our nation an unlimited capacity for excellence."

He said Canada has accomplished great goals through its first 100 years as a nation but there has always been an undercurrent of feeling "that our progress was made under

Trip Around the World Might Develop for You

By TED GASKELL

And if you don't click for the globe-girdling, then there are four other exotic trips you can take aim at.

The contest, which opens July 22 and ends Sept. 2, is for black and white snapshots taken since July 1 last year.

There are three categories: The World in Which We live; People of the World, and Birds and Animals of the World.

Each week of the contest The Times will give a $10 prize in each category and at the end of the contest give a $25 prize for the best over-all picture in each category.

The major winners will be eligible for the national competition for travel and cash prizes.

First prize is a 30-day trip around the world for two plus $1,000 in spending money.

Second prize, 21 days in Europe for two with $500. Third prize is a 14-day trip to Mexico for two with $250. Fourth prize is a week in Hawaii for two with $100, and for fifth-prize winner, a seven-day trip to Mexico for two with $100.

For the first time this year there are special prizes for Canadians.

Seven special $100 merit awards are offered for pictures which did not win in the major categories. And for the Canadian best-of-show there is a $200 prize.

Just send in your snapshot but keep the negative. You may make your own prints or have them processed professionally but none should be more than 10 inches on the largest dimension.

A complete set of rules will be found on Page 18 of today's Times.

Read them, then take a look through last year's album or dust off your lens for new pictures.

Don't make any snap decisions.

PORT HASTINGS, N.S.—Queen Mother Elizabeth waved to cheering crowds as the royal yacht Britannia docked on schedule today after an overnight trip from Halifax.

The Queen Mother, dressed in a green silk organza dress with matching coat and hat, appeared on the yacht's sun deck with Prime Minister and Mrs. Pearson shortly before the vessel tied up at this Cape Breton community.

The Queen Mother and the Pearsons disembarked for a 35-mile journey by car to the Highland Games at Antigonish.

The Queen Mother officially opened the Sir Charles Tupper medical buidling on the Dalhousie University campus in Halifax Friday, and was awarded an honorary doctorate of laws at a special university convocation.

JACKIE
... back to Ireland?

She was believed bound for Ireland, where her two children have been vacationing.

She had been expected to visit several jet-set friends in Italy before returning to Ireland.

A meeting with the Pope had been considered likely but Vatican sources said she was not on Saturday's crowded list of audiences.

Mrs. Kennedy did not leave her villa during her four first four days there. She went out twice Friday, first for a tour of two nearby villas and then to visit two art exhibitions in the city of Lucca.

ORLAND, Calif. — An Orland family owns a homing pigeon so faithful that when he couldn't fly home he walked. Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Larsen said that a thief stole more than 20 of their birds two weeks ago. Several returned by air, they said.

But Homer waddled through the front gate. When they examined the bird, they discovered his wings had been clipped.

MONTREAL — Expo 67 could have been the exotic setting for an Alfred Hitchcock thriller Friday.

One of the movie director's favorite former stars, Grace Kelly, moved throught the crowds on the arm of a suave-looking man in dark glasses.

But it's more than a decade since Grace faced a Hitchcock camera and the former Philadelphia society girl was at the big fair in her capacity as Princess Grace of Monaco.

The gentleman in dark glasses was her husband, Prince Rainier, of the tiny Mediterranean principality. They will be in Victoria July 23.

BOSTON — An eight-pound, seven-ounce son was born Friday to Mrs. Joan Kennedy, wife of Senator Edward Kennedy. The Kennedys have two other children. The child is the 26th grandchild of former ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy.

OTTAWA — Level crossing accidents causing death or injury increased for the second successive year in 1966. reaching the highest total since 1959, the board of transport commissioners reported Friday.

In the years 1956-59 the totals were 598, 516, and 546 while in the last three years figures were 433, 452 and 478.

'Risk of War Would Be Too Great'

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant said Friday that he never has recommended withdrawal of the United Nations Emergency Force from Egypt in his annual reports on the force because the risk of war following would be "much too great."

He made that observation in a report to the General Assembly giving details of the recent withdrawal of the force, which he ordered because Egypt withdrew consent for stationing it on Egyptian soil.

War broke out between Israel and neighboring Arab countries June 5 while the UN troops were being withdrawn and went on for five days before the Security Council got a ceasefire that left the Israelis in occupation of much territory of Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

Thant did not repeat his previous arguments that he had to withdraw the force because under an agreement between the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and Egypt, it could stay there only with the Egyptian government's consent.

Neither did he repeat his contention that the war was the result not of the withdrawal but of long-standing bad blood between the parties.

WAR FOLLOWED QUICKLY

Instead, he mentioned "the sudden outbreak of war in the Near East, the severe crisis in the United Nations and the disastrous shattering of peace in the area which soon followed the withdrawal of UNEF"—the initials by which the force is known.

"What would probably happen whenever UNEF might be withdrawn had been pointed out by the secretary-general in his reports on UNEF in preceding years," Thant said.

"This likelihood was why, despite increasing difficulties of financing the force and his belief that no United Nations peacekeeping operation would become relatively permanent, the secretary-general never recommended the termination of UNEF or even its conversion into a large-scale observation operation.

Thant said recent experience "points up the desirability of having all conditions relating to the presence and with withdrawal of a peacekeeping operation clearly defined in advance of its entry onto the territory of a host country."

But in most instances, he added, it is likely that a UN force will be needed so urgently in a particular area that "time cannot be taken to negotiate agreements on detailed conditions in advance of the entry."

UN Force Was Attacked By Israelis, Thant Says

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) United Nations Secretary-General U Thant reported Friday that Israeli troops attacked the UN Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip shortly after the Middle East war broke out last month and looted its headquarters.

Israeli planes, tanks and machine-guns fired on an Indian supply convoy killing five Indian soldiers, and a Swedish and Indian group came under fire from both Egyptian and Israeli sides, he said.

Thant gave details of the alleged incidents in a report to the General Assembly on the winding up of the peacekeeping force, whose withdrawal, he said, provided the important lesson that "the United Nations should be strengthened so as better to serve the cause of world peace."

Canada had more than 700 men in the force, but they were withdrawn before the outbreak of the war.

Thant said when Israeli forces arrived at Rafah in the Gaza Strip an Israeli officer ordered the UN international and military staff, who had identified themselves as such, to lie on the ground.

The hospital commander finally got blankets to the UNEF group, "who were forced to spend the night on the sand in the open without food or water."

Thant said that vehicles, radios, tape recorders and clocks were missing after Israeli troops occupied the UNEF headquarters, and most of the office furniture, typewriters, fans and other property were removed by Israeli military personnel.

The report was expected to make a powerful impact on UN delegates still debating in the General Assembly how to deal with the Middle East crisis.

. . . RIOTS

Two of Newark's major department stores, Bamberger's and Ohrbach's, did not open. Many other stores followed suit. Liquor stores and taprooms have been closed since Thursday.

Springfield Avenue, the main street in the Central Ward where the riot erupted Wednesday night, was quiet and nearly deserted. An eight-hour curfew ended at 6 a.m.

One of the few Negroes on Springfield was a little girl who was painting the words "Soul Sister" in white paint on the still unbroken glass of a beauty shop. The word "soul" has special significance for the neighborhood people, indicating Negro ownership. Cars that were unscarred bore the words "Soul Brother" chalked on windshields.

HURLED ROCKS

The city's 1,400 policemen, split into two 12-hour shifts, arrested more than 1,000 adults and juveniles.

Governor Richard J. Hughes remained in the ravaged city, ready to augment the 2,600 guardsmen with more men and more state troopers to quell what he called "a criminal insurrection."

Hughes said he was determined to restore law and order to Newark.

Negro guardsmen and Negro police stood eyeball to eyeball with the Negro rioters, and their supporters said "they're doing an excellent job—a hell of a job."

RIOTS FLARE UP

It reached a violent crescendo on a humid Friday night, as the darkness was pierced by gun flashes, searchlights and the flickering flames of buildings put to the torch by rioters.

About 4,000 helmeted police with riot guns and guardsmen with bayonets cordoned off the Negro riot centre, west of Newark's downtown business centre.

The quarantined area was widened when snipers and looters appeared outside the armed ring.

With the curfew a directive over the police radio: "Use your shotguns and revolvers. Use your shotguns and revolvers. That's what you have them for."

Acrid smoke still curled above the wreckage of Negro - area buildings, after the arrest of a Negro taxicab driver touched off the rioting Wednesday night.

Hughes declared the city a civil disaster area, enabling him to clamp on the curfew and shut off the sale and use of liquor.

Broken windows, burned buildings, looted shops, closed businesses added up to uncounted millions of dollars lost. No one in authority tried to total up the damage.

TOSS MOLASSES BOMBS

Negro youths in the Newark riot sector told reporters that Black Muslims took part in the violence and "they mix lye with molasses—and when they throw it at the cops, it sticks."

However, Hughes said there was no evidence that outside agitators were a factor in the rioting. He was inclined to blame it on what he called the "harping" of local civil rights leaders.

Among those arrested was anti - white Negro playwright LeRoi Jones. He was treated at a hospital Friday for riot injuries and later arrested and charged with having two loaded guns in his possession. He was held in $25,000 bail.

Among those who lost their lives in the rioting was a 10-year-old Negro boy, shot in the head. The white police victim was detective Fred Toto, 39, who was cited in 1964 for saving a youngster from drowning. The father of three, he caught a sniper's bullet near the heart.

Race Riots Explode In Hartford

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Six youths were arrested Friday night in the racially tens North End as police braced to avoid a third night of brick, rock and bottle-tossing.

The six were riding in a car in which a .25-calibre pistol was found, police said. They were to be booked on weapons charges.

Earlier Friday, Mayor George Kinsella declared a state of emergency in the area and urged parents to impose a voluntary curfew. "Our immediate aim is to restore law and order," the mayor said.

Kinsella declared the tenement section north of the city's business district in a state of emergency after youthful gangs rampaged through it Thursday night and 23 were arrested.

Police Chief John Kerrigan said Friday 11 of his men had been injured in the violence, one of whom, patrolman Edward Lachmayer, was knocked from his motorcycle by a bottle hurled from the darkness.

One patrolman suffered a possible heart attack and another required 18 stitches for a facial laceration as two stores and a service station were fire-bombed. Store windows were shattered sporadically.

Stay Ordered

COQUITLAM (CP)—A stay of proceedings was entered Friday on a murder charge against a 15-year-old boy in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Anna Whitby of Coquitlam last July. Mrs. Whitby, 34, was raped and strangled in a dead-end lane here.

Plan Tshombe Trial

CAIRO (AP)—Algeria is considering forming a "revolutionary tribunal" of Africans, Asians and Latin Americans to try former Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe as a "liberation" war criminal the Cairo newspaper Al Ahram says. Tshombe's plane was hijacked to Algeria June 30.

Labor Feud Talks Scheduled

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bid to resolve a dispute between the British Columbia Federation of Labor and four locals of the International Woodworkers of America will be made later this month.

Ray Haynes, federation secretary, said Wednesday a vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, will attend a Vancouver meeting on the feud.

The four IWA locals—Vancouver, Victoria, Duncan and the lumber inspectors—were suspended by the federation for refusing to publicly apologize for a scathing attack on CLC executive vice-president Joe Morris.

Mr. Haynes said a date for the session has not been set.

The IWA has threatened that unless the federation revokes the suspensions, the entire 30,000 members of the IWA in B.C. will withdraw from the federation.

"We looked at our powerful neighbors, whose development began before our own, and we felt that alongside their accomplishments our own were small indeed.

"But Expo 67 has changed all that.

"In years to come this time and place will be marked as the turning point for a young nation which needed to convince, not the world but only itself, that it possessed within itself all the qualities of greatness."

Also in the B.C. party were Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Pearkes, Mayor Tom Campbell of Vancouver, Mayor J. Palyga of Trail, T. L. Sturgess, former deputy minister of industrial development and trade and commerce, and L. J. Wallace, deputy provincial secretary.

Throughout today B.C. will provide entertainment in the Place des Nations including special bands from the province.

Five Projects Keep Planners On the Jump

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Saanich planners are busy this summer on five projects, including a major light industrial zone for the residential suburb.

Other tasks being tackled include:

- A general development plan for the burgeoning McKenzie-Quadra area in the Lake Hill district;
- Changes to the Shelbourne Centre plan;
- Zoning parks as parks;
- The near-$1 million senior citizens and low rental plan.

The light industrial zone, under consideration for some time, would take shape in the Royal Oak district where Eaton's is to build a $300,000 warehouse and retail store.

Municipal planner Tom Loney said Saanich is looking at a large area within which this zone would exist but work has not progressed to the point where it could be said how big the industrial zone will be.

The Eaton's development, opposed by local residents because of access onto Raymond Street, is southwest of Royal Oak Avenue and Patricia Bay Highway.

The first stage of a light industrial zone will likely be an expansion of the commercial area south of the Eaton's building.

Mr. Loney said planners don't want to see Raymond Street become a major entrance to the light industrial zone.

"It has to be Patricia Bay with proper access," he said.

"We know what type of approach the highways department will accept. We will propose an access point they will accept in principle."

Industrial Estate Possible

He also sfiai that if research shows it is feasible, it could be recommended that the municipality itself acquire and operate the area as an industrial estate. This has been done in many other places.

While Saanich's population has soared 20 per cent in recent years to a point where more people live there than in Victoria, the amount of commercial and industrial development has maintained a static relationship.

The assessed value of land and improvements is $121.9 million, only five per cent of which is commercial or industrial.

Municipal assessor Jack Lindsay says this level of five per cent has remained steady for years.

Mr. Loney anticipated the plan will be ready for council or committee consideration by the fall.

The McKenzie-Quadra plan is expected to be ready for consideration next month. This area has seen recent growth with a florist's store, liquor store—the first in Saanich—the new Reynolds Road school and the B.C. Telephone building.

The provincial government's motor vehicle testing station is expected to be in operation within a year at Cedar Hill-Borden-McKenzie. McKenzie Avenue will become a major east-west road from Patricia Bay to the University of Victoria.

The Shelbourne Centre Plan for the Cedar Hill-Shelbourne district was aimed mainly at creating an area where apartments could be developed. It was made public earlier this year but Mr. Loney said no major revisions are being made and it would possibly be ready for further consideration next month.

Parks Zoned 'Residential'

There are nearly 50 municipal parks in Saanich but they are not zoned as such. Most of them carry residential zoning. Planners are working out proposals to zone parks as parks. This should be ready for consideration in the fall.

An assault on accommodation problems of the elderly and the poor is progressing. The nearly $1 million cost will be carried entirely by the federal and provincial governments.

Plans consist of construction of a small apartment for senior citizens of 23 single and six double units plus acquisition of 50 older homes in different locations which would be rented at economic rates to families living in run-down houses.

The houses would be in the $11,000 to $16,000 price range, or a project worth about $650,000.

The proposal is to buy 25 two-bedroom, 20 three-bedroom and five four-bedroom houses in a unique scheme aimed at avoiding clustered low-income groups in one place.

Municipal planners are working on the senior citizens proposal and hope to make a final submission for Ottawa officials by the end of next week.

Some houses have also been looked at with a view to acquisition, said Mr. Loney.

When this is out of the way, planners will turn their attention to a suggestion that Saanich buy tracts of land, then sell them to builders with covenants specifying design and other features for apartments.

The planning department has just completed a major project with suggested amendments and comments on a proposed new animals bylaw made public last February.

This will be considered at a special lands and planning committee meeting, open to the public, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the municipal hall on Vernon Avenue.

North Korean Guerrillas Launch Raids

One took place about 60 miles northeast of Seoul July 1 a few hours after President Chung Hee Park was sworn in for his second four-year term.

Seven South Koreans, including two officers, were killed when a group of more than 10 North Koreans threw hand grenades and fired sub - machine-guns.

Nearly 50 South Korean soldiers have been killed since January in gunfights with intruders.

FARMER SLAIN

In other incidents, North Koreans in farmers' garb killed a South Korean farmer in a village more than 100 miles south of the armistice border, and looted a farmhouse for food and other items.

The director of South Korean intelligence warned that North Korea has switched from espionage work to guerrilla warfare in its harassment campaign against South Korea.

Korean intelligence figures say 113 North Korean infiltrators were either killed or captured between April and June.

In the first 10 days of July, 31 North Koreans were killed or captured. These compare with 106 killed or captured in all of 1966 and 107 in 1965.

CAMPAIGN against any national Liberal leadership candidate wanting to implement Carter Commission taxation changes has been pledged by Saskatchewan's Liberal Premier Ross Thatcher, who strongly opposes the Carter recommendations.

Colwood Pool For All Ages

Swimming instruction for persons of all ages will be offered at Colwood's new centennial swimming pool.

Manager Alfred Aylward, an ex-Navy chief petty officer, already has a program prepared to fill the pool from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily although the pool is still eight weeks away from completion.

Sooke school board has booked it for an hour daily and Mr. Aylward hopes to inaugurate regular school swim competitions.

Mr. Aylward formerly taught physical and recreational training at Royal Roads and was admitted as a Serving Brother in the Order of St. John in 1964 for his work with handicapped children.

He plans to hold classes for handicapped and retarded children this winter. Lifesaving instruction will also be part of the program.

The pool will also be available for hire to private groups.

U.S. Seeks to Avoid Bombing Russ Ships

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States has promised the Soviet Union it will take "extraordinary measures to minimize damage" to Soviet ships in the Viet-nam war zone.

The U.S. embassy said today it delivered a note to the Soviet foreign ministry Thursday acknowledging the possibility that some U.S. fire aimed at Haiphong installations had accidentally hit the Soviet ship Mikhail Frunze June 29.

The note added, however, that "the risk of unintentional damage to vessels in the area of hostilities cannot be completely iliminated."

The U.S. note was in reply to a protest filed by the Soviets June 30 demanding "effective guarantees that similar attacks" would not occur. The protest also demanded "strict punishment" for the pilots.

The Frunze charge was the second within a month. In June, the Soviets charged that U.S. planes intentionally attacked the Soviet ship Turkestan off North Vietnam. The Russians said one sailor was killed.

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS MARCH

Chinese Jeer Own President

PEKING (Reuters) — Hundreds of thousands of persons took to the streets of Peking Friday in a new wave of condemnation of President Liu Shao-chi.

Steaming through the Chinese capital in disciplined ranks, they carried banners and portraits of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and cartoons ridiculing Liu.

The demonstration was the first of its kind since April when the Maoist leadership branded Liu "the top party person in authority taking the capitalist road" and the leader of the oppostion to Mao.

The reasons for the new campaign were not immediately clear, but the demonstrations coincided with an editorial in the party newspaper People's Daily which said a handful of persons in the party are trying to exploit recent disorder connected with Mao's "cultural revolution" to make a counter-attack against the proletariat and facilitate their comeback. The paper referred to the disorder as "anarchy."

COMEBACK HINTED

Some slogans on walls in the capital in black Chinese characters four feet high spoke of an attempted comeback by Liu.

A pro-Liu counter-attack may have been suggested by Maoists to provide a new focus for a unity drive in their own ranks after weeks of disorders and infighting.

Liu has not appeared in public since a rally in November, and although the party's top theoretical journal Red Flag this month said he had been "overthrown," his formal ousting from his post of head of state and the naming of a successor still has to be announced.

Under the Chinese constitution, these acts would require a decision by the National People's Congress, and there were no signs that a meeting of this body was being planned.

KIESINGER BACKPEDALS ON DEFENCE BUDGET

BONN (AP)—Backpedalling from a statement he made last week, Chancellor Kurt Kiesinger announced Friday night that defence expenditures for 1968 are due to rise 1.1 per cent. Last week the chancellor said the 1968 defence budget would be cut by $500,000,000 in 1968, a statement that was unfavorably received in Washington.

'Rebellion' Riots Kill Total of 14

Newark Looters Busy

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Looters were back in action today and sporadic gunfire crackled down rain-spattered streets as a frightened city, torn by racial rebellion, braced for more Negro rioting after three terrible nights of violence.

The death toll officially was counted at 14, including one white policeman gunned down by a sniper as he chased looters Friday.

In the Friday rioting, from midnight to midnight, the toll was 11, including two boys, 10 and 16 years old.

City Hospital said 13 Negroes died in its wards, 12 from gunshot wounds, and the other of a skull fracture in a riot-connected auto crash.

A night-long curfew was broken by frequent gunfire, from snipers, harassing patrols and from police and guardsmen blasting with rifles and shotguns.

One skirmish was halted by the arrival of armored national guard vehicles after 15 minutes of firing had kept soldiers huddled for safety in store doorways.

EXCHANGE SHOTS

In one 30-minute period just before the curfew expired at dawn, state police exchanged fire with rooftop snipers in three separate incidents.

As daylight came, police still chased looters.

But with the end of the curfew at 6 a.m., traffic began flowing again. All cars had been routed around the Springfield Avenue section because of sporadic sniping.

Showers didn't seem to bother looters who, disregarding police, sneaked back again into already wrecked stores to search out more salvageable merchandise.

KEY CITY CAPTURED BY NIGERIA TROOPS

LAGOS (Reuters)—Federal Nigerian troops have captured the key eastern university city of Nsukka, 41 miles north of the breakaway capital of Enugu, military headquarters announced today.

Eastern forces of secessionist leader Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu were retreating southward from the city in dissarray, an army statement said.

HEAVY TOLL

Cong Rockets Cripple Base

DA NANG, South Vietnam (CP)—The huge U.S. air base at Da Nang was reeling today from a Viet Cong rocket attack that left eight Americans dead, 173 wounded and 42 airplanes wrecked or crippled.

It was the worst punishment inflicted on the U.S. base which has been hit twice before in the last five months.

The base on the South Vietnam's northern sea coast, launching pad for many of the bombing raids on North Vietnam, was shut down immediately after the attack.

Crews went out to repair one badly cratered 10,000-foot runway and sweep debris off of another.

BARRACKS WRECKED

The attack also wrecked four air force barracks.

U.S. officers identified the rockets as 122-millimetre and of Russian origin. They had said earlier that some of the rockets were 140-millimetre but later reports showed only the smaller were fired.

TOLL MOUNTS

A huge fireball rose over the base and the whole sky turned fiery red as rockets hit ammunition and gasoline dumps and aircraft.

These in turn caused chain explosions to spread along the airield as flaming metal was flung into other aircraft and concussion set off bomb stores.

One rocket went through the roof of an air force barracks before exploding among the sleeping troops and two more of the wooden-frame barracks on either side caught fire and burned to the ground.

Plane Kills Claimed In Mideast Dogfight

(Times News Services)

Israel and Egypt resumed air and ground fighting along the Suez Canal today and Jordan reported a brief exchange of gunfire between Jordanian and Israeli forces along the River Jordan.

Israel claimed its forces had shot down five Soviet-built MiG-21s of the Egyptian air force, four of them in dogfights and one by anti-aircraft fire. Israel admitted losing one plane—to anti-aircraft fire.

Egypt said its forces had downed three Israeli planes. It said all its aircraft had returned safely to their bases.

An Israeli spokesman said three Egyptian MiG-21 jet fighters were shot down in dogfights along the Suez Canal ceasefire line as the two sides renewed artillery duels after a day of sharp fighting Friday in which 33 persons were killed and 58 wounded.

An Egyptian military spokesman quoted by Cairo radio said two of the Israeli aircraft were shot down over Lake Bardawil while the third was downed over the Suez area.

UN observers were en route to the canal area to observe and report on compliance with the UN ceasefire that ended the six-day Middle East war June 10. Fighting has broken out in the area three weekends in a row.

In Amman, a Jordanian military communique said gunfight between Jordanian and Israeli troops broke out near the Damyia Bridge in the northern part of the Jordan Valley. It said Jordan had filed a complaint with the UN Security Council in New York.

The communique claimed the Israelis opened fire on a Jordanian patrol and that the patrol fired back, inflicting some casualties on the Israelis. It added that the Israelis reinforced their positions and fired twice more at the Jordanians. There were no casualties among the Jordanians, the communique said.

The new clashes along the Suez Canal ranged from Port Toufiq on the southern tip of the waterway to the Great Bitter Lake and a railway bridge at Firdan, north of Ismailia, about midway up the canal, an Israeli Army communique said.

Israel launched similar air attacks Friday to allow it to evacuate dead and wounded soldiers, it said, after other methods failed to silence the Egyptian artillery.

It said seven Israeli soldiers were killed and more than 22 wounded by Egyptian artillery, mortars and tanks on the canal's west bank.

Egypt said at least 26 Egyptians, including civilians, were killed and 36 wounded by Israeli shelling all along the canal. It accused Israel of "wanton aggression."

The flare-up was the longest of 13 clashes since the end of the June 5-10 Arab-Israeli war, in which Israeli troops captured the canal's east bank.

ISRAEL ASKS CEASEFIRE

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Israel asked today for United Nations intervention with Egypt to obtain an immediate and total ceasefire in the Suez Canal sector.

The Israeli delegate, Gideon Rafael, requested UN Secretary-General U Thant to instruct the UN chief of staff in the Middle East, Lt.-Gen. Odd Bull, to make the formal approach to Cairo.

COUNCIL STANDS BY TO ACT ON BATTLE

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Security Council members today stood by for a possible weekend meeting following new clashes in the Suez Canal zone. (See story Page 2.)

The fighting on Friday, along with new action reported today, acted as a spur to United Nations efforts to force Israel to withdraw its troops from Arab territory.

Israel was on notice, for a second time, to give up control of the Old City of Jerusalem which it seized from Jordan in last month's fighting and now has absorbed through legislation enacted by parliament.

Ninety-nine member states, including Canada, voted Friday night for a General Assembly resolution sponsored by Pakistan deploring the Israeli action and calling for its annulment.

LEAVES FOR CANADA

De Gaulle to Boost Separatism Drive?

PARIS (AP) — Informed sources have described President de Gaulle's trip to Canada, which he started today from Brest, France, as a mission to encourage French-Canadian separatism.

De Gaulle and his advisers believe the Quebec separatist movement will result in autonomy within the next decade and want France to profit by it, the informants said.

They added that the French president, therefore, will stress the cultural and historical bonds between Quebec and the "mother country," hoping to pull French Canada farther away from the federal government in Ottawa and toward Paris.

NATURAL MOVE

They made a point of saying, however, that the separatist movement began on its own and would have led naturally to France, with or without de Gaulle.

In Brest, the president boarded the 8,270-ton cruiser Colbert, flagship of France's Mediterranean fleet, for the five-day trans-Atlantic crossing.

NINE-STOREY DEATH PLUNGE

Her name was withheld.

Police said they found the nude body of a woman, about 30 years old, in a parking lot.

A 38-year-old man was being questioned in connection with the death.

'Turning Point for Young Nation'

MONTREAL — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia described Expo 67 today as the turning point for a young nation which needed to convince itself that it possessed "all the qualities of greatness."

Speaking at an open-air ceremony at Place des Nations as the world's fair marked British Columbia Day, the premier said:

"In one giant stroke here, on these magic islands in the St. Lawrence River, the people of Canada have proved to themselves that no task set for himself by man and his world is a task beyond the capacity of Canadians to carry it out."

Mr. Bennett spoke after the raising of the B.C. flag and after he and Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes were welcomed to Expo by Pierre Dupuy, commissioner-general of the world's fair.

About 1,500 Expo visitors, a majority of them apparently from B.C., turned out for the ceremony under a warm, summer sun and burst forth with cheers and applause as Mr. Bennett spoke.

After the ceremony, Gen. Pearkes and Mr. Bennett proceeded to the centre of Place des Nations and exchanged handshakes and greetings with numerous visitors from B.C. The party then proceeded to tour the pavilion of the Western Provinces.

During his address Mr. Bennett told the crowd at Place des Nations Expo's greatest contribution has been to demonstrate to Canadians "not just to the world but once and for all to ourselves—that there is in our nation an unlimited capacity for excellence."

He said Canada has accomplished great goals through its first 100 years as a nation but there has always been an undercurrent of feeling "that our progress was made under

Trip Around the World Might Develop for You

By TED GASKELL

And if you don't click for the globe-girdling, then there are four other exotic trips you can take aim at.

The contest, which opens July 22 and ends Sept. 2, is for black and white snapshots taken since July 1 last year.

There are three categories: The World in Which We live; People of the World, and Birds and Animals of the World.

Each week of the contest The Times will give a $10 prize in each category and at the end of the contest give a $25 prize for the best over-all picture in each category.

The major winners will be eligible for the national competition for travel and cash prizes.

First prize is a 30-day trip around the world for two plus $1,000 in spending money.

Second prize, 21 days in Europe for two with $500. Third prize is a 14-day trip to Mexico for two with $250. Fourth prize is a week in Hawaii for two with $100, and for fifth-prize winner, a seven-day trip to Mexico for two with $100.

For the first time this year there are special prizes for Canadians.

Seven special $100 merit awards are offered for pictures which did not win in the major categories. And for the Canadian best-of-show there is a $200 prize.

Just send in your snapshot but keep the negative. You may make your own prints or have them processed professionally but none should be more than 10 inches on the largest dimension.

A complete set of rules will be found on Page 18 of today's Times.

Read them, then take a look through last year's album or dust off your lens for new pictures.

50-Center Is Often Best

By JACK BEASTALL

Jack

A sprinkler is supposed to be a piece of equipment tat distributes water evenly over a given area.

All sprinklers distribute water, but few distribute it evenly, and it is rather contradictory to find that the most efficient sprinklers are often the cheapest.

Many a 50-cent sprinkler with no moving parts spreads water more evenly that a $15 collection of dials, chrome tubing and streamlined eye-appeal.

The evenness of water distribution is of considerable importance to the home gardener because the size of the home garden does not permit a different position for the sprinkler at each watering.

In most gardens there is just one place where the sprinkler can be placed to water without drowning the neighbors or the passers by, and it is placed in that position week after week through the watering season.

If the sprinkler does not spread the water evenly, a portion of the area gets well saturated while the rest gradually becomes drier and drier as the season progresses.

LIGHT, DARK AREAS

On a lawn, for instance, distinct rings of light and dark grass will develop when an inefficient revolving arm sprinkler is used, or the extreme ends will be rich green and the centre yellow or brown when the oscillating sprinklers are used.

The same effects can be noted in shrubberies, flower beds, and vegetable plots, and quite often dying plants or poor growth can be traced to an inefficient sprinkler.

It is quite easy to test the efficiency of any type of sprinkler you may be using, and to compare one type with another.

The only equipment needed is a dozen or so empty cans, such as are used for canned vegetables, and a foot rule or yardstick.

The cans should all be the same size, 15 or 20 ounce capacity, so that a direct comparison can be made of the water contents.

To test a sprinkler, the cans are placed three feet apart in a straight line from the sprinkler to just beyond the extreme spread of the water. The first can should touch the sprinkler base, or be just clear of any moving parts.

After the sprinkler has been run for 15 or 30 minutes, the amount of water in each can is measured with the rule and marked on a record sheet.

Some sprinklers deposit most water in a circle about five feet wide at a distance of seven feet from the sprinkler.

Others have good coverage near the sprinkler but the amount drops sharply after the six-foot mark.

PERFECT COVERAGE

Once you know the distribution pattern for your own sprinklers it is easier to figure where to place them for complete and perfect coverage. You work out the exact overlap needed to obtain the same amount of water in every can, so that all areas of the lawn, shrubbery, border, or vegetable garden will have the same amount of water applied.

You also find the answer to yellowing of some parts of the lawn, the wilting of some trees and shrubs, or the good and poor growth along the vegetable rows.

There is no one sprinkler that is perfect for all layouts and conditions. Every gardener should have a sprinkler to cover large areas, one without moving parts for small corners, and a canvas soaker to get under shrubs and thoroughly saturate the entire shrub border.

Too many of us have implicit faith in our sprinklers, believing them to be capable of a perfect watering job. But when we give them the ten-can test, we find out why some plants die from rootrot in too wet a soil while others nearby are almost killed by drought.

WEEK'S WORK

Bearded irises can be lifted now for division and replanting if the rhizomes have been too crowded and not flowering well

Cut the lavender spikes for drying just as lowest flowers open

Sempervivums and other rosette-forming rockery plants can be increased by embedding the base of detached rosettes into sandy soil and keeping slightly damp.

Pansies and violas can be cut back rather drastically if warm weather has curtailed blooming. Mulch around these plants with compost or old manure and water thoroughly.

Cucumbers and tomatoes can receive fertilizer after fruits begin to gain size. Keep water supply even.

Thin, water and weed the rows of vegetables.

When digging potatoes, dry them quickly in the sun and wind for half an hour or so. Then keep in an airy, cool, dark place to prevent yellowing of the tubers, for this changes the fine flavor of homegrown potatoes.

FOCUS

By BRAD NUGENT

Set for July 20 at Memorial Arena the promoter's original plans included a light show but because of the size of the Arena the idea was dropped.

As things stand now the show will also feature two Vancouver groups The Collectors and The Painted Ship.

The Doors, coming up strong since joining the Electra label, are currently riding high on the charts with "Light My Fire."

Within the top ten on almost all the charts across the continent they are one of the few groups around who have released simultaneously an album with a single hit.

Starting at 8 p.m. it should be a great show with no restrictions on seating or dancing so pick up those tickets at the Arena box office before they post SRO signs.

Eating in Kitchen

By PAULINE GRAVES

Unless you have a separate breakfast room, providing a place to eat in the kitchen is an absolute must.

The most common solution developed in recent years is the bar which also functions as a pass-through between kitchen and dining room or family room.

Shown here is an idea, by designer Doris Palmer, that takes from the bar the idea of a counter's being built to the wall, but incorporates the height and width of a table. The obvious solution here would have been to build a straight bar across the end wall, underneath the high, hanging cabinets.

Instead there's a narrow ledge that functions as a telephone area, which swings around to become a 28"-wide table and narrows to 23" at the end. Rounding the corners and narrowing the end makes for good traffic clearance, reducing the hazards of bruised hips for adults and bumped heads for little ones.

Both the counter, with its pass-through, and the storage area below, are completely accessible, due to the L-shape of the table and the fact that plenty of space was left between table and cabinets.

Israel Asks Ceasefire Along Suez

KEY CITY CAPTURED BY NIGERIA TROOPS

LAGOS (Reuters)—Federal Nigerian troops have captured the key eastern university city of Nsukka, 41 miles north of the breakaway capital of Enugu, military headquarters announced today.

Eastern forces of secessionist leader Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu were retreating southward from the city in dissarray, an army statement said.

HEAVY TOLL

Cong Rockets Cripple Base

DA NANG, South Vietnam (CP)—The huge U.S. air base at Da Nang was reeling today from a Viet Cong rocket attack that left eight Americans dead, 173 wounded and 42 airplanes wrecked or crippled.

It was the worst punishment inflicted on the U.S. base which has been hit twice before in the last five months.

The base on the South Vietnam's northern sea coast, launching pad for many of the bombing raids on North Vietnam, was shut down immediately after the attack.

Crews went out to repair one badly cratered 10,000-foot runway and sweep debris off of another.

The Viet Cong fired for 45 minutes early today from two positions 4.3 miles southwest of the huge base.

The attack also wrecked four air force barracks.

U.S. officers identified the rockets as 122-millimetre and of Russian origin. They had said earlier that some of the rockets were 140-millimetre but later reports showed only the smaller were fired.

TOLL MOUNTS

A huge fireball rose over the base and the whole sky turned fiery red as rockets hit ammunition and gasoline dumps and aircraft.

These in turn caused chain explosions to spread along the airield as flaming metal was flung into other aircraft and concussion set off bomb stores.

One rocket went through the roof of an air force barracks before exploding among the sleeping troops and two more of the wooden-frame barracks on either side caught fire and burned to the ground.

NINE-STOREY DEATH PLUNGE

Her name was withheld.

Police said they found the nude body of a woman, about 30 years old, in a parking lot.

A 38-year-old man was being questioned in connection with the death.

Appeal Made To Thant

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Israel asked today for United Nations intervention with Egypt to obtain an immediate and total ceasefire in the Suez Canal sector.

The Israeli delegate, Gideon Rafael, requested UN Secretary-General U Thant to instruct the UN chief of staff in the Middle East, Lt.-Gen. Odd Bull, to make the formal approach to Cairo.

Israel also urged that Bull speed up the deployment of UN military observers to supervise implementation of the ceasefire along the canal.

Rafael reaffirmed to Thant Israel's policy of "strict observance" of its ceasefire undertaking and its readiness to co-operate with Bull to this end.

Informed sources said the Israeli delegate was submitting a letter to the president of the Security Council, Endalkachew, Makonnen of Ethiopia, about today's clashes along the canal.

MEETING REQUESTED

But neither Rafael nor the chief Egyptian delegate, Mohamed Awad el Kony, asked for a meeting of the world body, as both did last weekend after a less serious outbreak of hostilities.

It was then that the council decided to send UN military observers to the canal zone to try to ensure observance of the ceasefire from posts on both sides of the line.

In his request to Thant today, Rafael referred to the "gravity" of the incidents in the canal area and he blamed Egyptian forces for renewing and continuing attacks on Israeli positions during the day.

Israel's request that Bull call upon the Egyptians to implement their ceasefire undertaking was apparently planned to coincide with the Norwegian general's arrival in Cairo at the head of the advance party of UN observers who will take up positions on the Egyptian side of the canal.

Other members of the UN peace teams were due to move into the area Sunday.

Meanwhile, informed sources said today Israel was losing much of the sympathy and sup-

Plane Kills Claimed In Mideast Dogfight

(Times News Services)

Israel and Egypt resumed air and ground fighting along the Suez Canal today and Jordan reported a brief exchange of gunfire between Jordanian and Israeli forces along the River Jordan.

Israel claimed its forces had shot down five Soviet-built MiG-21s of the Egyptian air force, four of them in dogfights and one by anti-aircraft fire. Israel admitted losing one plane—to anti-aircraft fire.

Egypt said its forces had downed three Israeli planes. It said all its aircraft had returned safely to their bases.

An Israeli spokesman said three Egyptian MiG-21 jet fighters were shot down in dogfights along the Suez Canal ceasefire line as the two sides renewed artillery duels after a day of sharp fighting Friday in which 33 persons were killed and 58 wounded.

An Egyptian military spokesman quoted by Cairo radio said two of the Israeli aircraft were shot down over Lake Bardawil while the third was downed over the Suez area.

UN observers were en route to the canal area to observe and report on compliance with the UN ceasefire that ended the six-day Middle East war June 10. Fighting has broken out in the area three weekends in a row.

In Amman, a Jordanian military communique said gunfight between Jordanian and Israeli troops broke out near the Damyia Bridge in the northern part of the Jordan Valley. It said Jordan had filed a complaint with the UN Security Council in New York.

The communique claimed the Israelis opened fire on a Jordanian patrol and that the patrol fired back, inflicting some casualties on the Israelis. It added that the Israelis reinforced their positions and fired twice more at the Jordanians. There were no casualties among the Jordanians, the communique said.

Rebellion Riots Take Lives of 14

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Looters were back in action today and sporadic gunfire crackled down rain - spattered streets as a frightened city, torn by racial rebellion, braced for more Negro rioting after three terrible nights of violence.

The death toll officially was counted at 14, including one white policeman gunned down by a sniper as he chased looters Friday.

In the Friday rioting, from midnight to midnight, the toll was 11, including two boys, 10 and 16 years old.

City Hospital said 13 Negroes died in its wards, 12 from gunshot wounds, and the other of a skull fracture in a riot-connected auto crash.

A night-long curfew was broken by frequent gunfire, from snipers, harassing patrols and from police and guardsmen blasting with rifles and shotguns.

One skirmish was halted by the arrival of armored national guard vehicles after 15 minutes of firing had kept soldiers huddled for safety in store doorways.

EXCHANGE SHOTS

PREMIER BENNETT HAILS EXPO ON B.C. DAY

'Turning Point for Young Nation'

MONTREAL — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia described Expo 67 today as the turning point for a young nation which needed to convince itself that it possessed "all the qualities of greatness."

Speaking at an open-air ceremony at Place des Nations as the world's fair marked British Columbia Day, the premier said:

"In one giant stroke here, on these magic islands in the St. Lawrence River, the people of Canada have proved to themselves that no task set for himself by man and his world is a task beyond the capacity of Canadians to carry it out."

Mr. Bennett spoke after the raising of the B.C. flag and after he and Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes were welcomed to Expo by Pierre Dupuy, commissioner-general of the world's fair.

About 1,500 Expo visitors, a majority of them apparently from B.C., turned out for the ceremony under a warm, summer sun and burst forth with cheers and applause as Mr. Bennett spoke.

After the ceremony, Gen. Pearkes and Mr. Bennett proceeded to the centre of Place des Nations and exchanged handshakes and greetings with numerous visitors from B.C. The party then proceeded to tour the pavilion of the Western Provinces.

During his address Mr. Bennett told the crowd at Place des Nations Expo's greatest contribution has been to demonstrate to Canadians "not just to the world but once and for all to ourselves—that there is in our nation an unlimited capacity for excellence."

He said Canada has accomplished great goals through its first 100 years as a nation but there has always been an undercurrent of feeling "that our progress was made under

Trip Around the World Might Develop for You

By TED GASKELL

And if you don't click for the globe-girdling, then there are four other exotic trips you can take aim at.

The contest, which opens July 22 and ends Sept. 2, is for black and white snapshots taken since July 1 last year.

There are three categories: The World in Which We live; People of the World, and Birds and Animals of the World.

Each week of the contest The Times will give a $10 prize in each category and at the end of the contest give a $25 prize for the best over-all picture in each category.

The major winners will be eligible for the national competition for travel and cash prizes.

First prize is a 30-day trip around the world for two plus $1,000 in spending money.

Second prize, 21 days in Europe for two with $500. Third prize is a 14-day trip to Mexico for two with $250. Fourth prize is a week in Hawaii for two with $100, and for fifth-prize winner, a seven-day trip to Mexico for two with $100.

For the first time this year there are special prizes for Canadians.

Seven special $100 merit awards are offered for pictures which did not win in the major categories. And for the Canadian best-of-show there is a $200 prize.

Just send in your snapshot but keep the negative. You may make your own prints or have them processed professionally but none should be more than 10 inches on the largest dimension.

A complete set of rules will be found on Page 18 of today's Times.

Read them, then take a look through last year's album or dust off your lens for new pictures.

'Risk of War Would Be Too Great'

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant said Friday that he never has recommended withdrawal of the United Nations Emergency Force from Egypt in his annual reports on the force because the risk of war following would be "much too great."

He made that observation in a report to the General Assembly giving details of the recent withdrawal of the force, which he ordered because Egypt withdrew consent for stationing it on Egyptian soil.

War broke out between Israel and neighboring Arab countries June 5 while the UN troops were being withdrawn and went on for five days before the Security Council got a ceasefire that left the Israelis in occupation of much territory of Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

Thant did not repeat his previous arguments that he had to withdraw the force because under an agreement between the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and Egypt, it could stay there only with the Egyptian government's consent.

Neither did he repeat his contention that the war was the result not of the withdrawal but of long-standing bad blood between the parties.

WAR FOLLOWED QUICKLY

Instead, he mentioned "the sudden outbreak of war in the Near East, the severe crisis in the United Nations and the disastrous shattering of peace in the area which soon followed the withdrawal of UNEF"—the initials by which the force is known.

"What would probably happen whenever UNEF might be withdrawn had been pointed out by the secretary-general in his reports on UNEF in preceding years," Thant said.

"This likelihood was why, despite increasing difficulties of financing the force and his belief that no United Nations peacekeeping operation would become relatively permanent, the secretary-general never recommended the termination of UNEF or even its conversion into a large-scale observation operation.

Thant said recent experience "points up the desirability of having all conditions relating to the presence and with withdrawal of a peacekeeping operation clearly defined in advance of its entry onto the territory of a host country."

But in most instances, he added, it is likely that a UN force will be needed so urgently in a particular area that "time cannot be taken to negotiate agreements on detailed conditions in advance of the entry."

... RIOTS

As daylight came, police still chased looters.

But with the end of the curfew at 6 a.m., traffic began flowing again. All cars had been routed around the Springfield Avenue section because of sporadic sniping.

Showers didn't seem to bother looters who, disregarding police, sneaked back again into already wrecked stores to search out more salvageable merchandise.

Two of Newark's major department stores, Bamberger's and Ohrbach's, did not open. Many other stores followed suit. Liquor stores and taprooms have been closed since Thursday.

Springfield Avenue, the main street in the Central Ward where the riot erupted Wednesday night, was quiet and nearly deserted. An eight-hour curfew ended at 6 a.m.

One of the few Negroes on Springfield was a little girl who was painting the words "Soul Sister" in white paint on the still unbroken glass of a beauty shop. The word "soul" has special significance for the neighborhood people, indicating Negro ownership. Cars that were unscarred bore the words "Soul Brother" chalked on windshields.

The city's 1,400 policemen, split into two 12-hour shifts, arrested more than 1,000 adults and juveniles.

Governor Richard J. Hughes remained in the ravaged city, ready to augment the 2,600 guardsmen with more men and more state troopers to quell what he called "a criminal insurrection."

Hughes said he was determined to restore law and order to Newark.

Negro guardsmen and Negro police stood eyeball to eyeball with the Negro rioters, and their supporters said "they're doing an excellent job—a hell of a job."

RIOTS FLARE UP

It reached a violent crescendo on a humid Friday night, as the darkness was pierced by gun flashes, searchlights and the flickering flames of buildings put to the torch by rioters.

About 4,000 helmeted police with riot guns and guardsmen with bayonets cordoned off the Negro riot centre, west of Newark's downtown business centre.

The quarantined area was widened when snipers and looters appeared outside the armed ring.

With the curfew a directive over the police radio: "Use your shotguns and revolvers. Use your shotguns and revolvers. That's what you have them for."

Acrid smoke still curled above the wreckage of Negro - area buildings, after the arrest of a Negro taxicab driver touched off the rioting Wednesday night.

Hughes declared the city a civil disaster area, enabling him to clamp on the curfew and shut off the sale and use of liquor.

Broken windows, burned buildings, looted shops, closed businesses added up to uncounted millions of dollars lost. No one in authority tried to total up the damage.

TOSS MOLASSES BOMBS

Negro youths in the Newark riot sector told reporters that Black Muslims took part in the violence and "they mix lye with molasses—and when they throw it at the cops, it sticks."

However, Hughes said there was no evidence that outside agitators were a factor in the rioting. He was inclined to blame it on what he called the "harping" of local civil rights leaders.

Among those arrested was anti - white Negro playwright LeRoi Jones. He was treated at a hospital Friday for riot injuries and later arrested and charged with having two loaded guns in his possession. He was held in $25,000 bail.

Among those who lost their lives in the rioting was a 10-year-old Negro boy, shot in the head. The white police victim was detective Fred Toto, 39, who was cited in 1964 for saving a youngster from drowning. The father of three, he caught a sniper's bullet near the heart.

port it has enjoyed at the UN.

Israel's firm refusal to pull back its troops without an over-all political settlement, its repeated defiance of General Assembly resolutions on Jerusalem and its scarcely-veiled hostility to the UN are all damaging its position, they said.

Thant's somber report Friday about Israeli air and ground attacks last month on retreating UN troops and looting of UN headquarters in the Gaza Strip have increased the sense of dismay at Firdan, north of Ismailia, about midway up the canal, an Israeli Army communique said.

Israel launched similar air attacks Friday to allow it to evacuate dead and wounded soldiers, it said, after other methods failed to silence the Egyptian artillery.

It said seven Israeli soldiers were killed and more than 22 wounded by Egyptian artillery, mortars and tanks on the canal's west bank.

Egypt said at least 26 Egyptians, including civilians, were killed and 36 wounded by Israeli shelling all along the canal. It accused Israel of "wanton aggression."

The flare-up was the longest of 13 clashes since the end of the June 5-10 Arab-Israeli war, in which Israeli troops captured the canal's east bank.

UN Force Was Attacked By Israelis, Thant Says

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) United Nations Secretary-General U Thant reported Friday that Israeli troops attacked the UN Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip shortly after the Middle East war broke out last month and looted its headquarters.

Israeli planes, tanks and machine-guns fired on an Indian supply convoy killing five Indian soldiers, and a Swedish and Indian group came under fire from both Egyptian and Israeli sides, he said.

Thant gave details of the alleged incidents in a report to the General Assembly on the winding up of the peacekeeping force, whose withdrawal, he said, provided the important lesson that "the United Nations should be strengthened so as better to serve the cause of world peace."

Canada had more than 700 men in the force, but they were withdrawn before the outbreak of the war.

Thant said when Israeli forces arrived at Rafah in the Gaza Strip an Israeli officer ordered the UN international and military staff, who had identified themselves as such, to lie on the ground.

The hospital commander finally got blankets to the UNEF group, "who were forced to spend the night on the sand in the open without food or water."

Thant said that vehicles, radios, tape recorders and clocks were missing after Israeli troops occupied the UNEF headquarters, and most of the office furniture, typewriters, fans and other property were removed by Israeli military personnel.

The report was expected to make a powerful impact on UN delegates still debating in the General Assembly how to deal with the Middle East crisis.

Labor Feud Talks Scheduled

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bid to resolve a dispute between the British Columbia Federation of Labor and four locals of the International Woodworkers of America will be made later this month.

Ray Haynes, federation secretary, said Wednesday a vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, will attend a Vancouver meeting on the feud.

The four IWA locals—Vancouver, Victoria, Duncan and the lumber inspectors—were suspended by the federation for refusing to publicly apologize for a scathing attack on CLC executive vice-president Joe Morris.

Mr. Haynes said a date for the session has not been set.

The IWA has threatened that unless the federation revokes the suspensions, the entire 30,000 members of the IWA in B.C. will withdraw from the federation.

"We looked at our powerful neighbors, whose development began before our own, and we felt that alongside their accomplishments our own were small indeed.

"But Expo 67 has changed all that.

"In years to come this time and place will be marked as the turning point for a young nation which needed to convince, not the world but only itself, that it possessed within itself all the qualities of greatness."

Also in the B.C. party were Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Pearkes, Mayor Tom Campbell of Vancouver, Mayor J. Palyga of Trail, T. L. Sturgess, former deputy minister of industrial development and trade and commerce, and L. J. Wallace, deputy provincial secretary.

Throughout today B.C. will provide entertainment in the Place des Nations including special bands from the province.

On hand to welcome the group was Euclide Laliberte, pro-mayor of Montreal, who represented Mayor Jean Drapeau.
